RADEK ACCUSES BRITISH

LIGHT PENALTY PREDICTED

MOSCOW, May 11 (Associated Press).—The assassination of M. Vorovsky, the Soviet representative at Lausanne, coming on top of the British note and the feeling in Russia that Marshal Foch's visit to Poland might mean another international combination against the Soviet régime, has caused a profound impression in Russian official circles.

The public was notified of the death of Vorovsky and the wounding of his colleagues by newspaper extras, which are rarely issued in Moscow.

There were all kinds of rumors tonight but nothing could be ascertained in official circles as to what steps the Government is considering.

Izvestia, commenting on the assassination of M. Vorovsky, who was considered to be one of Russia's ablest diplomats, places the "moral responsibility for the shameful crime upon the Fascisti, of whatever nation; upon the Swiss Government, which failed to protect the Russians, upon the great bourgeois powers which fanned anti-Soviet agitation, and upon the White Russians abroad, who are unceasing in their agitation."

The paper points out that it is the third assassination of prominent Communists, the first one having been that of Uritsky in Petrograd in 1918, which fanned the Red terror, and the second that of M. Volodarsky, who also was assassinated in Petrograd in that year.

Radek Holds British to Blame.

BERLIN, May 11 (Associated Press).—"Vorovsky's assassination is England's bloody answer to Soviet Russia's stand on the Straits question," was the declaration made by Karl Radek, the Soviet Chief of Publicity, in a statement issued upon his arrival in Berlin from Moscow today. He was accompanied by N. N. Krestinsky, the Soviet Ambassador to Germany.

"English propaganda against Russia," Radek said, "was responsible for the Lausanne murder. It was England's fault that the Swiss Government omitted measures to protect Vorovsky, although it was known that his life was threatened repeatedly.

"England contends that Russia is spreading Bolshevist propaganda in Europe which is damaging and destructive. But not a human being has yet been killed through our propaganda. The 'innocent' English propaganda—the propaganda of Lord Curzon at Lausanne—has, however, produced Vorovsky's dead body."

Radek complained that Lord Curzon had failed to continue the Lloyd George policy of seeking to establish a modus vivendi in the East.

"Lord Curzon," he added, "is pursuing a sort of Ruhr policy. But Russia is not the Ruhr and history will show who is the stronger."

Says Envoy Was Boycotted.

The Russian Embassy has sent its counselors to Lausanne to bring the body of Vorovsky here for a post mortem examination. It is announced that M. Ahrens, who was wounded by Vorovsky's assailant, refused to permit the Swiss officials to take charge of Vorovsky's body.

An "auspicious atmosphere" for the assassination of Vorovsky was created in Lausanne, it is charged by officials of the embassy, who declare that their envoy was persistently boycotted and barred from the customary diplomatic courtesies and accommodations. He was not permitted to communicate with his Government in code and was also unable to obtain courier service, they say.

"The Swiss Government accorded our envoy only such privileges as are usually granted to tourists or ordinary commercial travelers," one of the Soviet officials said.

The Soviet representatives in Berlin believe that Vorovsky was the victim of a plot by Russian emigres, and scout the idea that Swiss Fascisti were responsible for his death.

SWISS CALL IT TERROR SEQUEL

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LAUSANNE, May 11.—Swiss public opinion is clearly divided in its attitude toward Maurice Alexander Conradi, who killed M. Vorovsky, the head of the Russian delegation here, last night. One faction makes of him a hero and calls him the executioner of a Bolshevist leader, while another faction composed of Communists accuses him of being just an ordinary murderer.

It is the belief here that Conradi will either be acquitted or let off with a very light sentence. The Swiss generally, as much as any people, have condemned the Red terror, and they recall that the reason given by Conradi for his act was that the Bolsheviki killed his father, who was a rich chocolate manufacturer at Petrograd.

The Gazette de Lausanne says today: "Conradi and his family were the victims of the Bolsheviki, and in killing Vorovsky he avenged himself. How could the Swiss Government be responsible for that? It is very plain that the Soviets were responsible for Vorovsky's death. The Bolshevist leaders should

Murphy to Be Smith's Guest, 'Just to Have a Little Golf'

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 11.—Although reservation had been made tonight at Seaview Golf Club for Charles F. Murphy, the New York Democratic leader had not arrived at the club house up to 10 o'clock.

Governor Smith, who is spending a vacation at the club, said that "Mr. Murphy would probably arrive tonight or tomorrow morning." The Governor insisted that there was no significance in the fact that Mr. Murphy was to spend the week-end with him.

"We will just have a little golf together," he said.

The Governor and Mr. Murphy are expected to attend church at Atlantic City tomorrow morning.

RECIPROCITY MOVE IS MADE BY CANADA

ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE

Proposes 50 Per Cent. Cut in Duties—Canadian Tariff Lowered Generally in Budget.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, May 11.—Reciprocity with the United States on agricultural produce was proposed in the House of Commons today by the Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, in connection with the introduction of his annual budget.

The proposal was in the form of a resolution inserted in the Budget bill, reading:

"If the President of the United States, under authority of the United States Tariff act of 1922, determines to reduce by 50 per cent. the duties imposed by such act on the following articles, that is to say, cattle, wheat, wheat flour, oats, barley, potatoes, onions, turnips, hay, fish as enumerated in Paragraphs 717, 718, 719 and 720 of the said Tariff act of 1922, the Governor-in-Council may make such reductions of duties on similar articles imported into Canada from the United States as may be deemed reasonable by way of compensation for such reductions on Canadian products imported into the United States."

Mr. Fielding referred to the fact that a Canadian Minister had visited Washington and informed the Government there that Canada was still desirous of entering into reciprocal trade relations. The Minister in question was Mr. Fielding himself, and the visit occurred a year ago.

Mr. Fielding is also the man who negotiated with President Taft in 1911 for Canadian-American reciprocity. At that time he was also Finance Minister in the Cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The proposal then led to obstructionist tactics by the Conservative opposition in Parliament, and precipitated the general election of 1911, in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government was defeated.

The manufacturing provinces of Eastern Canada went strongly against the proposals, though these covered only agricultural products, as they declared that would be putting the opening for reciprocity in industrial products later. The agricultural provinces of the West supported the reciprocity proposals.

Twelve years have passed since then and the farmers of the West have increased their voting strength. With the Liberals in Parliament their members make up the majority which maintains Premier Mackenzie King in office.

It seems certain, however, that if the new proposals should be approved in Parliament, and should the American Government be prepared to accept the Canadian proffer, a vigorous political contest would be precipitated again in Canada, with the possibility of another election in the coming Fall.

Retaliation in Duty on Potatoes.

OTTAWA, May 11.—In retaliation for the increased duty placed by the Fordney tariff on Canadian potatoes, the duty on potatoes imported from the United States was increased from 20 cents to 35 cents per 100 pounds in the budget presented to the House of Commons today. The new rate will be effective tomorrow.

The duty on Canadian potatoes going into the United States is now 50 cents per hundredweight. The duty on potatoes imported from all countries imposing a duty on Canadian potatoes also was increased.

This and other tariff changes were announced in connection with the budget bill in Parliament today. The Finance Minister estimated a surplus of $14,000,000 on ordinary account in the current year, which would, however, be turned

Arrest Four for $50,000 Bank Robbery Including Driver of Brooklyn Money Car

After trailing them for almost two months detectives this morning arrested four men for the hold-up of a bank automobile in Brooklyn last January and the theft of the car and $50,000 in small bank notes. The institution was the Municipal Bank, 1,783 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, and the car belonged to Samuel Barnett, Vice President of the bank.

Frank Fulco, Barnett's chauffeur, who was driving the car when it was held up in Lincoln Road near Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested at the time, held for several weeks on a technical charge and secretly released at the request of the police. Detectives Daugherty and Caputo have been watching him ever since. They saw him meet Sam Uricho, 822 East 107th Street; Peter Amoross, 156 East 110th Street, and Charlie Spuchs, 97 East 116th Street, on many occasions and additional detectives were set on the trail of these men.

The detectives discovered that Fulco was apparently on ill terms with the others. While they were wearing diamonds and silk shirts and driving expensive cars, Fulco seemed to be almost destitute.

On April 28, Harry Pomerants, a restaurant owner was held up and robbed of $1,200 in his place at 111 East 115th Street. A few days later Uricho bought the Lafayette Inn, a hotel in Hartford. About the same time, Spuchs bought a taxi and a Hudson touring car. In the last three days Spuchs, the police say, and one of the others lost $1,200 at the races.

This morning Fulco was arrested at his home, 228 East 108th Street. After questioning him detectives went out and arrested the other three. As each confronted Fulco he stood up, pointed a finger at him and said, "That's the man. He was in that hold-up." This is as the police tell it. The prisoners themselves, held for a hearing later in the day, all deny their guilt, except Fulco, who, the police say, confessed his part.

CECIL SAYS AMERICA WILL ENTER LEAGUE IN OWN GOOD TIME

But He Hopes We Will Join It Soon Enough to Mold It on the Principles We Hold.

LIKES PEPPER'S SUGGESTION

Discussing Borah's "Outlawry of War" Idea, He Thinks That It Is Unworkable.

SEES THE LEAGUE GROWING

Its Power Greater Than Three Years Ago, and Only France Holds It Back Now.

By LORD ROBERT CECIL.

This is the third and last of a series of articles by Lord Robert Cecil on the results of his visit to the United States in behalf of the League of Nations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 11.—A proposal that is commonly put forward now in the United States is what is called "outlawry of war." Senator Borah is one of the chief exponents of this proposal.

As I understand it, it means, in the first place, a solemn declaration by all civilized countries that any war is an international crime. The supporters of the doctrine do not believe that that in itself would have any direct effect, but they think that its indirect and psychological effect would be very considerable.

They would probably agree that war, to be a crime, must be an aggressive war. Self-defense is as permissible in international affairs as it is for an individual.

Even so, there seem to be some difficulties which require consideration. Are the proposers of this scheme prepared to say that every conceivable aggressive war is an international crime? I am rather inclined to say I would go so far as that myself, but I have some doubts as to whether American opinion would agree with me. For instance, take the War of Independence. That in itself was not international, but was in the nature of an insurrection and would, therefore, be no doubt excluded from any condemnation of international war. But what about Lafayette? His action was a case of a foreign power taking part in internal hostilities, and therefore waging war against one of the parties to such hostilities. It is difficult to see how it can be described otherwise than as an aggressive war.

To meet this difficulty one of the supporters of the doctrine suggested that you might make an exception with regard to wars of liberation, but that seems to me a very hazardous line to take. To American sentiment wars of liberation are naturally very sacred. In other countries warlike operations of different character are equally sacred.

Suppose a nation, threatened by attack from a more powerful nation than herself, thinks she will best protect herself by striking before her enemy is ready. That would be an aggressive war, though its object might be ultimately defense, which indeed is the justification put forward for almost every war of recent times.

"Outlawry Must Have No Exceptions."

I venture, therefore, to think that if you are to adopt "outlawry of war" as a principle at all, it must be without any exception other than such as will apply to all wars equally. For instance, it may be possible to say that war should only be deemed an aggressive war if the aggressor is not ready to submit his dispute to some international tribunal for settlement. That follows the line of thought, somewhat modified, of Article XV., which requires nations to submit their disputes to discussion before resorting to hostilities.

Beyond this general condemnation of aggressive war, adherents of "outlawry of war" recommend the establishment of an international court with universal compulsory jurisdiction, explaining, however, that the decisions of the court are to be enforced by public opinion and not by military action.

With that part of their scheme I have already incidentally dealt when dealing with objection to acceptance by America of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

A third proposal was made while I was in America, which seemed to me very interesting. It was originally put forward by Senator Pepper. The Senator had been one of the strongest opponents of the League in 1920, believing that it was in the nature of a superstate and conceiving that its decisions were to be enforced by armed action. He was good enough to read what I had

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKLAND, Me., May 11.—All speed records of the United States Navy for vessels above the destroyer class were broken today when the Richmond, a 7,000-ton scout cruiser, built by the William Cramp & Sons Ship and Engine Building Company, showed an average speed, in five full hour runs over the measured mile outside this port, of 34.2 knots.

Her best single run over the course, timed by three official observers, was made at a speed of 34.48 knots, equivalent to 39.2 statute miles an hour.

These records were made in the course of the official standardization trials conducted by the Navy Department Trial Board, headed by Rear Admiral N. A. McCulley, as the Richmond is the first of her class of ten scout cruisers, now building for the Navy, to take her official trials over the Rockland course, her performances are being used as standards for the class.

The range of power developed was extraordinary, beginning at 900-horsepower for 9 knots' speed, and increasing to more than 94,000 at full power.

The Richmond is 550 feet long, of 55 feet beam and has a main battery of twelve six-inch rapid-fire guns.

INCOME TAX RULING EXEMPTS MILLIONS

MAY MEAN BIG REFUNDS

Revenue Bureau Decision Also Applies to Increases in Value Prior to March, 1913.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—As a result of an amendment to the income tax regulations involving the distribution of profits accumulated prior to March 1, 1913, the Government may be called on to refund millions of dollars which have been collected.

The new ruling applies largely to the distribution of such profits to its stockholders by a holding corporation out of profits accumulated by subsidiaries. Profits so distributed are held to be nontaxable, the provision being made, however, that all profits accumulated since Feb. 28, 1913, must first be distributed.

The decision, which reversed the former practice of the Internal Revenue Bureau, also applies to distributions out of increases in value of property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, when the income tax laws became effective.

Treasury officials said that it was impossible to estimate accurately the amount of taxes collected which are involved. They stated, however, that several large corporations had protested against the previous position taken by the Revenue Bureau, and that a considerable sum was involved.

Article 1043 of the tax regulations is the one amended. In the text of the regulation which follows the part added by the amendment is contained in the second paragraph beginning, "whenever one corporation," and ending with the words "are exempt from tax":

"Any distribution by a corporation out of earning or profits accumulated prior to March 1, 1913, or out of increases of value of property accrued prior to March 1, 1913 (whether or not realized by sale or other disposition), is not a dividend within the meaning of the act. The provision of the preceding sentence shall be applied uniformly to cases arising under the revenue act of 1916, the revenue act of 1917, the revenue act of 1918, as well as the revenue act of 1921.

"Whenever one corporation has received from another corporation distributions out of earnings or profits accumulated by such other corporation prior to March 1, 1913, or out of increase in value of its property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, and the receiving corporation, after having first distributed all of its earnings and profits accumulated since Feb. 28, 1913, distributes to its stockholders the amount so received by it from such other corporation, such distributions are not dividends within the meaning of the Revenue act and are exempt from tax.

"A corporation cannot distribute earnings or profits accumulated or increase in value of property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, unless and until all earnings or profits accumulated since Feb. 28, 1913, have been distributed. In determining whether a dividend is out of earnings or profits accumulated prior or subsequent to March 1, 1913, due consideration must be given to the facts, and mere bookkeeping entries increasing or decreasing surplus will not be conclusive.

"A distribution made by a corporation out of earnings or profits accumulated or increase in value of property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, is exempt from tax, even if in excess of the cost or other basis provided in Articles 1,561-1,563 and 1,568 of the stock on which declared. However, where any tax-free distribution out of earnings or profits accumulated or increase in value of property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, has been made, the distributee cannot deduct any loss from the sale or other disposition of the stock unless and then only to the extent that the cost, or other basis, exceeds the sum of (1) the amount realized from the sale or other disposition of the stock, and (2) the aggregate amount of such dispositions received by him thereon.

"Example—A purchased certain stock subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $10,000 and received in 1921 a distribution thereon of $2,000 paid out of the earnings or profits of the corporation accumulated prior to March 1, 1913. This distribution does not constitute taxable income to A. If A subsequently sells the stock for $6,000, a deductible loss of $2,000 is sustained. If he sells the stock for $12,000 a taxable gain of $2,000 is realized. No gain or loss is recognized if he sells the stock for an amount ranging between $8,000 and $10,000."

60,000 WILL WATCH BOUTS FOR CHARITY

A record crowd for this State and the second largest crowd anywhere at a series of boxing bouts will attend the five contests between heavyweight boxers this afternoon at the Yankee Stadium for the benefit of the Mayor's Milk Fund. With favorable weather, it is expected that a crowd of more than 60,000 will see the matches. Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday announced that the total advance sale so far had amounted to $250,000. The closing sale today, it is predicted, will bring an additional return of $150,000, making the total receipts $400,000. A profit of $250,000 for the Milk Fund was predicted by Promoter Rickard.

The chief bouts will be between Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion, and Floyd Johnson, young Iowa heavyweight, and Luis Angel Firpo, South American contender, and Jack McAuliffe 2d of Detroit. Each of these bouts is scheduled for fifteen rounds. A ten-round semi-final will bring together Fred Fulton, Minnesota heavyweight, and Jack Renault, a Canadian boxer, who formerly was a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. A six-round bout and a four-round encounter also are scheduled.

Incoming Fans Many.

A distinguished gathering is expected, almost as noteworthy as the crowd which witnessed the Dempsey-Carpentier bout in Jersey City two years ago. Many out-of-town arrivals have been reported at the large hotels, including the Biltmore, Belmont, Pennsylvania, Commodore, McAlpin, Waldorf and Martinique. Tickets have been printed to the number of 70,228, and the majority of these already have been disposed of. Although many tickets still are available, officials in charge of the carnival predicted yesterday that the capacity of the Yankee Stadium will be taxed if the weather is favorable.

The bouts will start at 3 o'clock, with the four-round encounter coming first. The gates will be thrown open this morning at 10 o'clock to admit holders of general admission tickets. These tickets, priced at $1 and $2, will be sold under an arrangement which will compel the purchaser to proceed into the stadium after obtaining his ticket. This has been adopted to prevent counterfeiting. Special ticket booths will be installed on the grounds to take care of the expected last-minute demand. The gates for holders of reserved seat coupons will be thrown open at noon.

The first of the feature bouts—the clash between Firpo and McAuliffe—is scheduled for about 4:30 o'clock, if the three preceding bouts go the scheduled distance. Knockouts, in any or all of these three bouts, will, of course, advance the time for the Firpo-McAuliffe scrap. The Willard-Johnson bout will start immediately after the Firpo-McAuliffe bout. So that baseball fans may have an opportunity of witnessing the boxing contests, President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants has arranged to have today's Giants-Pirates game start at 2 o'clock, an hour before the regular time. Principals in the bouts will weigh in at Madison Square Garden at 10 o'clock this morning.

Elaborate preparations have been made for handling a large crowd. The services of 500 uniformed policemen have been requisitioned, and in addition 190 plain clothes detectives have been assigned to the park. This staff will be stationed inside and outside the park under the direction of Inspector Ryan and Deputy Inspector Post. Promoter Rickard will also have an army of ushers in action.

Interest in the bouts is reflected also in the amount of betting on the outcome of the various fights. Many large wagers have been placed in this district.

The favorites in the betting are Willard, Firpo and Fulton. Willard generally was quoted favorite yesterday at odds of 7 to 5. Plenty of Johnson money was reported and there were indications that the supply of Johnson backing, coupled with the absence of Willard money, would even the odds before the men entered the ring. In the financial district, W. L. Darnell & Co. found no takers for $8,000 on Johnson to win the decision. Firpo was favored at odds which were anything from 2 to 1 to 4 to 1, with little McAuliffe money in sight. Little betting was recorded on the Fulton-Renault bout.

Willard in Fine Fettle.

All ten heavyweights yesterday were reported in excellent condition; resting after their period of hard training and confident of victory. Chief interest centres in the Willard-Johnson bout. The contest will see either the return of Willard as a possible opponent for Jack Dempsey, or the return of Willard to

POISON PEN LETTERS, SENT FOR 10 YEARS, RUIN SEVERAL HOMES

NOT A CASE OF BLACKMAIL

ALL LETTERS TYPEWRITTEN

Friends of George Maxwell, Suspected Author, Defend Him—He Is in London.

News of the indictment of George Maxwell, well known in the musical and social worlds of America and Europe, on the charge of slandering Mrs. Allan A. Ryan, wife of the financier, in letters to her husband and friends, was followed yesterday by charges that Maxwell had been carrying on a "poison pen" propaganda against women of prominence in New York for the last ten years.

Mrs. Ryan is the last of a series of nine women assailed and known to the authorities, according to information obtained at the District Attorney's office. The victims of the campaign attributed to Maxwell are mostly married women of middle age, whose names are familiar as social leaders or as the wives of wealthy men. A few of them are younger women, and an opera singer and a moving picture actress are among them.

The names of these nine women appear in 147 letters that have been turned over to the authorities by their husbands and friends. Maxwell was represented in all the letters as having known the women whose names were mentioned. Husbands were told that their wives were unfaithful, relatives and friends were advised of the details of alleged scandals, and other women were informed of Maxwell's affairs of the heart with pointed comments about his reputation as a Don Juan.

Prominent Families Get Letters.

Among the persons who received such letters about their friends but were not involved in the case in any other way, according to the authorities, were Almet B. Gallatin, a member of the brokerage house of Smith & Gallatin; Walter H. Merrall of Acker, Merrall & Condit; the late Enrico Caruso, the opera star, and his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Park Benjamin Caruso; Mrs. Louis Rodney Page of Philadelphia; the Countess Santa Eulalie, wife of a Portuguese Count and widow of John B. Stetson, the Philadelphia hat manufacturer; fellow-members of Maxwell in the New York Yacht Club, and close friends who belonged to the Calumet Club and Knollwood Country Club.

The receipt of the letters is said to have been followed by the most serious consequences in some cases. Homes are said to have been broken up because of the suspicion aroused by the linking of Maxwell's name with the names of married women. There are rumors of a man having died under mysterious circumstances, which strongly indicated suicide by gas, after he had received such letters about his wife, and of an unsuccessful attempt of his widow to end her own life by taking iodine. Other rumors tell of a woman who killed herself after being exposed to a campaign of calumny and of still another woman who had been driven insane, and is now confined to an asylum, as the result of the letters.

Maxwell is alleged to have mailed some of the letters—copies of those sent to husbands and relatives—to himself, and some to his wife, from whom he had been separated for some fifteen or twenty years. His name was not signed to any of the letters, most of which were anonymous. But the authorities say that 95 per cent. of them were written on a typewriter similar to one said to have been in an office to which Maxwell had access. Some of the letters were signed "Annie," the name of his 19-year-old daughter, and some were signed "Dee-dee," a pet name for one of the women attacked, and a name that, the authorities say, only he could know.

The motive for the attacks upon the

Colorado Pupils Win Strike To Have Flag Up on School

DENVER, May 11.—A dispatch to the Post from Trinidad says that 500 high school students there struck today and paraded the down-town section in a demonstration because the school did not fly the American flag every day.

The demonstration followed an address to the students yesterday by Alvin Owsley, National Commander of the American Legion. According to the Post, Owsley said:

"If I were you boys and girls, I would not attend a school where they failed to fly the American flag every day."

The flag was not flying yesterday, it is said, and the strike followed. As a result of the demonstration, flags were up today on all the schools in Trinidad and on the Court House.

CALL SUGAR BROKERS BEFORE GRAND JURY

IS AIMED AT SPECULATORS

Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller Asks President Harding to Join Boycott.

Subpoenas were issued yesterday by United States District Attorney Hayward calling upon several sugar brokers to produce their books before the Federal Grand Jury. This was taken to indicate a Grand Jury investigation into conditions of the sugar market and will be the first action by a Grand Jury since the price of sugar started to ascend.

Ostensibly, the inquiry will be merely to determine from the brokers' records whether the present price of sugar, raw and refined, is warranted by supply and demand and other elements that go to make up the market. But, it was pointed out, the function of a Federal Grand Jury—which does not conduct a John Doe proceeding—will be to determine whether a conspiracy existed or exists to maintain high levels in sugar prices.

The Grand Jury proceeding, it was explained, will be aimed at individuals and not at the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange. The Government's suit to obtain a preliminary injunction restraining the Exchange was dismissed several days ago by four Judges composing the United States Circuit Court.

In that action the basis of the Federal charge, formulated by officials of the Department of Justice in Washington, was that the Exchange as a unit had violated the Sherman Anti-Trust law and section 73 of the Wilson Tariff act. This section of the Wilson act applied the principles of the Sherman rules to importers. In dismissing the application the Circuit Court Judges filed merely a brief memorandum. Attorney General Daugherty has announced that he would appeal.

Inquiry Aimed at Speculators.

The Federal Grand Jury investigation is aimed at the speculators who are alleged to have manipulated prices. When the news of the action of Colonel Hayward leaked out during the day, there was a break in sugar "futures," ranging from 4 to 33 points, but it was explained that the decline had nothing to do with the report, circulated among the brokers, that one of their number had already been subpoenaed to present his books for the inspection of the Grand Jurors.

William Mason Smith of Van Vorst, Marshall & Smith of 25 Broad Street, counsel to the Exchange, said that no subpoena had been issued for the records of the Exchange, adding that the institution was not concerned in the matter at all. He admitted that he had heard the reported serving of a subpoena on one of the brokers.

Asks Harding to Join Boycott.

Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, Chairman of the New York Housewives' Sugar Committee, sent the following telegram yesterday to President Harding:

"Now that the process of law has failed, the women of New York City ask you to lend your public support to the women's boycott movement to bring the price of sugar down to a reasonable level. The Sugar Exchange yesterday, in boosting prices, showed its contempt not only for the Department of Justice

89 Killed, 2,727 Hurt on City Streets in April; Police Warned 8,000 'Jay Walkers' of Danger

Carelessness continues to cause a large proportion of street accidents, according to figures made public yesterday by Special Deputy Police Commissioner Barron Collier, in charge of the Bureau of Public Safety. A preliminary report of accidents for April shows that 89 person were killed and 2,727 injured in street accidents. Thirty-five persons were killed and 779 injured by vehicles while crossing streets in the middle of the block. Twenty-seven were killed and 549 injured at crossings. Forty-seven children under 11 years of age were killed and 1,104 injured.

More children than adults were killed and injured while "jay-walking," as the record shows that 25 children 16 years of age and under were killed and 414 injured while crossing streets in the middle of the block, while only 7 children were killed and 123 injured at crossings.

Stealing rides on vehicles continued to be a frequent cause of accidents, as three children were killed and thirty-two injured during the month in that manner. Playing in the roadway instead of on the sidewalks caused the deaths of six children and injury of 218. Playing games on the sidewalk and suddenly running into the roadway into vehicles resulted in the death of five children and injury to eighty-two. Nineteen were injured while roller skating in the roadway and forty-seven were injured while riding bicycles in a careless manner.

Other important causes of accidents during the month and the number of accidents attributed thereto are:

Forty-one boarding or alighting from vehicles in motion.

Eleven vehicles running up on sidewalks.

Thirteen struck while making repairs to vehicles on streets.

Eight vehicles backing up suddenly.

Eight by material falling from trucks.

Four pedestrians disobeying traffic officer at crossing.

Some of the most important of these items include 8,448 "jay-walkers" who received warnings not to repeat the practice.

NATIVE FEUD HALTS PARLEY

She Walked Miles in Thin Slippers and Was Succored by Friendly Peasants.

TIENTSIN, China, Saturday, May 12 (Associated Press).—Major Roland Pinger, U. S. A., one of the captive passengers of the Shantung bandit train raid, has sent a letter from the brigands' stronghold urgently recommending compliance with the outlaws' terms and imploring that Government troops be withdrawn.

It is declared that the bandits have refused to treat with the commander of the troops surrounding the stronghold because the chieftain of the outlaws and the army officer have a blood enmity. The commander is said to have executed the brother of the bandit chief, who himself was a bandit leader.

Negotiations are declared to be proceeding somewhat haltingly with a Kiangsu General, and if the brigands' demands for the troops' withdrawals is carried out it is believed the prisoners soon will be freed.

Chinese prisoners who have escaped are said to have recognized among the bandit leaders former officers of General Chang Ching-yao, Governor of the Province of Hunan in 1920, when the Rev. W. A. Reimert, an American missionary, was murdered by troops there. At that time the American Legation demanded that Chang be held responsible.

The bandits are said to have wrecked the Shanghai-Peking express as a last resort to throw off the Government troops that were pressing them.

The prisoners, it is reported, have demanded the withdrawal of the troops to Tsinan-fu and the restoration of their own former army status. Communication is being maintained with the bandits through peddlers who belong to the gang. No others are allowed to approach the stronghold.

Entrenched in a castellike retreat on the top of a mountain, which is tunneled and capable of resisting a siege, the outlaws virtually have the upper hand. It is said, however, they are somewhat short of water. It is estimated there are 8,000 bandits within a radius of fifty miles.

The two young sons of Majors Pinger and Allen, recently released by the bandits, arrived here today and were enthusiastic about their adventure.

The American youths, wearing Chinese clothing and apparently none the worse for their experiences, were met by their mothers. They declared they had become favorites with the bandits, who treated them well.

Anderson to Meet Bandits.

PEKING, May 11 (Associated Press).—Roy Anderson, an American of long experience in Chinese political affairs and a personal confidant of several important Tuchuns, or military leaders, has announced that he will personally visit the train bandits in their present stronghold at Paotu-ku for the purpose of negotiating an early release of the captives.

He was one of the first on the scene after the hold-up of the Shanghai-Peking Express and since has been counseling and co-operating with the American, British and French Consuls at Linching.

Paotu-ku, the bandits' stronghold, is southwest of Yihsien, Shantung Province, and forty miles west of the railroad. It is described as a large plateau approachable by only one narrow pass. The outlaws are reported to have long used the retreat as a rendezvous and to have stored large quantities of provisions there. They are said to be short of water, however, and are forced to make frequent sorties for it.

According to a report by a Chinese escaped prisoner, the leader of the brigands is a youth barely past twenty of the name of Sun Wu or Su Yei-yao. The leader is said to be willing to treat for the release of his prisoners provided the troops withdraw seventeen miles from Paotu-ku.

Anderson plans to take along food supplies for the foreign captives, who are declared to be subsisting on short rations. The Ministry of Communication has instructed representatives at Linching to render every assistance to the consuls and foreign relief parties.

J. A. Henley of San Francisco, one of the Americans captured by the Chinese bandits in the train raid of last Sunday, has been released, according to a dispatch from Linching, which reports his arrival there. Mr. Henley, it is added, declares the other foreigners still held by the bandits are in good health.

Shantung Governor Wants to Quit.

SHANGHAI, May 11 (Associated Press).—Tien Chung-yu, Military Governor of Shantung Province, today asked permission of the central Government to resign his office as self-punishment for his negligence in not avoiding the recent hold-up of the Shanghai-Peking Express and the kidnapping of a number of foreign passengers. The Governor, however, asked for the privilege of continuing his efforts to obtain the freedom of the captives.

The bandit chieftain, who controls the destiny of the kidnapped victims is said to be named Sun Mei-Lun, and he styles his followers the "reconstructive self-government army of Shihs." The chieftain admits his motive for the hold-up was money, but he also hoped to wrest force the withdrawal of the Chinese ment troops which have been harassing him.

The Chinese merchants and business leaders of Shanghai have called a mass meeting for Monday to protest against the unsuccessful efforts to suppress the bandit gangs. Resolutions also will be presented, it is said, condemning various Government officials and others who are blamed with the recent bandit outbreaks. It is expected that a call will be issued at the meeting for Chinese volunteers to protect the railways.

TSINAN-FU, Province of Shantung, China, May 11 (Associated Press).—Dr. Heimberger of the Shantung Christian University has left for Linching, guaranteed safe conduct to the mountain strongholds of the Chinese bandits, where he will be conducted to the foreign captives who were taken from the Peking express train last Sunday.

All the captives were reported today to be alive, but some of them, including J. B. Powell, an American newspaper man, were said to be ill.

LONDON, May 11.—A movement is under way in Peking, according to The Daily Mail's correspondent, to obtain a loan from the Indian Government of 50,000 Gurkha troops "to make a clean sweep of the bandit-ridden provinces." It is thought in Peking, the correspondent adds, that Indian troops would be less likely to frighten the villagers than white troops.

Miss Aldrich Recounts Experiences.

SHANGHAI, May 11 (Associated Press).—How the sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr., Miss Lucy Aldrich, one of the victims of the Shantung train bandit raid, was forced to sleep in a dog kennel outside a Chinese village, ravenous for food, clad only in a nightgown and dressing gown, and without a single person to befriend her, was told to The Associated Press today by Dr. Jacob G. Schurman, American Minister to China.

Dr. Schurman met Miss Aldrich at Tsinan-fu after her release by the bandits, and in her own words retold to The Associated Press the graphic story of her harrowing experience after the capture.

"When the train was derailed by the bandits she thought at first it was an ordinary wreck, and then a thought flashed through her mind the commotion might indicate an outbreak of one of China's incipient wars. Her first thought was for the jewels she had with her—family heirlooms—and these she was able to hide before she was seized by the bandits. Having done this, she was barely able to put on her slippers and a dressing gown when a brigand entered her compartment. The robber, a dirty, ragged, turculent coolie, carried a rifle and bayonet.

"'Then,'" said Miss Aldrich, "I was marched off the train and herded outside with the other passengers. We all were cold in our night dresses and gowns.

"The succeeding hours were a nightmare. There were about twenty bandits in our convoy, all carrying bundles of loot.

"I tried to forget my own suffering in the chilly air and with my feet bruised by the rough trail through my thin slippers, for others were more scantily clad than I, and many of them were barefoot.

"We toiled on through the night, sometimes along narrow footpaths, and sometimes over rough fields.

"Dawn showed the outlines of the mountains ahead and my heart sank as I contemplated the distance we had to go, strung out along the way in single file.

Chinese Captives Weep.

"In the gathering daylight I noticed that several men who had started in our party from the train among the prisoners no longer were with us, and I asked our guards where they had gone. I was told that they had been sent in another direction.

"Under the pitiless beating, prodding and sometimes stabbing of the guards to make the Chinese prisoners keep up the fast pace set by the brigands, several of these began to cry piteously.

"Just when I felt that I must drop from exhaustion one of the Chinese prisoners near me sank to the ground, unable to rise again. A bandit poured out a torrent of oaths and abuse, dropped his bundles of loot and fired his rifle point blank into the man on the ground.

"This act terrified the remainder of the prisoners and we began to realize our desperate plight.

"We trudged stolidly on, nobody speaking, and finally we reached the wooded foothills. We climbed upward and when we reached the top I sank down in my tracks.

"Then the bandits began sorting out their plunder. It was a miscellaneous array, jewels, clothing, bedding, money, door handles, brass fixtures taken from the train, one mattress and some pillows.

"It was only then I discovered that throughout the terrible march from the scene of the hold-up I had been carrying some of my rings clenched in my hand.

"Some of the articles they had stolen puzzled the brigands. They passed a hot water bag from hand to hand in a vain effort to fix its use. A tube of tooth paste not only baffled them, but frightened them as well, but when I undertook to demonstrate its use they laughed aloud.

"One of the marauders tried on Miss MacFadden's hat and I was watching him when another walked toward me and poked his carbine into my face. Despairingly I mustered a smile, trying to convince him that I was not afraid to die. This caused him to laugh and he even paid me the compliment of patting my shoulder.

"A group of the gang's leaders held a parley. Then one of them turned to me, pointed back into the distance the way we had come and all marched off, leaving me alone.

Feared to Leave the Spot.

"I waited for some time, fearing they would return and then set out on the back trail.

"My feet were so sore that I could hardly walk and my wrists were black and blue from being dragged along by my captors.

"I trudged along throughout the day seeing only an occasional inhabitant of the country and all these invariably fled at my approach. Then it began to rain but just as darkness fell I discovered a village ahead. I managed to drag myself painfully toward it only to discover that it was a walled community and that the gates evidently had been closed for the night.

"I feared I would not be able to survive the hunger, pain and exposure until another dawn and I beat upon the gates with stones to attract the attention of the villagers. But it was useless.

"Bitterly disappointed, I staggered along the outside of the wall until I encountered what appeared to be a dog kennel. Fearfully I crept into it and there I spent the night.

"Dawn brought curious countrymen, timidly at first, to look at me. Some of them ran away again but I permitted others to search me—they evidently wished to make sure I was unarmed—and when they thus were reassured they escorted me into the village, the populace turning out to look me over as I passed along.

"Completely surrounded by the villagers I was able to make known my need of food. When they understood my need they could not do enough for me. They bathed my sore feet and simultaneously offered me food, the while jabbering ceaselessly.

"These peasants truly were good Samaritans. When I had rested they took me to a larger town where there were some foreigners and there I was provided with clothing. From there I reached the railroad and took the train to Tsinan-fu."

PEKING, May 11 (Associated Press).—Miss Lucy Aldrich remained in a hospital here today, recuperating from the nervous shock caused by her day's captivity in the hands of the Chinese bandits. She has been in seclusion under medical care since the bandits released her.

AGREES TO INQUIRY INTO THE KIDNAPPING

Chinese Government and Representatives of Powers Will Cooperate Fixing Responsibility.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A comprehensive inquiry will be made into the circumstances of the hold-up by Chinese bandits on Lincheng Sunday of the Shanghai-Peking express and the subsequent capture of Americans and others.

The State Department received information from Peking today that the investigation was decided upon after a conference between the diplomatic corps in Peking and representatives of the Chinese Government, who agreed to the proposal of the diplomatic corps.

The investigation will be made by delegates from Chinese departments and the foreign consular representatives and will seek to ascertain the circumstances of the hold-up, the responsibility of the civil and military authorities and whether there was any collusion between the brigands and the train crew. The inquiry will be conducted at Lincheng and Minister Schurman has asked Consul Davis there to represent the United States.

The British Consul at Tsinan-fu and the French and Italian consular officers are receiving similar instructions from their legations.

Minister Schurman had a conference at Nanking yesterday with Military Governor Chi, who indicated that negotiations are in progress between his representatives and the bandits for the liberation of the foreigners held captive by the bandits. When the captives have been released, Governor Chi told Minister Schurman the Peking Government would take up the matter of a campaign to exterminate the bandits.

"The Department has received information from Shanghai to the effect that Minister Schurman yesterday had a long conference at Nanking with Military Governor Chi, who is a powerful adherent of Marshal Tsao Kun, and who is the prop of the Peking Government long the lower Yangtze.

"Governor Chi stated that at the very outset he had sent troops and that he now had advisers in Linching in order to assist in bringing about a pacific arrangement with the bandits for the liberation of the foreigners held prisoner on the understanding that the bandits shall be paid a ransom by the Chinese Government. Governor Chi stated that after this case had been settled the Peking Government would consider a general policy for the extermination of bandits. The Governor went on to say that the Government was endeavoring by means of the natives of the locality to get food and clothing to the foreign captives.

"Minister Schurman stated to Governor Chi that in this case time was the most important element, that delay of one day might cause the death of a foreigner by starvation or shooting and air intervention or complication might be precipitated by one such death.

"The Peking Government, Marshal Tsao Kun, the Shantung Military Governors and Governor Chi all believe that liberation of the foreigners may be expected at any time.

"Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham reports from Shanghai that F. W. Pratt and Mrs. Pratt of Richmond, Va., were not on the captured train and are now in Shanghai."

Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese Minister, who recently returned to Washington from China, called at the White House today. The visit was purely one of courtesy, the Minister wishing to pay his respects after his long absence. Minister Sze later expressed the belief that the Americans now held by the bandits would soon be released. Basing his opinion on knowledge of the methods of banditi in China, he expressed the belief that the bandits had seized the foreigners largely for their own protection, well knowing that the Government would not take military steps against them so long as they held the foreigners as hostages.

MACHOLD PRAISED AS PARTY LEADER

HYLAN ATTACKED BY MILLS

Declares Mayor Is Responsible for Transit Delay—Assembly Record Defended.

A testimonial dinner to H. Edmund Machold, Speaker of the Assembly, was held last night at the National Republican Club, 54 West Fortieth Street. Many of those present considered it the launching of Mr. Machold's boom for Governor. Buttons bearing the Speaker's picture were worn by the diners, who included every one of importance in the local Republican organization.

The Speaker defended the work of the Assembly majority during the session of the Legislature just closed, and he declared that he would follow Governor Smith through the State and answer the latter's criticism regarding the Assembly's record. The Governor's criticism, he said, was not sincere.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, Speaker Machold and others blamed the city administration for not getting transit relief. Mayor Hylan's obstinacy in refusing to compromise, Mr. Mills said, was responsible for the present transit situation.

"Transit conditions in New York City," said Mr. Mills, "are literally hideous. There is no cure for them save by subway construction. Subways could be built under the existing law, but subways are not being built because the Mayor of this city obstinately refuses to co-operate with the State body charged by law with responsibility for planning and regulation. For two years the Mayor has been shouting, 'Give us complete control and I guarantee a prompt solution.'

"Mr. Machold, who, let me interject, showed an amazing knowledge of our transit problem in refreshing contrast to the ignorance so frequently manifested by the head of the city government, offers on behalf of the Assembly and in deference to the home rule sentiment of New York City 'unqualified control of all construction to the city Administration. He went further. He offered, subject to a popular mandate, the right of operation by the municipality. And what happened? The Mayor declined. Why? Because, if you please, the State reserved its historic right to regulate. Yesterday they were shouting construction and operation. Offered these, they now have the nerve to clamor that the construction is not the key to the situation, but regulation. Can insincerity and falsehood go much further?"

Representative Mills insisted that the fortunes of the Republican Party in the State are at low ebb.

"Old and tried leaders have retired or passed away," he said. "We must look to the new men and to the young men, but as long as we recognize that political action must be based on convictions and principles, and that character is the essential quality for political leadership, there is no fear for the future.

"Mr. Mills declared that Speaker Machold is a man 'who has arrived,' and the one man in the State to whom Republicans must look for guidance and direction. To Speaker Machold's wisdom and courage, he said, 'were entrusted not only the fate of the party and of its principles, but to a very great extent the welfare of the State itself.'

Former Senator Nathaniel Elsberg, President of the Republican Club, presided. Other speakers, besides Representative Mills and Mr. Machold, were Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Harry M. Sage, Republican leader of Albany. Former Governor Charles S. Whitman, County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig, Charles D. Hilles, former Senator William M. Calder and Simon L. Adler occupied seats at the speakers' table. United States Senator Wadsworth and former Governor Nathan L. Miller sent word they were unable to be present.

MUNICH PUTS BAVARIA UNDER MARTIAL LAW

BERLIN, May 11.—The Munich Government has put Bavaria under martial law, as the Cabinet members have become convinced by the evidence submitted by Federal agents that an attempt to overthrow the present form of government by Hittler's cohorts and other so-called patriotic leagues was imminent. It was also proved to the Cabinet that the Chief of the Munich police, Noarts, had permitted himself to be fooled by Hittler, and Noarty has been requested to resign.

Hittler, who is rapidly losing his popularity, has decided on a desperate coup to reassure his followers, who clamored for immediate action. This justified the proclamation of martial law. Ordinarily the right to declare martial law in any part of the federation is vested in the Federal President. Many arrests in Munich are expected.

FIVE AUTO DEATHS REPORTED IN A DAY

TWO CHILDREN LOSE LIVES

Several Auto Victims in Hospital May Die—Many Hurt in Accidents.

Five persons were killed and a score injured in automobile accidents in New York and the vicinity yesterday.

Philip Kennedy, 30, a driver for the Borden Farm Products Company, was crossing the Long Island Railroad tracks at Myrtle Avenue in Flushing yesterday when the truck which he was driving was struck by a fast electric train, en route from the Pennsylvania Station to Whitestone Landing, L. I. Kennedy was thrown from the seat and killed. John Wegman, 23, of 45 Nurge Street, Maspeth, L. I., the helper, received a fractured skull and other injuries. He was taken to Flushing Hospital and is not expected to live. Members of the train crew said that the gates were down and that Kennedy attempted to cross in front of the train despite warnings.

Carmello Riesa, 4, of 322 Plane Street, Newark, N. J., died of injuries received when she was knocked down by an automobile yesterday in front of her home. The automobile was operated by Joseph Talkowsky of 150 Florence Avenue, Brooklyn. He was held on a technical charge of homicide.

Mattie Sallembrino, 10, of 59 Bayard Street, Manhattan, was knocked down and run over late yesterday, by an automobile truck while he was playing in front of his home. The truck was driven by Edward Mayer, 24, of 129 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn. The boy died in an ambulance while being taken to Beekman Street Hospital.

Calvin Maple of 33 Edward Place, Princeton, N. J., was killed, and two men seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a motor truck in Kingston, N. J., ten miles south of New Brunswick yesterday. The injured are Frederick Duncan of 48 Moran Street, and his brother, Henry Duncan, of 200 French Street, both of Trenton, N. J. Both men are in a serious condition at Princeton Hospital.

The truck was driven by Tony Gambonia of 1,603 Twenty-sixth Street, Philadelphia, and is owned by the Adelphia Ice Corporation of that city. Gambonia said the automobile was passing him at a high rate of speed when one of its mudguards sideswiped the truck, causing the automobile to overturn.

Thomas Mitchell of 14 Islington Place, Jamaica, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile truck at 134th Street, near Amsterdam Avenue. The truck was driven by Jerome D. Lavérty of 2,448 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, and is owned by the United States Trucking Corporation. Laverty is held on a charge of homicide.

Adolph Nemec, 15, of 306 East Seventy-fifth Street, was treated at Flower Hospital for severe cuts of the left hand received when he was struck by a southbound taxicab at Sixty-fifth Street and Avenue A. Nemec was riding a motorcycle when injured. The taxicab sped away and disappeared.

Aaron O'Kis, 7, of 2,162 Madison Avenue, was playing tag in Fifth Avenue, near 125th Street last night when he was injured by an automobile owned and operated by Arthur Kehoe of 308 West Ninety-ninth Street. The boy was taken to Harlem Hospital with a fractured skull.

John McGregor, a chauffeur, of 248 West Forty-ninth Street was sentenced to ten days in the workhouse and had his license revoked by Magistrate Frederick B. House in the Traffic Court, where he was arraigned for reckless driving. The complainant, Seymour L. Samuels, a tenant of 1,961 Madison Avenue, says McGregor demolished his automobile in a collision at Riverside Drive and Ninetieth Street Thursday.

SHOTS HALT AUTOIST WHO HIT POLICEMAN

One Officer, Who Was Knocked Down, Fires Revolver and Detectives Catch Taxi Driver.

As Patrolmen John Chambers and David Kehoe of the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station were crossing Eighth Avenue at Forty-eighth Street early this morning, they were knocked down by a taxicab speeding northward. Chambers lost consciousness, but Kehoe pulled his pistol as he fell and opened fire at the driver, who failed to slacken speed.

A patrolman on post took up the fire and three detectives, touring the precinct in an automobile raced into Eighth Avenue and gave chase, all three firing.

The taxi driver turned into Fifty-first Street on two wheels and was nearing Broadway when he realized that his pursuers were close upon him and stopped.

The prisoner, Edward McMahon of 233 East Ninety-fourth Street admitted, according to the police, that he had stolen the taxicab and also that he had spent fifteen of his twenty-seven years in prison. He was charged with felonious assault.

HOLT DENIES INVITING WILSON TO MEETING

Says Report of Big Pro-League Demonstration Here in June, 1924, Is Without Foundation.

Denial of the report that he had been instrumental in inviting former President Wilson to appear at a pro-League demonstration in Madison Square Garden was made yesterday by Hamilton Holt in the following telegram:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"While lecturing in New England on the accomplishments of the League of Nations, I have just been informed that you published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 9, under a 'Special Dispatch' line from Washington, a report to the following effect:

"'First, that I sent two lady emissaries to ex-President Wilson to invite him to appear before a 'monster meeting' in Madison Square Garden, New York, to be held just before the assembling of the Democratic National Convention in 1924 to urge the Convention to put a League of Nations plank in the platform; second, that the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association, of which John H. Clarke, formerly Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, is President, is inviting Lloyd George, General Smuts and Cardinal Mercier to visit the United States to lecture in behalf of the league.

"'All these statements are news to me. I have never reached the enviable and exalted position in life where I could indulge in sending 'emissaries' to anybody for any purpose whatsoever, but even if I had, I would never think of approaching Mr. Wilson with any such fool proposal. The statement of your correspondent is without foundation.

"'As Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association I ought to be expected to have some knowledge of its future plans, but up to the last meeting of the Executive Committee which I attended last week a proposal to bring Lloyd George, General Smuts and Cardinal Mercier to the United States had never been discussed seriously or otherwise. This statement is likewise made out of whole cloth.'

"HAMILTON HOLT."

DR. HIRSHBERG GETS 4 YEARS IN PRISON

Associates in Winthrop Smith & Co. Are Sentenced to Shorter Terms.

Dr. Leonard Keene Hirshberg, a partner in the bankrupt brokerage firm of Winthrop Smith & Co., one of five persons found guilty of using the mails to defraud investors, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Learned Hand to four years' imprisonment in the Atlanta Penitentiary.

Winthrop Smith, the 24-year-old partner in the firm and the alleged victim of Dr. Hirshberg, was sentenced to one year and one day in the same institution. Cornelius J. Kelly, a broker who was associated with the firm, received a sentence of nine months in the Essex County (N. J.) Penitentiary. Charles J. McKnight and J. J. Finan, employes of the concern, who pleaded guilty and testified for the Government, received sentences of three months and one month in the Essex County (N. J.) Jail.

In imposing sentence, Judge Hand referred to Dr. Hirshberg as the leading spirit in the enterprise which had taken thousands of dollars from poor persons. Smith, by order of the Court, had been examined by two alienists, who reported that his mentality was not above that of an ordinary boy ten or eleven years old. Judge Hand told Smith that he was probably only a tool of the older man.

Dr. Hirshberg's manipulations of the affairs of the Smith concern yielded returns, it was said, of approximately $1,000,000 during the few months between the time it was organized and last September, when it passed into the hands of a receiver. The firm had offices in New York and Baltimore.

Dr. Hirshberg is about forty-five years old. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins, and also has studied in Vienna, Berlin and at Harvard. He is the author of several works on medicine, and for a time was an instructor in the Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons.

Prosecutor McCoy said that counsel for Dr. Hirshberg and Kelly had announced that an appeal would be taken. Pending it, Dr. Hirshberg is free on $20,000 bail and Kelly on $10,000.

POISON PEN LETTERS RUIN SEVERAL HOMES

women was not blackmail, nor was any gang of international swindlers involved, as some reports have had it. One man was responsible for all the letter writing, according to the authorities, and his only accomplices, if he had any, were unwitting ones, who may have posted some of the letters for him. The authorities believe that no ordinary motive actuated the letter writer, and that the reasons for his venomous acts must be found in the field of abnormal psychology.

Nothing has been heard from Maxwell, who is said to be in London, in reply to the charges made against him. His attorney, Nathan Burkan, declined to see reporters yesterday when they sent him word of their mission.

Julius Rosenthal, a friend and business associate of Maxwell, denied that Maxwell could have had anything to do with the writing of the poison pen letters. He said that Maxwell had received some of the letters himself and that his attorney had turned them over to the authorities. According to Rosenthal, Maxwell's trip abroad was on business, according to his annual custom, and was not a flight from prosecution.

Whether Maxwell can be brought back to America under an extradition warrant is a question upon which the authorities are not agreed. District Attorney Joab H. Banton announced last night that Mr. Ryan had asked him to have Maxwell extradited, and that he intended to study the evidence in the case to see if the offenses charged are extraditable. Maxwell is charged with forgery in the third degree and with sending obscene and scurrilous matter through the mails.

Maxwell is described as a remarkably distinguished looking man of about 53 years of age. He is tall, handsome, broad shouldered, and a trifle inclined to stoutness. He has an impressive mustache twirled and pomaded Kaiserlich fashion, and has a ruddy, healthy complexion. His friends say that he has a sort of "Continental" air about him and his grand manner, together with his habit of dressing in the height of fashion, his command of many tongues, and his wide knowledge of music and art, have given him the entree for many years to some of the most interesting social and musical circles here and abroad.

He is not only the President of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, which has offices at 56 West Forty-fifth Street, a position which he has held since the organization of the society in 1914, but he has been the American manager for years of G. Ricordi & Co., whose New York branch is at 14 East Forty-third Street, an international music publishing house, which has offices in London, Paris, Berlin, Milan and other European musical centres, and is sometimes referred to as "the music trust," because it controls the scores of so many great operas.

Maxwell is of Scotch-English descent and has the manners, according to his friends of the typical English gentleman of culture and refinement. The authorities say that he has lived in this country for thirty years, but has never been naturalized. He is said to have occupied bachelor apartments for some years at 270 West Ninetieth Street, while his wife and daughter maintained a separate home at 11½ West Eighty-fourth Street.

Some of the letters written to the friends and relatives of the women whose names were linked with Maxwell's seemed to indicate that it was really the author of the letters, he desired to be divorced from his wife and that Mrs. Maxwell would not divorce him. The letters referred to an allowance of $100 a month Maxwell paid for the support of his wife and daughter under a separation agreement. Mrs. Maxwell and the attorney who drew up the agreement confirmed the fact of such payments in statements they have made to the authorities. Maxwell's daughter is said to be employed in a rug store, earning her own living.

According to the authorities, another point that convinces them that Maxwell was their author is that the letter writer described Maxwell's bachelor apartment in such detail as its occupant alone would be expected to be able to supply. In telling of alleged visits of women to Maxwell's apartment, the letter writer described Maxwell's bedroom as "the yellow room," his sitting room as "the green room," his drawing room as "the blue room," and so on, also giving the exact relationship of one room to another, such as the music room to the bedroom.

Whoever wrote the letters did not use his own handwriting in any part of them. He typed both the letters and envelopes, and also a few postal cards which were included in the lot. In the case of those that were signed, whether by the name "Annie" or the nickname "Dee-dee" the signatures were typed. So were the "return" notations on the envelopes which directed the letters, if not delivered in a certain time, to Charles M. Billings in some cases, in other cases to William Butler Duncan. Mr. Billings is Secretary of the Guaranty Safe Deposit Company and Mr. Duncan is a well-known yachtsman.

Both these men were fellow members of Maxwell at the New York Yacht Club, and the envelopes directed that the return, if any was necessary, should be made to them at that address. Both Mr. Billings and Mr. Duncan told the authorities they knew nothing at all about the matter, until they heard their names had been used. The authorities are convinced that the letter writer used their names either to divert suspicion from himself or in the vein of malicious mischief that seemed to characterize his entire writings.

Intimate Details Given.

The letters went into the most intimate details of Maxwell's alleged relations with the women upon whom the attacks were made. The most astounding statements were made. Maxwell was pictured as having made a trip to Europe with one married woman and to Mexico with another.

One affair ended, according to the letters, when Maxwell tired of the woman and told her he no longer cared for her. The authorities believe that if there is any truth in the allegations contained in the letters about Maxwell's conquests, and that if Maxwell really wrote them, he may have done so partly in order to rid himself of affairs that had become cloying. As pictured by the letters, he quickly tired of his intimates and sought new conquests.

One of the women whom the letter writer named as a friend of Maxwell was the wife of an army officer on Government official in Washington. She was the target of a vicious campaign of slander mailed to her husband and all her friends in the smart set in Washington soon after the end of the war. Her home was broken up and her husband died soon afterward. This is the case in which Maxwell is charged according to the authorities, of suicide by the husband and attempted suicide by the widow. After her husband's death the woman actually took iodine, but explained after her life had been saved that she had taken it by accident. She has been ill ever since the tragic occurrence and has left Washington. Until recently she has been living in New York, but has left her residence since the news of the Maxwell case has been published.

Like other rumors of terrible consequences—death and insanity—following upon the poison pen letters, the authorities have been unable to run down the rumors about the suicide of the Washington man. There has been great difficulty in getting witnesses to appear against Maxwell because of the general abhorrence of being mixed up in such an unsavory case. Not even those whose only connection with the case has been that of recipient of an unsolicited letter about friends have been anxious to give information to the authorities or to testify before the Grand Jury. And nobody has been willing to talk for publication about the affair.

In the Ryan case, however, Mr. Ryan took the letters he received about his wife directly to District Attorney Banton and demanded an investigation.

"I have every confidence in my wife," Mr. Ryan told the District Attorney, "and I am not going to let them break up my home."

Ryans Have Six Children.

Mrs. Ryan, who is 44 years old, was Sarah Tuck of Philadelphia before her marriage. She has six children, the oldest of whom is 19 years old and is a junior at Yale, and the youngest of whom is 8 years old. Mrs. Ryan and her five youngest children are now said to be traveling abroad.

In addition to the letters he had received himself, Mr. Ryan took to District Attorney Banton, or had sent to him, various letters that had been mailed to friends of the Ryans, including Mrs. Page in Philadelphia, the Countess Eulalie and others.

The case has been worked up under Mr. Banton's direction by Assistant District Attorney Edwin E. Kilroe, who presented the 147 letters and a large number of witnesses to the April Grand Jury, which returned the indictment. Mr. Kilroe examined about 120 witnesses during his investigation and called about twenty of them before the Grand Jury.

Many of the witnesses at first shrank from the ordeal of telling their stories but were inspired by Mr. Ryan's example to help him in the attempt to put an end to the "poison pen" campaign for good and all. Mr. Kilroe began with the first of the letters in 1918, and presented evidence in chronological order to show how similar letters, all apparently written by the same person, had been mailed to friends and relatives of the nine women in the decade from 1913 to 1923.

At least one of the women who was named in the slanderous letters went before the Grand Jury to testify about the receipt of such missives by her husband and friends, and to deny indignantly the charges made in them. Another woman marshaled her friends, who had received such letters about her, and brought them to the District Attorney's office with her to add force to her denials. Husbands and other relatives likewise made statements in defense of their wives' good names.

The authorities may call other women, who have been slandered, before the Grand Jury if they return to the jurisdiction of the New York courts. One of the women mentioned is in Europe, another is in California and another is traveling with an opera company.

Mrs. Maxwell has assisted the authorities by turning over the copies of the letters sent to her, and she has also testified before the Grand Jury. Maxwell's attorney, Mr. Burkran, gave the authorities copies of the letters sent to Maxwell, and is said to have declared at the same time that he did not believe that Maxwell had written the letters or had had anything to do with them.

Recipients of Letters Silent.

Persons mentioned by the authorities as having received some of the "poison pen" letters about their friends had nothing to say to reporters yesterday, or denied having received any such letters. Mrs. Caruso refused to talk to a reporter who inquired at her home. E. Clifford Potter said he had no time to discuss the matter last night.

Mrs. Orsini said she had not received any such letters.

It was said by the authorities that Mr. and Mrs. Caruso, Mr. Draw and Mr. Potter all received scurrilous letters about each married woman of their acquaintance, and that those received by the woman and her husband, who denounced the letter writer to the authorities and asserted his utmost confidence in his wife.

At the time that the foregoing incident occurred, it is understood, the prosecution was never pressed to a point where the authorities believed that the letter writer had been sufficiently identified to warrant asking for an indictment. In the Ryan case, it is said, suspicion fell on Maxwell early in the investigation, but was almost dispelled when it was shown that one of the poison pen letters sent to Mr. Ryan had been mailed in New York two days after Maxwell had sailed for France, which was on March 7 last. This letter, incidentally, was sent by special delivery, like most of the others.

Typewriter Clue Fails.

According to the authorities, one of their strong points against Maxwell is that most of the letters were written on an old Oliver typewriter, and that he is said to have had access to such a machine in the offices of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

The authorities say that Julius Rosenthal, General Manager of this society under Maxwell, admitted to Assistant District Attorney Kilroe on one occasion that there was an old Oliver in his office and agreed to let a detective see it. But when an investigator called at Mr. Rosenthal's office the next day, Mr. Kilroe says, no such typewriter could be found. Mr. Rosenthal explained this, according to the authorities, by saying that he had made a mistake in his statement to the Assistant District Attorney.

The authorities have reason to suspect they say, that Maxwell left one of the letters in the care of a friend when he sailed, which would explain the fact that it was posted two days after he sailed. It is believed that the person who posted the letter did not know the nature of its contents.

Mr. Rosenthal was called to testify before the Grand Jury regarding the typewriter. It took eight days to present the whole case to the Grand Jury, as many witnesses were called. Mrs. Elizabeth Hedleras, Maxwell's housekeeper, was a witness regarding incidents in Maxwell's apartment when he was entertaining women guests, which were referred to in the letters. The prosecution introduced this evidence to show that the incidents referred to in the letters were such that only Maxwell would have been in a position to write about them.

Rosenthal Defends Maxwell.

Mr. Rosenthal denied to reporters yesterday that Maxwell had fled the country in the face of the Grand Jury investigation.

"Mr. Maxwell did not leave New York hurriedly or unexpectedly, as it is claimed in some of the newspapers," Mr. Rosenthal said. "He goes to Europe every Summer to take care of his business affairs. He is general manager of the Ricordi Company here and attends a meeting of the Directors of the firm in Milan every year. The company has offices in other cities also—Paris and London—and Mr. Maxwell visits them also.

"We knew he intended sailing at least seven weeks before he left. As in former years, the society gave him a dinner at Keen's chop house. We made the necessary arrangements at least a month in advance and gave him a wrist watch as a little token of our regard for him. He sailed the first Saturday in March and was expected to return late in June or the early part of July."

Rosenthal said that Maxwell had been separated from his wife for about eighteen years and that he had been seen frequently in company with other women at the opera or the theatre.

"I have heard," Rosenthal added, "that Maxwell himself had received many anonymous letters during the last five or six years. A day or so after he had been out with a woman friend he would receive a typewritten letter and his friend would receive one also. I understand that he reported this to the Post Office Department."

Suspect Duplicate Letters.

Post Office inspectors here said yesterday that they had received no such complaints. The authorities in charge of the Ryan investigation say that they believe Maxwell himself sent copies of his letters to other persons in order to divert suspicion from himself, in case of an arrest like the present one.

Rosenthal said that he had been called before the Grand Jury to see if he could identify certain typed letters which the authorities attributed to Maxwell. He said that some of the letters were shown to him, and that they were of such an unprintable nature that he did not believe for a moment that anybody of Maxwell's "intellect and refinement" could possibly have written them. According to the authorities, the letters are phrased in the most vulgar and commonest terms, which an illiterate person, might be expected to use, but were written in excellent grammar and with an educated person's ability to construct sentences.

Edwin C. Mills, President of the Music Publishers' Protective Association, whose office is with Maxwell's society, was also summoned before the Grand Jury about the typewriter, but was able to add little information. He told reporters yesterday that he had no love for Maxwell, because of certain business matters, but that he knew nothing of his private life, and did not believe the charges. "If the charges are true," Mills said, "Mr. Maxwell must be a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Albert E. Gallatin testified before the Grand Jury about letters he had received several years ago. He declined to discuss the case with reporters yesterday beyond saying: "The whole thing is a piece of insanity and is of small consequence."

Employes of telephone and cable companies were called before the Grand Jury to testify about messages that are said to have passed between Maxwell and certain women, and which are held by the prosecution to support its contention that Maxwell was the only person with sufficient information to enable him to write the letters.

One of the officials said last night that the investigation had been badly hampered by the efforts of a group of clubmen to bring pressure to bear on the District Attorney's office to stop the prosecution of Maxwell. These men are said to belong to a coterie whose association with a certain "athletic club" was exposed with much unpleasant notoriety several years ago. Why they are interested in Maxwell has not been shown.

Banton Angry Over Publicity.

District Attorney Banton made a statement last night in which he declared that the ends of justice had been defeated by the person or persons responsible for the original publication of the indictment of Maxwell.

"If any member of my staff gave it and I can learn who he is," Mr. Banton said, "I will fire him immediately. If anybody violated the law of the State of New York in giving it out I will prosecute him to the limit. The big question is whether or not Grand Jury proceedings are secret as by law they are supposed to be."

Mr. Banton said that the indictment should have been kept secret because the jail requires such secrecy until the person indicted has been arrested.

"My reason for keeping quiet about the Maxwell case was in the interests of justice," he added. "I never care to shield anyone. The publication at this time has interfered with the work of this office. We intend to continue our investigation, although the publication has defeated our plan to a certain extent, and has interfered with our obtaining other witnesses, who have been hard to get even without the publicity."

The April Grand Jury is still in session ready to receive any additional evidence that may be presented, having been continued by Judge Alfred J. Talley at the request of Mr. Banton.

NO LETTER TO MRS. STETSON.

Countess of Santa Eulalie Received Missives Several Years Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—Speaking for his wife today when questioned as to the alleged receipt of poison pen letters by the society matron, John B. Stetson Jr. of Juniper Avenue, Oakland, asserted that she had never received letters of a scurrilous nature.

The Countess of Santa Eulalie, formerly Mrs. John B. Stetson, widow of the millionaire hatmaker, could not be reached this afternoon. An investigation was made several years ago of false letters that had been sent to her.

Mrs. Louis R. Page, who was also mentioned in the list of alleged recipients, was somewhere on her estate, Aronimink Farm, Bryn Mawr, and could not be located by servants this afternoon, so the New York report could be communicated to her.

URGES OUR RETURN TO WORLD OUTLOOK

WORLD COURT PLEA MADE

Professor Fenwick of Bryn Mawr Says It Can End Dangers of Economic Rivalry—Ruhr Discussed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—A plea that the United States revert to the "spirit of broad internationalism, which characterized her conduct of the World War," was made tonight at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

With the close of the war came America's withdrawal from open participation in affairs of the Old World. In consequence, Europe has been thrown into confusion, Professor Fisher of Yale declared. This country should not, he emphasized, "hold aloof until the European nations set their houses in order, disband their armies, stop inflation and pay their debts. America is the most effective means of bringing about agreement."

Beneft of the impartial influence of the United States at the end of the war, the "selfish nationalism" of the Allies, added the Speaker, "again burst its leash. Demoralized, the Allies began to quarrel with each other. Turkey is forcing her way to Europe and Hungary is eager to break her narrowed bounds."

Other problems menacing Europe are German reparations and Russian Bolshevism, Professor Fisher said.

Economists from all parts of the country today exchanged their views on the financial and economic situation as it involved Europe and the United States. The discussions were heard by delegates from thirty-six colleges and fifty-one national and international organizations.

Blames Politicians for Europe's Woes.

Europe's present financial chaos was laid at the door of the politicians by Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks of New York. Germany, France, Italy and Austria were staggering beneath their economic burdens, he declared.

While France through a capable corps of economists had advanced a sound plan for her financial stabilization, Professor Jenks said, it was almost impossible to put it into operation because of political influences. These same influences stand in the way of an adjustment of the Ruhr and reparation problems with Germany, he added.

Participation of the United States in the Permanent Court of International Justice was urged by Professor Charles G. Fenwick of Bryn Mawr College as a means of regulating the economic rivalry of nations.

The competition for the oil markets of the world, as disclosed by the Chester concession from Turkey, was cited as none of the latent causes which underlie the possibility of hostility. Another cause, declared Professor Fenwick, was tariffs which give preference to the mother country.

An "open door" policy in the quest for oil was advocated by R. L. Welch of the American Petroleum Institute. In accordance with Mr. Welch's plan, all nations would permit the free development of their oil resources.

Paul Rohrbach, a German economist, said that Russia was incapable of taking any military steps of importance. He predicted years would be required for that country to emerge from its present state of industrial paralysis. He pointed out that his country needed a moratorium for the settlement of debts abroad and the fixing of the reparations payment within the financial limits now restraining Germany.

W. S. Culbertson, a member of the United States Tariff Commission, endorsed President Harding's recent suggestion that nations join in voluntary conferences to guide them in their relations with each other. Suggestions by other speakers included the reduction of France's debt to the United States and the withdrawal of the French troops from the Ruhr.

Dr. F. L. Hoffman of Babson Institute declared there could be no enduring peace or economic progress in the world until the Allies settled with Germany. Past failures of efforts in this direction, he said, were not a discouragement, but a guide to methods of future procedure.

"Until the whole question is approached in a spirit of liberal charity toward all," Dr. Hoffman said, "a solution is impossible. It is the only policy that can govern, for the full consequences of the war can never be paid.

"The world's sympathies are with France, but the world's judgment is clearly against the course she has taken in seeking by force of arms what would have been yielded to her by proper political and economic pressure. France has not gained, but lost, by the Ruhr occupation.

Effects of Germany's Inflation.

Discussing the financial situation, Garet Garrett told members of the Academy that Germany, by a method of inflation, "carried purposely to a logical end," had demonstrated that with the "greatest economic impunity" a nation may wipe out income-bearing wealth, represented by mortgages, bonds, savings bank deposits, and the like, and survive.

"Inflation has a disastrous sequel in England," said Mr. Garrett, "because the English mean to restore the pound sterling to its full gold value. Germany, on the other hand, does not mean to restore the mark.

"When she talks of stabilizing her currency she does not mean to increase the buying power of the existing mark ten thousandfold. She means to abandon it and begin with a new gold mark. If she does this the creditor class whose property has been confiscated will never get it back.

"And if she does this, what of the proceeds from the enormous sales of marks these last four years on all the foreign exchange markets of the world? She will clear them. They will be so much pure gain, less only the cost of color printing.

"It appears to be demonstrated in Germany that you can create new wealth without capitalism. It appears to be proved that by the dynastic method new wealth may be created much faster than money can be saved for a capital purpose from the profits of old wealth. What is not proved is that democratic society can exist without capitalism.

"Inflation carried to the German point destroys the essential function of money. If you destroy the capital function of money you destroy capitalism. And with capitalism goes one whole class of society, namely, the middle class, leaving thereafter three classes, the dynasty at the top whose power and will are capital, the laborer whom he houses, clothes and commands, and the agriculturist who feeds them both."

SENATOR EDGE OUT FOR WORLD COURT

Endorses Harding's Proposal and Denies It Means We Would Enter League.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 11.—At the meeting of the New Jersey Women's Republican Clubs here tonight, Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey came out strongly for President Harding's proposal that the United States join the League of Nations' Permanent Court of International Justice.

"It is unfortunate," said Senator Edge, "that the Administration's proposal to have the United States participate as a member of the Court of International Justice should be confused, either by design or otherwise, with the former proposition already disposed of by the American people that we should join the League of Nations.

"The easiest accomplishment in the political world right now is the ability to organize public sentiment against any association or connection with European affairs. The American people have been fed up with the iniquities of foreign entanglements—to a great extent entirely justified—and it requires very little fire to produce a real conflagration of public protest. Therefore the proposition for the United States to participate in the World's Permanent Court of International Justice is, as was expected, furnishing a new opportunity for the political opportunist to jump to the front as the savior of the nation.

"I regret the threatened break in the party solidarity and I am wondering if the promised inter-party opposition on the part of some leaders is entirely inspired by any real fear of disastrous results folowing our participation or whether some of our good friends are not more concerned with developing an issue upon which, through appealing to prejudice, they can secure popular favor.

"If a League of Nations had never been suggested the proposition to participate in the activities of the International Court would have received unanimous approval of this country. I believe it will anyhow, when the attitude is clearly understood and discussion is not controlled or influenced by false prejudice.

"I do not particularly like to see this made a party question. It seems to me this should be a matter of national policy, irrespective of party."

LIZZIE BORDEN ASKS DIVISION OF PROPERTY

Special to The New York Times.

TAUNTON, Mass., May 11.—Lizzie A. Borden of Fall River, who was charged with the murder of her father and mother nearly thirty-one years ago, and was acquitted after a trial that is historical, will appear again in a Bristol County court in contest with her sister, Emma L. Borden of Providence, in an effort to have the judge of the Probate Court make an equal distribution of the property known as the A. J. Borden block at South Main and Anawan Streets in Fall River. The property is owned jointly by the petitioner and her sister.

The petition for the partition has been filed in probate court at Taunton.

On the morning of August 4, 1892, the bodies of A. J. Borden and his wife were found in their home hacked to pieces. A blood-stained axe was found in the barn. The couple left two daughters, the present litigants, as their only heirs.

Lizzie was arrested and lodged in Taunton Jail until her trial.

The present case will be the first known appearance of Miss Borden inside a courtroom as a principal in litigation since the murder trial.

Morse Estate Valued at $1,290,545.

An accounting in the estate of Harry F. Morse, a brother of Charles W. Morse, was filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday showing that the value is $1,290,545, from which the widow, Mrs. Jane Schuyler Morse, gets $50,000 a year. Nellie T. Morse and Belle H. M. Hooper of Fall River, Mass., sisters, get $1,000 a year. The widow has received a total of $146,296 from the estate. Mr. Morse died Oct. 9, 1919.

WOMEN'S CLUBS BACK WORLD COURT IDEA

Federation Eliminates Reference to Harding's Plan and Adopts Unanimous Resolution.

VICTORY FOR MRS. WINTER

Convention Votes to Admit Council of Jewish Women on Same Basis as Other Bodies.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 11.—A resolution endorsing adjudication by orderly, judicial procedure of international controversies, was adopted today by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in mid-biennial council session here, without opposition, after a speech by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Texas, urging that the whole matter be placed above partisanship.

By this action, the convention carried out the wishes of Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Federation President, and other leaders, and avoided mentioning of any specific proposal for American adherence to an International Court of Justice. The resolution, as first drawn up for consideration by the Committee on Resolutions, specifically endorsed the proposal of President Harding for American participation in the World Court, but this was eliminated and only the principle of international co-operation was endorsed in the resolution finally adopted, which read:

"Whereas, The General Federation of Women's Clubs holds to the view that all wars should cease, and that international friction should give way to international understanding, and endorses all practical measures and movements tending to that end, and for the hearing and adjudication by orderly judicial procedure of international controversies which are susceptible of settlement through judicial tribunals; therefore, be it

Mrs. Winter for World Court.

Talking to newspaper men today, Mrs. Winter said:

"Of course, we ought to join the World Court. I am for any agency which will tend to the creation of a world court of law to which the differences of the nations may be taken, and this world court proposal is the thing immediately before us. It is the one possible next step toward the ideal for which we all long, and, therefore, I am for it.

Mrs. Winter stated that one of the chief reasons for her interest and pride in the federation was that it had absolutely no strings to pull.

Other Resolutions Adopted.

Twelve other resolutions dealing with a variety of subjects related to activities of the federation were adopted unanimously. One, concerning prison labor systems, was amended to appeal for wholesome working and living conditions for all prisoners.

Report of the Membership Committee on its views regarding a new interpretation of the by-laws so as to test club applicants as to purpose, regardless of sectarian aspect, caused extended discussion. The committee reported it believed the matter of reinterpretation was not within its province, but added that it would continue its present policy "of using the purpose test."

This policy, some delegates asserted, operated against including many worthy organizations, while others took the opposite view. The discussion finally centred about membership qualifications of the Council of Jewish Women, and the convention voted to direct the Board of Directors to interpret the rules to include that body on the same basis as other organizations paying per capita dues.

The proposal to convert the federation into a foundation with a $5,000,000 endowment, which was scheduled to come before the council, will be referred first to the Board of Directors for recommendation, leaders said. It was regarded as problematical whether action would be taken on the proposal at this session.

A telegram was read from Mrs. Warren G. Harding commending the council on its activities and expressing gratitude for expressions of sympathy during her recent illness.

C. J. RYAN'S APPEAL HEARD.

Decision Reserved on Change of Venue in Muriel Sharp's Suit.

The Appellate Division in Brooklyn heard yesterday the appeal by Clendenin J. Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, from the recent decision of Supreme Court Justice Benedict denying Ryan's motion for a change of venue from Nassau to New York County of the trial of the action brought against Ryan by Muriel Sharp. The latter is suing Ryan to recover on an alleged agreement to pay her $500 a month for life.

Outerbridge Horsey, counsel for Ryan, said that Miss Sharp had moved into Nassau County on March 2, and that on the same day his client was served with papers in the action. Henry A. Uterhart, counsel for Miss Sharp, said that his client's place of residence was no more an open question than was the question where Ryan lived. "At least the plaintiff knows where she does live," he said.

Decision was reserved.

CECIL SAYS AMERICA WILL ENTER LEAGUE

By LORD ROBERT CECIL.

said on the subject of the League and recognized that the conception of the League so put forward was very different from that which he had raised objection in 1920. He was not, however, convinced that my interpretation of the covenant was the right one.

Indeed, strictly speaking, I made no attempt to interpret the covenant itself, I merely described what the League actually did. This mode of exposition, acceptable enough to the British mind, is not so acceptable to Americans, trained to regard the letter of their Constitution as of final importance.

The Senator, however, while adhering to his view that my interpretation of the covenant was not strictly sustainable, said in a public speech that if the League were definitely deprived of all powers to enforce its decision by military means, and merely consisted of an organized system of international conferences for discussion of world problems and promotion of international cooperation, he would see very much less objection to it.

Wants Blockade Retained.

Following his lead, the New Republic grew to be an advocate of the "outlawry of war" theory, added to the usual program of that school, which I have already described, a proposition that, provided Europe showed a real desire for peace, the United States might join the League on the understanding that it would not be required to take part in any military action.

So far the proposals are a little vague. It is not quite certain whether Senator Pepper suggests alteration of the covenant or entry by the United States into only some of the obligations of the covenant, whether by way of reservations or as a kind of associate member of the League.

In any case, the proposal seems to me one of very great interest and value. As I understand it, Article X does not, in effect, involve the use of force. Article XVI does, and it is unquestionably a very useful and important article, and may become more so in the future. I should, therefore, be altogether opposed to striking it out of the covenant, or of seriously modifying it, though I should not care very much what was done with Article X.

But it is quite conceivable that a power living on the other side of the Atlantic might join the League and be of great value to the League without being bound by Article XVI. Article XVI is unlikely to be used except in Europe, and a complete blockade by all the European States of a recalcitrant country would be perfectly effective provided such a blockade were recognized as a legal blockade by the United States and no attempt were made to break it.

In any case, I hope very much that the discussion initiated by Senator Pepper will be continued, and that some definite, practical proposal may sooner or later emerge therefrom. I came away from America as convinced as I was before I went that sooner or later the United States would join the league in some form or other. To my view the league is a live organism, gradually increasing in power and authority. I cannot believe that anyone who has attended three assemblies of the league will doubt this. The league is a far stronger body than it was three years ago, the only thing that is holding it back at the moment is the reluctance of France to submit its difficulties with Germany to the league. If the French Government were ready to take that course, as we were ready to take it with regard to our dispute with Turkey about Mosul, the authority of the league would be definitely established.

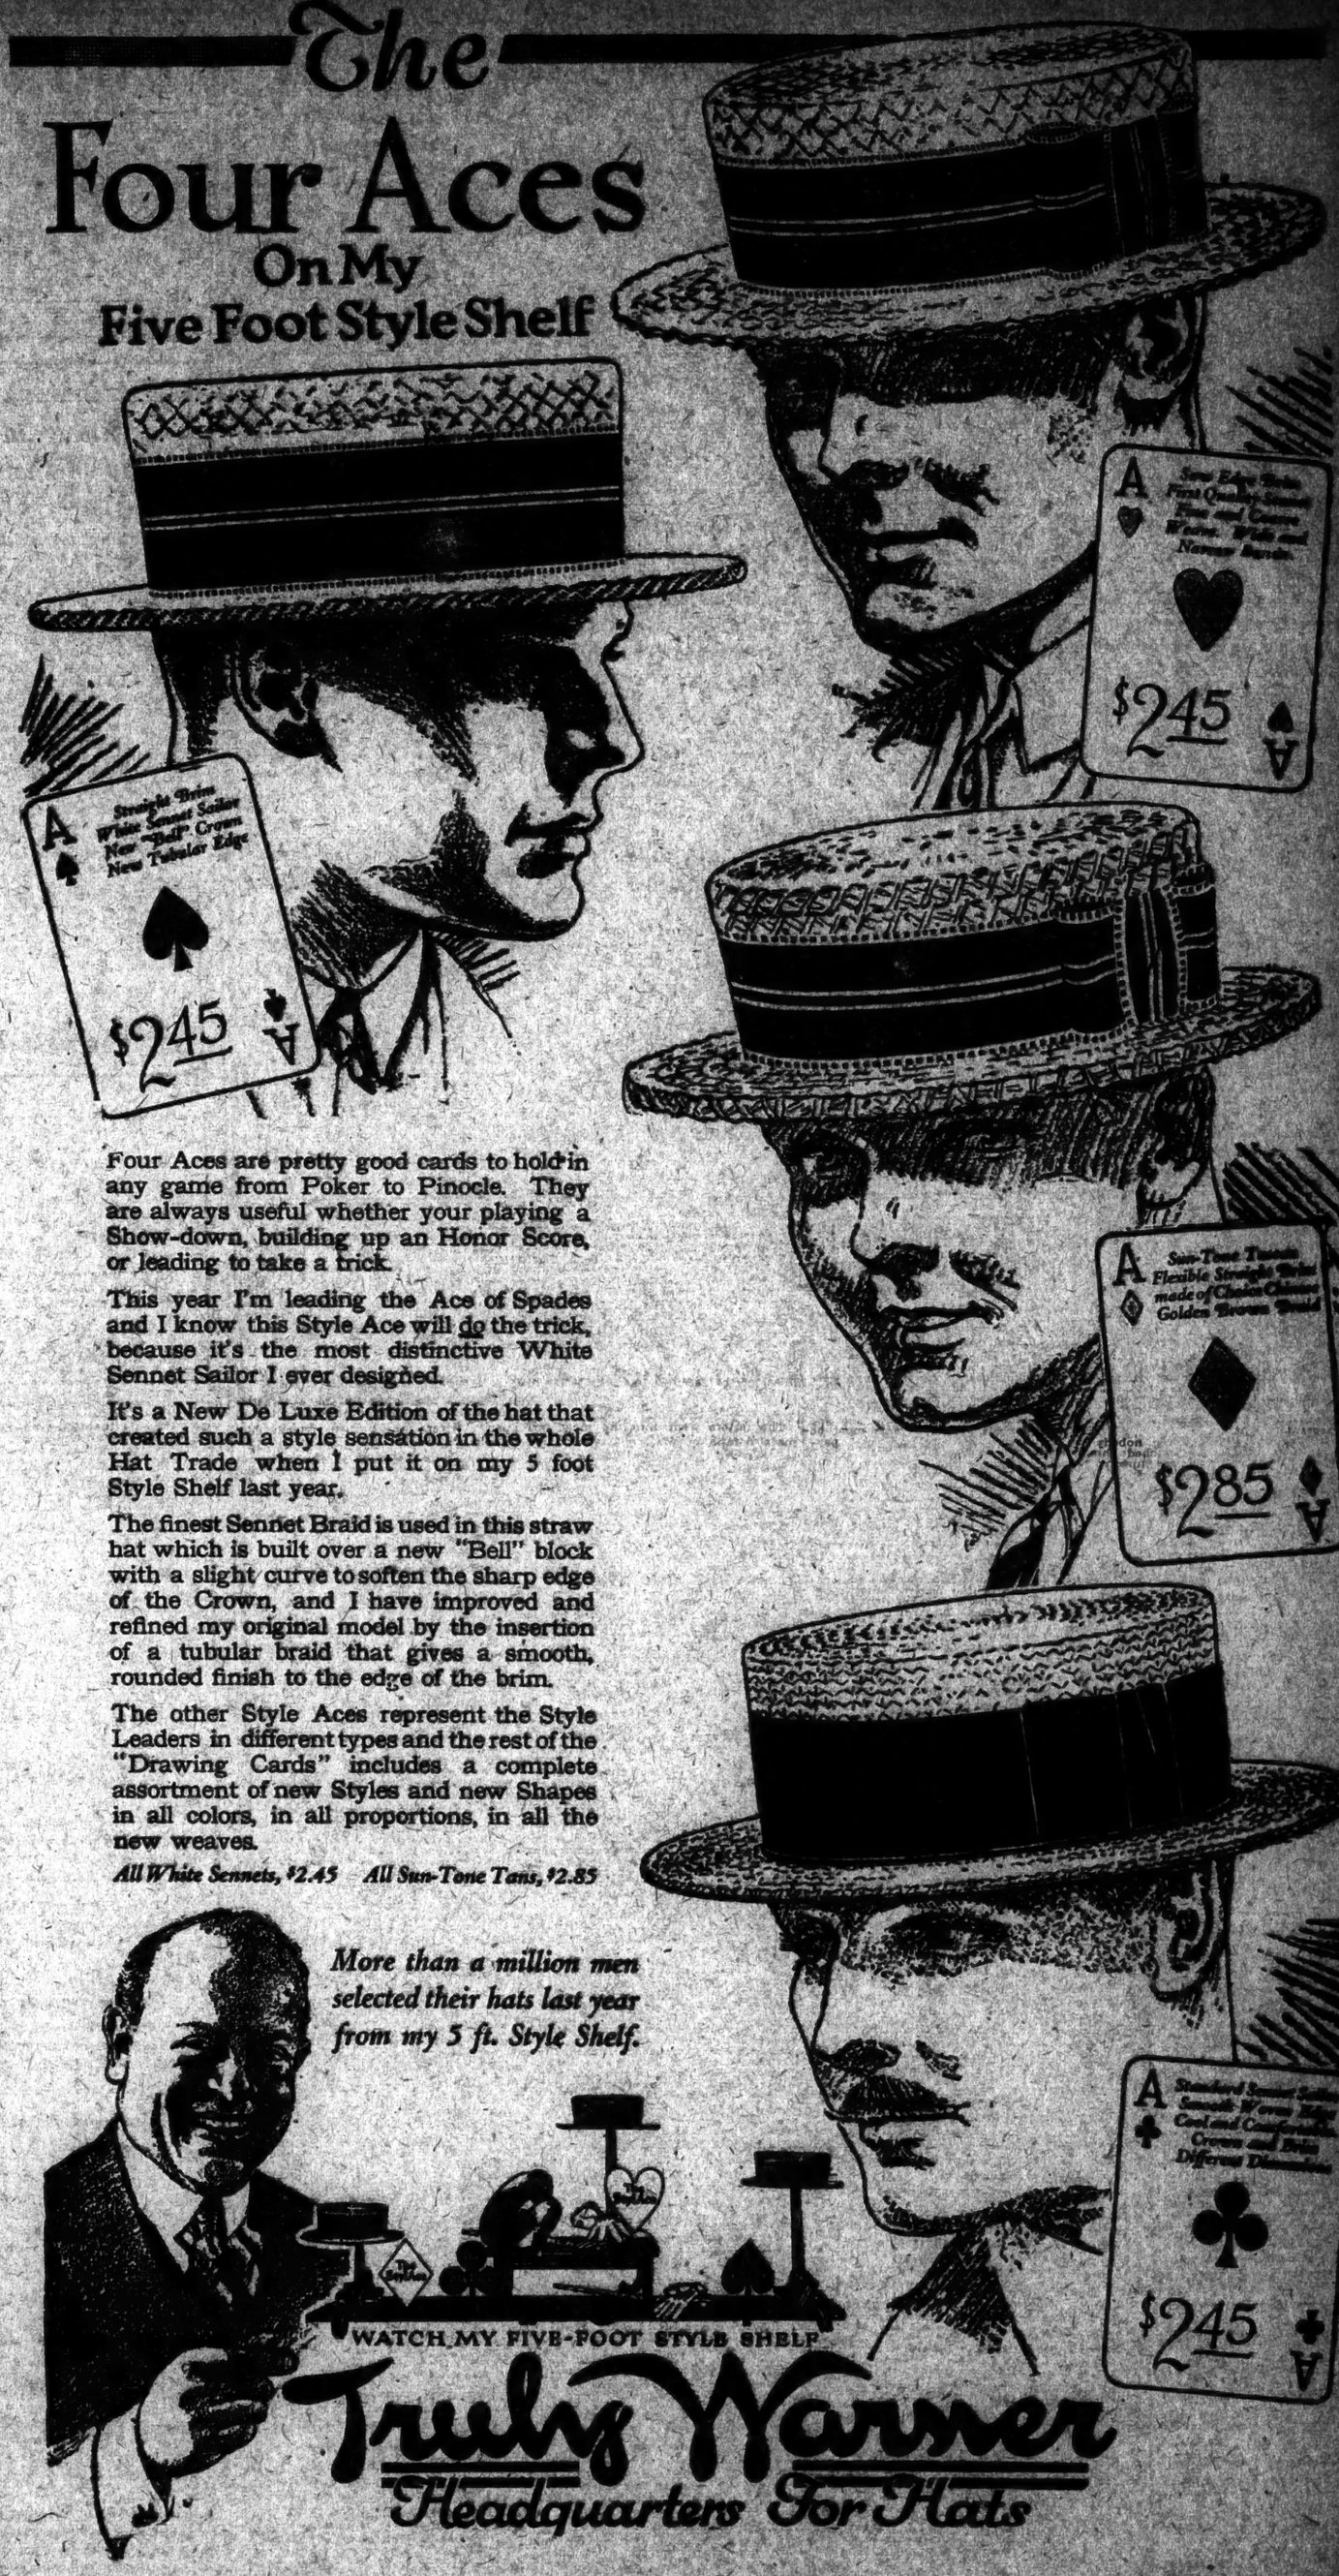
Sees League Growing Stronger.

In any case, I am convinced that the league is bound to go on, and is bound to grow in strength. In the process of time it will, therefore, inevitably absorb all the more important international questions. It will become the sole international authority in Europe and the world. All countries desiring to take part in international affairs will have to use the league machinery for that purpose, for there will be no other of importance.

To my mind, therefore, it is certain that sooner or later the United States will join the League and the only question is when. From her point of view, and from the point of view of the rest of the world, it is much to be hoped that she will join it soon enough to mold the League according to American ideas, for I believe the ideas of America on international affairs are, broadly speaking, sound, and perhaps sounder than those of any other country. She looks at them with greater impartiality, less hampered by bad traditions, more gentirely convinced that war is a sadly mistaken method of settling international disputes.

But the decision as to her entry is evidently entirely for herself. I do not regret having attempted to furnish her people with facts which will enable them to come to an unbiased decision. I think that was a reasonable and legitimate thing to do, but it would be a thousand pities if the attention of the rest of the world were diverted from the main task of building up the League to be a great instrument of international peace and progress by perpetually looking over their shoulders to see what America is doing.

The Four Aces On My Five Foot Style Shelf



Four Aces are pretty good cards to hold in any game from Poker to Pinocle. They are always useful whether your playing a Show-down, building up an Honor Score, or leading to take a trick.

This year I'm leading the Ace of Spades and I know this Style Ace will do the trick, because it's the most distinctive White Sennet Sailor I ever designed.

It's a New De Luxe Edition of the hat that created such a style sensation in the whole Hat Trade when I put it on my 5 foot Style Shelf last year.

The finest Sennet Braid is used in this straw hat which is built over a new "Bell" block with a slight curve to soften the sharp edge of the Crown, and I have improved and refined my original model by the insertion of a tubular braid that gives a smooth, rounded finish to the edge of the brim.

The other Style Aces represent the Style Leaders in different types and the rest of the "Drawing Cards" includes a complete assortment of new Styles and new Shapes in all colors, in all proportions, in all the new weaves.

All White Sennets, $2.45 All Sun-Tone Tans, $2.85

More than a million men selected their hats last year from my 5 ft. Style Shelf.

SOVIET WILL REJECT BRITISH ULTIMATUM

Reply, Which Will Be Delayed, Will Offer a Conference on Points at Issue.

BUT PREPARES FOR BREAK

Krassin Is Leaving for London—Tchitcherin Speaks Today on Foreign Policy.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, May 11.—Russia won't accept the British ultimatum. Its reply will probably not be delivered immediately, but THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent can forecast the general outlines of its contents and character.

Its tone will be firm, but polite, and by no means uncompromising. The Soviet Government will express regret and surprise at the peremptory style and ultimative conclusion of the English note, which it considers uncalled for and unjustified by the circumstances. The Soviet Government will point out that its majority of the points advanced by the British are more suitable for negotiation than as the basis for an ultimatum, and will suggest their amicable discussion by an appropriate commission conference looking toward arbitration.

If the British Government adheres to its intention, expressed in the note to consider the trade agreement broken unless Russia accepts the ultimatum unconditionally, the Russian Government will say it sees no alternative but to allow the British Government to carry out that intention, for which Russia will place full responsibility upon Britain, which must understand their total impossibility of Russia accepting a proposal of such a character.

The Soviet Government will make no attempt to give a detailed reply to the charges of anti-British propaganda in Eastern countries, but will point out that the British Government in the past has been misled by its agents in such matters and that furthermore there is no indication whatever that such "pernicious activities" as the British complain of, even if true—which the Soviet Government does not admit—caused any injury to the British that would warrant the British ultimatum.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Government, although hoping the British will take a less uncompromising position, is making preparations with a view to a possible rupture. Funds are being transferred from London to Bremen and it is planned to move the London commercial organization of the Soviet to Copenhagen.

It is officially announced today that Foreign Minister Tchitcherin will make a speech tomorrow afternoon on foreign affairs before the Moscow Soviet in the Opera House.

The official press today prints a verbatim translation of the British note without comment of any kind.

Krassin is leaving for London tomorrow with two secretaries nominally to wind up the affairs of the Russian trade mission in the event of a rupture. He will go to London as rapidly as possible, probably by plane.

The high court appointed to review the decision on British trawlers has unconditionally released the crews and contented itself with imposing a £160 fine on the trawler James Johnson herself.

There are rumors here of the possibility of a Polish ultimatum to Russia regarding the imprisoned ecclesiastics. There are stories also of instructions given by the Polish-Lettish legations to such of their citizens as did not adopt Russian citizenship to be prepared to leave Russia at a moment's notice. Some even say that they have received instructions to go home at once.

MOSCOW, May 11 (Associated Press).—The Soviet Government does not desire a break with Great Britain and is willing to confer with that country, but it cannot accept such an ultimatum as that contained in Lord Curzon's recent note, said M. Ganetsky, Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a speech today at a meeting of the Moscow Council of Trades Unions which had been summoned to discuss the British note.

"Our attitude toward England remains the same," said Ganetsky, "but the attitude of England has become inimical."

A resolution passed by the meeting protested against the note of Great Britain.

"Let England and all the bourgeois country know that Russia is not the Ruhr," the resolution concluded.

FEAR MORE TRAGEDIES FROM LAUSANNE DELAY

LAUSANNE, May 11 (Associated Press).—The Vorovsky tragedy has acted as a warning to the delegates to the Near East Conference that the conference is dragging out too long and that the delay is paving the way for new complications, instead of tending toward peace.

The announced coming to Lausanne of M. Alexanderis, the Greek Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a day or two to serve notice on the conference that it must get along with its work or Greece will make a separate peace with Turkey, has acted as a stimulant. The word has gone forth that the experts' committees must be ready to report early next week. Everybody seems nervous and desirous that the conference finish its work before a political catastrophe follows last night's crime.

The American representatives at the conference have taken no part in the recent activities, but have been quietly following the trend of the negotiations. The American staff here has been increased by the arrival from Constantinople of G. Howland Shaw, who is attached to the United States High Commissioner's office there.

The Turks and Greeks clashed again today over the question of liquidating Turkish property in Greece. The Turks declared that if the Greeks did not accept the arrangements suggested by the Ottoman representatives they reserved the right to proceed with the liquidation of Greek-owned property in Turkey along similar lines.

Former Premier Venizelos of Greece retorted rather warmly that this was a threat and was intended to mask the Turkish seizures of Greek funds in the banks at Smyrna. The committee referred the question to the experts.

400,000,000 MARKS FINE IS LEVIED ON ESSEN

Allies Exact Penalty for Destruction of a Bridge—May Arrest Burgomaster.

ESSEN, May 11 (Associated Press).—The destruction by dynamite of a bridge south of Essen last week will cost the city 400,000,000 marks, the occupational military authorities decided today.

Notification of this fine was accompanied by the ultimatum that, if the amount was not forthcoming within a week the acting Burgomaster and other officials would be arrested and held until the money was paid.

The French military officials say they are convinced that much of the sabotage in the Ruhr is engineered, if not actually executed, by Germans from the unoccupied regions. For this reason they have put into force new regulations governing the passage of Germans from the unoccupied to the occupied territory. To pass the boundary the Germans are obliged to have a pass either from the Allied Commission in Berlin or from the Franco-Belgian military authorities.

Sabotage gangs dynamited another important railway bridge last night as their answer to the verdict of the French court martial at Duesseldorf in imposing the death sentence upon Albert Schlogetter, convicted with six others on charges of sabotage and espionage.

The bridge destroyed, with sixty yards of track, was on the main line between Waltrop and Lunen. The Burgomasters of these two towns have been arrested by the French military authorities and it is expected fines will be imposed.

Cutting of the railroad line interferes with the transportation of coal and coke from the Dortmund district, and will cause considerable inconvenience to the French.

Essen was like a deserted city today. All the stores, factories and public utilities were shut down from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M. in protest against the conviction of Baron Krupp von Bohlen and other officials of the Krupp works by a French court-martial. During these hours there was not even a policeman on the streets.

The Krupp Directors opposed the demonstration, it is understood, but the workmen insisted upon it, so the Krupp works, as well as all the other plants, were closed.

Leaders of All Churches Sign a Protest to World Opinion Against Reds' War on Religion.

PARIS, May 11 (Associated Press).—Representatives of every religion known in France have joined in an appeal to the public opinion of the world against "persecution of religion in Russia and the arrest and execution of religious authorities."

"The Soviet Government," says the document, "is trying to uproot religion from the souls of the people as useless and dangerous, and is employing every means to arrive at that result, including confiscation of property, profanation of churches and synagogues, parodies on religious ceremonies, official atheistic schools, and prison, torture and death."

MOSCOW IS ENRAGED AT ENVOY'S MURDER

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

not forget that they have brought such treatment on their heads, and Vorovsky's survivors will find it difficult to escape the chastisement which their many victims are preparing for them."

Denies He Had Accomplices.

In a typewritten statement given to the police Conradi, who was born in Petrograd of Swiss parents, reviewed his life history. He was an officer of the Russian army at the beginning of the World War and fought against Germany and Austria. When the Bolsheviki came into power he joined Wrangel and came to Switzerland as a refugee after Wrangel's debacle. He denied that he had any accomplices and said that he had acted entirely alone to avenge his father's death.

Secretary General Massigli of the Lausanne Conference issued a statement today reviewing the known circumstances of Varovski's presence here. The Russians were invited to the first Lausanne Conference to take part only in negotiations regarding the Straits regime. This was completed at the first meeting and does not enter into the proceedings of the second Lausanne Conference.

Several weeks before the resumption of negotiations Varovski was notified by Massigli that he might come to Lausanne if for the purpose of signing the Straits agreement. Massigli says that he received no reply, although Varovski contended that he notified the Italian Government that a Russian statesman could accept no such dictation.

At any rate, Varovski and some of his lieutenants came to Lausanne and immediately began an effort to resume the general trouble making of Tchitcherin at the first meting. The conference would not admit him to any of its sessions and in reply to a query from the Swiss Government ruled that Russian delegates had no part in the proceedings.

Chief of Police Jacquillard, charged with guarding the delegations, said today that as the Russians were not on the official list of delegates he did not give them any more police protection than ordinary tourists.

Conference Ignores the Killing.

At today's session of the conference no mention was made of the killing of Vorovski on the ground that the affair did not concern the negotiators.

The condition of Ahrend, an associate of Vorovski, who was also shot, is good and he is expected to recover rapidly. As for Debrilkovski, the other wounded Russian, the surgeons have not been able to extract two bullets from his abdomen, but he passed a better night than had been expected, and it is said that he has an even chance of recovery.

The body of Vorovski was placed in the vault of a local cemetery today awaiting word from Moscow as to its disposition.

Swiss papers tonight published a statement made by Karl Radek in Berlin, in which he says that the British were responsible for Vorovski's death, because Lord Curzon wrote a sharp note to Moscow.

The Swiss Government is somewhat concerned about possible reprisals on Swiss citizens in Russia. There are 600 of them in Russia proper and 400 in Georgia, which is under Bolshevist control.

Ismet Expresses Regret.

LAUSANNE, May 11 (Associated Press).—Ismet Pasha, the chief Turkish delegate to the Lausanne conference, issued a statement tonight paying tribute in his own name and the members of the Turkish delegation to M. Vorovski. Regret is expressed at the death of a Representative of "a great and friendly power. The Turkish delegation sent a wreath to be placed on the coffin.

The Swiss Federal Council today issued a communique expressing indignation over the attack on the Russians and regretting especially that it occurred on the seat of a peace conference. The Council has decided to express its sympathy to the families of the victims, but it voted not to change its attitude toward Soviet Russia and to continue to ignore officially the existence of the Soviet Government.

The police department asserts that it never received any complaints from Russians that a plot had been formed against M. Vorovsky. It was recalled by the department that the Russians came in incognito to the first conference, and that even Tchitcherin arrived unannounced.

Conradi Accomplices Sought.

The Magistrate who examined Conradi said that his preliminary investigation showed that Conradi had no accomplices in Lausanne, but there was reason to believe that he had support in some other Swiss city.

Ahrens tonight from his sick bed continued his work as press agent for the Bolshevist delegation. Referring to the statement of the Swiss police that Vorovsky had refused police protection, he said:

"If the Swiss detective force pretends that it had no knowledge of the menaces directed daily against the Russian delegation since last Sunday, one can only express pity for its capacity. It only had to read the foreign newspapers if it wished to know something of the criminal intentions, openly proclaimed, of the National Swiss League against the Russian delegation."

It is stated that the Turkish delegation to the Peace Conference has requested the Swiss authorities to provide a greater measure of protection for its members.

The Geneva police have been requested to search there for possible accomplices of Conradi. A letter, written in Russian and containing a sum of money, is reported to have been sent to Conradi from Geneva on Thursday.

The representatives of the great powers resent the charge made by the Soviet delegation that they are morally responsible for the killing because their attitude toward the delegation had caused a local atmosphere from which the crime resulted. A semi-official conference statement repudiates the charge and recalls the successive steps taken by the conference regarding the status of the Russian delegates.

The Secretary of the conference, it is recalled, informed the Swiss Government on May 4 that the Soviet delegation had not been officially invited, and the Swiss Government circularized its diplomatic agents abroad forbidding the giving of visas to Soviet representatives. Vorovsky and Ahrens, however, had been able to obtain visas for Switzerland before the circular was issued. A Soviet courier was barred from a visa for Switzerland by the Swiss Minister at Berlin as a result of the circular.

Attack that Stirred Fascisti.

Afterward Vorovsky issued a public protest, charging that the Allies were resorting to police methods to further their cause and accusing Switzerland of a violation of neutrality and hospitality and of siding with the Allies. It was this attack which led to the agitation among the Swiss Fascisti.

The police announce that, in addition to finding newspaper pictures of Vorovsky in Conradi's valise, they discovered a four-page typewritten statement headed, "My Confession," in which Conradi told why he intended to shoot Vorovsky and added that he had planned to kill M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, at the first Lausanne conference, but found no opportunity to do so.

Conradi told the examining Magistrate that he had served in the armies of both General Denikin and Baron Wrangel and had been demobilized from service in the Crimea. His father, an engineer in Russia, was imprisoned and starved by the Bolsheviki, he said; his uncle was shot, and both their fortunes were confiscated. He had not planned to shoot Vorovsky's assistants, but did so when he saw Ahrens draw a revolver. Conradi said that his wife was Polish.

The Tribune de Lausanne today reflects what is apparently the general Swiss opinion in an editorial saying:

"Even if this be a political crime, it solves nothing. It is extremely regrettable that it should have occurred, especially on Swiss soil, where hospitality is traditional. Moreover, the assassination may be followed by unhappy consequences for those of our compatriots who are in Russia, and will doubtless cause serious difficulties for the Federal Government."

The Swiss newspapers, answering Ahrens's charge that the Russians were not protected, publish an apparently inspired note saying that, despite Vorovsky's rejection of police service, detectives maintained a quiet watch over him. It is remarked that when Tchitcherin was here he was thoroughly guarded, and he thanked the authorities warmly for the care they had taken.

Switzerland keenly feels the position in which Conradi's act places her, and fears that world opinion may hold local patriotic associations morally or materially responsible, as the Swiss Fascista organization recently ordered Vorovsky to leave the country or take the consequences. The implication in the latter alternative, spokesmen of the Fascisti say, meant nothing more serious than that Vorovsky would be dosed with castor oil or run out of the country as a penalty for his attacks on the Swiss Government.

Up to the present police inquiries have failed to connect Conradi with the Fascisti at Lausanne. The Zurich police have been asked to investigate reports that he was a member of the organization's branch in that city.

BASLE, May 11 (Associated Press).—The Executive Committee of the Swiss Communist Party has called upon all workers, regardless of political affiliation, to join in a great demonstration of protest against the assassination of Vorovsky. The call characterizes the murder as "the signal for Fascisti terrorism in Switzerland."

Swiss Order Ahrens to Leave.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LAUSANNE, May 11.—The Swiss Government tonight issued an expulsion order against M. Ahrens, the Bolshevist Attaché, because of his "impudent statement" blaming the Swiss for the Vorovsky assassination. As soon as M. Ahrens is able to travel he will be deported.

Dr. Heinrich Sturmer, a German diplomat, formerly known in Eastern Europe as the war correspondent of the Cologne Zeitung, is now the only Bolshevist representative at Lausanne who has not been shot. He is entitled to "head the Soviet delegation."

In order to defend themselves against the accusation of insufficiently protecting foreign diplomats at the conference, the Swiss police tonight issued a statement that they had successfully foiled an attempted assassination of Ismet Pasha three months ago. An Armenian with a grievance against the Turks arrived at Lausanne and lay in wait for Ismet for three days, but the police seized him just as he was about to shoot Ismet one day in the lobby of a hotel. The Turkish leader never even knew of the occurrence, the statement says.

VOROVSKY BROUGHT JEWELS.

Italians Recall His Effort to Keep Them Hidden.

ROME, May 11 (Associated Press).—The assassination of M. Vorovsky at Lausanne is producing a profound impression here, as he was the Soviet representative at the Italian capital.

It was recalled today that Vorovsky's arrival in Rome in April, 1921, as the head of a Russian commercial mission, was marked by a lively conflict over his many trunks, which Vorovsky refused to have opened, saying that he enjoyed diplomatic immunity. In taking this position he was strongly supported by the Italian Socialists and Communists. The Nationalist group, which had not then been strengthened by the Fascists organization, maintained that Vorovsky's position did not entitle him to diplomatic privilege.

The Cabinet then in power ordered the trunks opened and it was found that they contained quantities of jewels, which the emissary was allowed to keep, although it was obvious that they had originally belonged to imperial and noble Russian families.

Vorovsky was known here as a member of Foreign Minister Tchitcherin's school of "mild Bolshevism," and after living here for a time his views became still more moderate.

ANTI-RED CRUSADE PLANNED.

Copyright, 1923 by the Chicago Tribune Co.

ROME, May 11.—The assassination of M. Vorovsky, who was the Soviet commercial representative in Rome, is considered here to be the beginning of energetic action against the Red Russian leaders.

A true world-wide crusade to save Russia seems to be ready. The first nucleus of the crusaders is organized among exiled Russians in Italy and other nations.

I have been informed reliably that the first plan of the organization to save Russia will be to organize a great propaganda campaign within Russia, sending literature by special secret emissaries and also by airplanes. This is to prepare the people for an uprising when regiments of Russian and foreign volunteers march into Russia.

Russian exiles here seem to think that the time is ripe for action and that the people of Russia are awaiting their rescuers. They will invoke some kind of force from the outside, around which they may rally.

Sitting in My Mother's Old Arm Chair

which she loved because her first-born son gave it to her forty years ago, I am writing this in the evening twilight coming on.

With the darkness falling, I seem to lose myself in the flood of memories, and feel that the arms of the chair have loosed themselves to become my very own mother's arms around me again, drawing me to her bosom, the happiest place on earth—my mother's bosom—just as she used to do in the days and nights long gone by.

I feel the touch of her little hand on my brow, and I hear her voice as she smoothes my hair and calls me her boy, her very own dear boy.

Oh, mother! If only you were here tonight, I am sure there would be plenty of room in this old chair for both of us, just you and I, in this old chair of yours.

DRY OFFICERS ADMIT BIG RUSH OF LIQUOR

Expect Even Greater Amount of Smuggling During the Next Few Months.

MANY SHIPS ARE COMING

Fear Deluge From Canada if Smith Signs Repeal of Mullan-Gage Law.

Preparations are being made by bootleggers and liquor smugglers to double or treble their activities in and about New York City, according to information which has reached Federal officials. The business so far this year has greatly exceeded that for the same period last year, it was admitted yesterday, and there is every reason to believe, officials say, that during the next few months even greater quantities of liquor will be smuggled in, both by boat and by rail and automobile from Canada.

The Federal officials base their prophecy partly on the number of vessels leaving Nassau and other places with cargoes of liquor and the number reported to be contemplating trips across the Atlantic from European ports. The demand for boats along the coast with the coming of good weather has also been a factor in convincing the Federal authorities that rum-running is planned on an even bigger scale than has heretofore been attempted. The repeal of the Mullan-Gage law, eliminating to a large extent the police activities against the rum-runners, provides additional justification for the belief that liquor smuggling will increase hereabouts.

Palmer Canfield, Federal Prohibition Director for this State, who has advocated to officials in Washington certain plans for combatting the liquor smugglers, which have not yet been adopted in full, said yesterday: "There is undoubtedly a larger market for bootleg liquor in New York City this year than last year. This is due to the fact that withdrawals of whisky and distilled spirits through the Director's office for New York have been decreased to less than 6,000 gallons per month. The average for 1921 was over 100,000 gallons per month and for 1922 over 25,000 gallons per month.

"If it were assumed that the liquor thirst had continued in the same proportion the bootleggers market demand would be increased in the same amount as withdrawals were decreased. While the withdrawals are supposed to be only for medicinal purposes, the fact that the medicinal withdrawals had decreased from over 1,000,000 gallons in 1921 to the estimate of 100,000 gallons this year indicates that much of it has been diverted in the past or that the use of liquor for medicine has greatly decreased, with the probability in favor of the first conclusion."

United States Commissioner S. M. Hitchcock yesterday discharged from custody Louis H. F. Mouquin, Treasurer of the Mouquin Restaurant and Wine Company, 456 Sixth Avenue, his manager and three waiters who were arrested on the night of April 28, when the restaurant was raided by Federal prohibition agents. The report of the Government chemist showed that the bottles seized by the agents contained no alcoholic beverages.

Rev. John B. Adams, Federal prohibition agent, known in Atlantic City as the "Raiding Parson," and Detectives Robert Gilbert and Joseph Cuneff of the Atlantic City Police Department, were arraigned yesterday before City Judge William H. Smathers at Mays Landing, N. J., on charges of unlawful entry. Adams and Gilbert were also charged with assault. The defendants pleaded not guilty. The three men were arrested three weeks ago and later indicted by the Atlantic County Grand Jury. David Feldman, owner of a cigar store at 103 South Florida Avenue, Atlantic City, alleged that the three raided his store on March 23 without a search warrant, and he made the charges against the men. Counsel for the men yesterday asked that the trial be postponed until he investigated to determine whether the Federal courts should not have jurisdiction in the case. Bail of $1,000 was fixed for Adams, $500 for Gilbert and $500 for Cuneff.

LEAGUE ASKS SMITH TO VETO DRY REPEAL

Anti-Saloon Trustees Tell Governor Incitement to Anarchy Is Threatened.

The Anti-Saloon League of New York gave to the press yesterday the following letter sent by the Trustees to Governor Smith protesting against the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law:

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF NEW YORK,
906 Broadway, New York City.

To His Excellency,
Hon. Alfred E. Smith,
Governor of the State of New York.
Sir:

This communication is from the Board of Trustees of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, which board is largely composed of and completely controlled by representatives officially chosen by various denominational bodies in the State of New York. The churches which are opposed to the liquor traffic constitute a large majority of the churches of the State and this board directly represents some 4,500 of them which are actively supporting the Anti-Saloon League as their agency.

In annual meeting assembled in the City of New York on January 8th, the Board of Trustees for the Anti-Saloon League has decided that, while asking no favors either for the organization of which this board is the controlling power or for the church constituency represented by the Anti-Saloon League, nevertheless as citizens and as representatives of citizens who stand for upholding law and order, we respectfully but emphatically make solemn protest against any further use of the power of this State to expose the State to the disgrace, the humiliation and the actual danger of incitement to anarchy which will come from wiping from the statute books of the State the measure duly passed by this State in the discharge of its undeniable duty to uphold the Constitution of the United States and the laws of Congress passed pursuant thereto, which by the terms of that document are the supreme law of the land.

We have instructed that the Anti-Saloon League shall be represented in such manner as may be determined by the State Superintendent at the public hearing given by you in order that it may be clear that even the certainty that your approval of the repealer will greatly strengthen the influence and increase the support of the Anti-Saloon League will not deter us from the discharge of our duty to give warning of the injury to the good name of the State and the welfare of its citizens that will come through such action on your part.

We have further concurred in the recommendation of the State Superintendent that the Hon. Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, the recognized legislative leader of the federated church forces of the nation, be invited to make, both through personal presence and a formal brief to be filed with you, proper representations as to the effect of approval by you of this bill upon the law enforcement situation of the entire nation.

Yours respectfully,
THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF NEW YORK,
By Order of the Board of Trustees,
WILLIAM C. SPICER, President Pro Tem.
GEORGE CALEB MOORE, Secretary.

2 BOATS LYING NEAR WET FLEET SEIZED

None of Boats Contained Intoxicating Beverages—Is Move to Starve Armada.

The United States Coast Guard took another step yesterday in its plan to conquer the rum-running fleet beyond the three-mile limit by starvation. Hitherto several small boats and one tug have been seized as they were approaching or leaving the rum runners, riding beyond this country's jurisdiction. The further tactics employed yesterday consisted in seizing two motorboats that were lying alongside the wet ships. There was no liquor aboard either boat, just as there was none on those seized before, since the new policy was inaugurated. The offense, according to Coast Guard officials, lay in violating the law of the United States which forbids engaging in foreign commerce without a license.

It was the cutter Seminole that steamed up alongside the rum fleet off the New Jersey coast, seized the boats, the Eagle and the Safa, and arrested their crews two men each. The captive boats and the four prisoners were turned over to the cutter Manhattan which brought them to the Barge Office.

The new policy of starving the fleet was inaugurated on May 2 last, when a tugboat and a motorboat were taken. Two charges were made against those seized in that raid, conspiracy to violate the Prohibition law and technical violation of the act forbidding engaging in foreign commerce without a license. On May 4 two more small motorboats were seized, their crews being charged with having been in communication with the rum fleet. At that time it was announced that a test case would be brought to decide whether carrying merchandise out to the rum runners could be construed as engaging in foreign commerce.

BARTON REAPPOINTED TO RAIL LABOR BOARD

Harding Fills Three Vacancies in That Body and Names New Commerce Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Appointments to four offices having to do with the railroad industry—three to the Railroad Labor Board and one to the Interstate Commerce Commission—were made today by President Harding.

To the Labor Board the President reappointed R. M. Barton of Memphis, Tenn., and Horace Baker of Chicago as named E. F. Grable, formerly Grand representatives of the public and managements groups, respectively, and President of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers, as a representative of labor.

Appointments to the Labor Board had been awaited since April 15, when a vacancy in each of the three groups composing the board had been brought about through expiration of the terms of Judge Barton, Mr. Baker and Albert Phillips of the labor group. The President, it was understood, decided some time ago on the appointments to the labor and management groups, but decided to weigh carefully the merits of several candidates for the vacancy on the public group before making a selection. Among those who had been reported as under consideration for this vacancy were former Representative Volstead of Minnesota and Governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky.

Judge Barton was appointed to the board for a term of three years by President Wilson in 1920, and was its first chairman. He is a Democrat and, prior to taking a place on the board, was a member of the Tennessee Senate and Judge of the Tennessee Courts of Chancery Appeals and of Civil Appeals.

Mr. Baker, whose name, with the names of four others, was submitted by the railroad managements as a possible appointee, was General Manager of the Southern Railway's western lines prior to his appointment to the board by President Wilson at the same time Judge Barton was named.

Mr. Grable was a prominent figure in the railroad strike last Summer, it being largely through his influence that the maintenance of way employes remained at work for the most part during the shopmen's strike.

Mr. McManamy, who succeeds to the vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission created by the recent resignation of W. M. Daniels of New Jersey, has been in the service of the commission and of the Railroad Administration for fifteen years, and prior to that was a railroad worker.

The appointments made today clean the slate of unfilled Federal offices, with the exception of several Judgeships and routine changes among District Attorneys, Marshals and Postmasters.

REPORT STAY CERTAIN ON THE KNOX DECISION

Order Concerning Doctors' Liquor Prescriptions Will Be Suspended, Washington Hears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The Department of Justice was advised today that assurances had been given of a stay of execution of the recent New York Federal court decision holding void the limitation on physician's liquor prescriptions in the Volstead act.

Officials had been confident that the stay would be granted, but the information from District Attorney Hayward was regarded as conclusive.

Suspension of the order enjoining Federal officials from limiting liquor prescriptions in the test case will operate to leave that provision of the Volstead act in full force and effect pending the Government's appeal, which will go to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Ninety days is given to the Government to perfect an appeal either to the Circuit Court of Appeals or direct to the Supreme Court.

A concise preliminary interpretation of the Supreme Court's decision that neither foreign nor American ships should bring liquor inside the three-mile limit was formulated today by Commissioner D. H. Blair for the benefit of revenue and customs officers. This reads:

"'Transportation' means any real carrying about.

"'Importation' means any actual bringing in from outside the country.

"'Territory,' as used in the Eighteenth Amendment, means the regional areas of land and adjacent waters over which the United States claims and exercises dominion and control as a sovereign power.

"American vessels on the high seas are not territory within this meaning.

"Both American and foreign vessels within the territory jurisdiction of the United States are subject to the Eighteenth Amendment and the national prohibition act."

WOMEN LEGISLATORS HERE FROM GERMANY

Frau Dransfeld of Reichstag and Frau Weber of Landtag Arrive to Study Social Conditions.

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday from Bremen on the George Washington of the United States Lines were Frau Helen Hedwig Dransfeld, member of the Reichstag, and Frau Helen Weber, member of the Landtag, the Prussian State Legislature. They have come here to study social conditions and get acquainted with American women in politics. While here they will deliver addresses in English and German, and endeavor to promote a better feeling by explaining the position of Germany in the Ruhr crisis and the attitude of her people toward America.

Both women are unmarried, but are styled "Frau" by courtesy, because of their official positions.

Frau Dransfeld is Vice President of the Centrum Party in the Reichstag, which includes the Catholic Party and is considered the conservative element in the Parliament. Frau Weber is a delegate of the Ruhr district and comes from Dortmund. She is a member of the German Ministry of Public Welfare, Chairman of the Catholic Workers, and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Civic Rights of Women of the International League, which has its headquarters at Utrecht, Holland.

Frau Weber said that the situation in the Ruhr was very serious when she left Essen two weeks ago and that there was serious rioting at Buer, Bochum and Recklinghausen. The people were unlike the inhabitants of the Rhenish provinces, she said, and were a determined, stubborn race. She believed that they could hold out in their passive resistance to the French occupation of the Ruhr district for some months yet. It was difficult, she said, to foretell just what would happen there.

"We are here," continued Frau Weber in good English, "to bring the thanks of the German women to the women of America for what they have done for us, and to try to bring the two countries into closer relations of friendship through the women of both republics. It will bring out a better understanding. We shall also visit several of the large American cities, including Philadelphia and Chicago, before we return to Germany three months from now. We will look into the social and political work conducted by women."

The two women will stay at the Hospital of St. Francis, Brook Avenue and 142d Street, the Bronx, and will have their first reception at the Kelping House, 185 East Eighty-eighth Street, tomorrow evening.

RECIPROCITY MOVE IS MADE BY CANADA

into a $60,000,000 deficit by requirements of the National Railways, computed at $76,000,000.

The budget provided for numerous important revisions of revenue taxes and the tariff, the income tax to remain unchanged.

The customs and excise changes come into force on May 12, and the changes in the special War Revenue act on Aug. 1.

Nearly every change proposed was a reduction. There was an exception in the case of raisins and dried currants, on which it was proposed to increase the duty and make it 3 cents a pound under both the intermediate and general tariffs, while these commodities enter free under British preference. If Australia should agree to an arrangement which would bring her under the British preference, currants and raisins from that country would enter free.

Imposition of the sales tax at the source is stipulated, a 6 per cent. rate to apply to all imports and home manufactures.

In customs, the preferential tariff is reduced by a 10 per cent. discount in the duty under the existing computation, when the taxable goods are conveyed without transshipment into a sea or river port of Canada. This discount will not apply on wines, malt liquors, spirits, spirituous liquors, liquid medicines and articles containing alcohol, sugar, tobacco, cigarettes, or on goods upon which the duty rate does not exceed 15 per cent., or on goods admitted to the Dominion under the Canada-West Indies agreement.

The tax on confectionery and beverages is repealed. Carbonic acid gas in cylinders will be subject to a duty of 1 cent a pound. The tax on beet root sugar also is lifted.

The tariff on refined sugar would be reduced ¼ cent a pound; on raw sugar 40 cents per 100 pounds; fire brick for furnace construction or repair would go under a uniform rate of 5 per cent. preferential tariff, 7½ per cent. intermediate tariff and 10 per cent. general tariff.

"Sheet feeding machines" and "machinery for printing by photographic method" are added to the item "printing presses" at the rate of 5 per cent. preferential tariff, 10 per cent. intermediate tariff, 10 per cent. general tariff.

Stumping machines are reduced to the same rate as "other agricultural implements"—10 per cent. preferential tariff, 15 per cent. intermediate tariff, 15 per cent. general tariff.

A drawback of 40 per cent. is to be allowed on materials used in the manufacture of these machines.

Machinery of a class or kind not made in Canada for the manufacture of fish meal and other articles from fish and waste thereof is made free.

A few items are added to the list of exceptions from the sales tax. The receipt tax is to be continued and the maximum tax on checks is reduced from $2 to $1. The excise tax on Canadian wines is reduced from $3 to $1.50 per gallon.

Artificial silk yarns or filaments are made dutiable at 10 per cent. preferential tariff, 12½ per cent. intermediate tariff and 15 per cent. general tariff.

All manufactures of artificial silk are made dutiable at the same rate as manufactures of silk; in some cases this is an increase and in others a decrease.

A drawback of 60 per cent. may be paid on machinery and parts thereof of a class or kind not made in Canada, when used in manufacturing or producing goods of a class or kind not made in Canada prior to May 12.

A drawback of 99 per cent. is to be allowed on copper in blocks, pigs or bars when used in the manufacture of rods for electric wires.

A bounty will also be paid on hemp grown in Canada used in the manufacture of yarn or twine or in the manufacture of hemp further advanced than yarn or twine.

The Canadian preferential tariff covers imports from Great Britain and such portions of the empire as offer preferential treatment to Canadian trade.

The general tariff covers imports from all countries maintaining high protective tariffs against Canadian goods.

'MAYBE PRO-BRITISH' COL. HARVEY ADMITS

"But," Declares Returning Ambassador, "I am Not a Damn Fool."

SAYS HE WILL NOT RESIGN

A. B. Houghton, Envoy at Berlin, and Clarence E. Woods, New Ambassador to Japan, Also Arrive.

Three United States Ambassadors arrived yesterday from London, Berlin and Madrid, accompanied by their families, on the George Washington of the United States Lines. They will spend a few days in New York or at their homes before proceeding to Washington to report to the State Department. When they met reporters on the ship Colonel George Harvey, Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, took a seat at the middle of the table, with Clarence E. Woods, former Minister to Spain and newly appointed Ambassador to Japan, on his right, and Alanson B. Houghton, Ambassador to Germany, on his left.

Colonel Harvey, who appeared in much better health than when he was here last winter on a special mission for the Government, made it clear that he had no intention of retiring from his post until his time expired and said that he had come home on his first leave of absence in two years. His visit here last winter was described by the Ambassador as "business." After he has finished his official reports in Washington he will spend the remainder of his holiday fishing and will sail for England on the Leviathan July 4.

When asked as to the criticisms made here that he was too British and ought to be recalled, Colonel Harvey said, "I may be pro-British, but I am not a damn fool. The relations between the two countries have never been better than they are today." He wore his big horn rimmed spectacles, a dark gray suit and a high crowned square topped bowler of the type made fashionable thirty years ago by the late J. P. Morgan, Joseph H. Choate and William C. Whitney. When told that his statement made in England at a meeting where the Prince of Wales was present to the effect that Peacham, Vt., Colonel Harvey's home town, was 100 per cent. English descent had been questioned because one of the principal storekeepers was German born, he replied philosophically:

"Are you going to Peacham?"

"Yes, of course. It is my home town."

"Have you returned to resign?" he was asked.

"The newspapers have me resigning from time to time. Of course, I shall resign, as all my predecessors have done, except one who died."

Colonel Harvey was told that there was a rumor current in Washington that he would resign to accept a portfolio in the Cabinet. "That's up to the President to decide," he commented. He avoided making any reply as to whether he would give up his post in London if the offer of a Cabinet appointment were made to him. When asked about conditions in England, Ambassador Harvey said:

Finds England Steadily Improving.

"England is steadily improving in every way—financially, industrially and economically. Unemployment is decreasing at the rate of 20,000 a week. When I went there three years ago there were 2,000,000 out of work and now the number has dwindled to 1,200,000. Since the debt settlement with the United States the financial conditions in England have improved steadily. When I went there the pound sterling was $3.54, and now it is up to $4.64, within 21 cents of its pre-war value in United States currency."

He added that Lord Birkenhead was coming here in August to deliver an address at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass. "Lord Birkenhead was the Lord Chancellor," he explained, "and is now one of the lost treasures." He said that when he saw Mr. Lloyd George two weeks ago the ex-Premier told him he hoped to visit the United States in the Fall.

Colonel Harvey was accompanied by Mrs. Harvey and their little granddaughter, Dorothy Thomson, and her governess, and were met at the pier in Hoboken by members of his family. When the Ambassador to Great Britain rose from his seat he said he would make way for his colleague, the Ambassador to Germany, and Alanson B. Houghton moved into his place and faced the reporters with a smile on his ruddy face. He told the newspapermen that the attitude of Germany toward the United States was friendly and there was very little hatred in that country toward the United States when he left Berlin. Whatever feeling there was in Germany against this country was due, in his opinion, to misunderstanding.

Houghton Pessimistic on Europe.

He appeared to be pessimistic over the general conditions in Europe and did not think there was any prospect for peace there in the near future. When asked about the recent offer made by Germany to France on the reparations question Ambassador Houghton replied that he believed it had been made in good faith.

"What do you think of the present political conditions in Germany?"

"What do you think of the sentence upon Krupp von Bohlen of the Krupp's at Essen?"

"I imagine that he can appeal to the French courts."

"Do you think that the situation in the Ruhr is endangering the German Government."

"I should think not."

"Has the Ruhr occupation changed the attitude of Germany toward France?"

"Yes, it has changed the conditions of the German mind for the worse."

When he was asked if it were likely that Germany would join hands with Russia in an attack on France, he replied that Germany was unlikely to make war for many years to come.

"The people are working wherever they can obtain employment, without any thought of war in their minds. They want to get food and clothing for themselves and their families."

Ruhr Increasing Unemployment.

He added that the occupation of the Ruhr was increasing the unemployment in Germany, although there were other reasons. With regard to the big drop in the currency, he did not believe that the German bankers had deflated the mark with deliberate intent. Asked if Germany was looking toward the United States as her sole hope in getting out of her present predicament, Ambassador Houghton replied that he did not believe in that rumor. "I think," he said, "that it is accepted in Germany that she must work out her salvation alone."

Mr. Houghton, whose home is in Corning, N. Y., was accompanied by Mrs. Houghton, their daughters, Matilda and Elisabeth, and their son, Amory Houghton, and his wife.

Ambassador Woods arrived on the ship with Mrs. Woods on his way to Tokio and expressed his pleasure at the honor which had been conferred upon him by the President. He had enjoyed his three years in Spain, and the life in Madrid was very pleasant, but it was not quite active enough to suit him. He said that the feeling in Spain toward Americans was very friendly, indeed, and that King Alfonso XIII. would like to visit the United States, but could not get away from his duties long enough to make the trip.

Says King Would be First President.

When asked about the reports of trouble in Spain with the Socialists and the chances of the monarchy being overthrown and a republic set up in its place, the Ambassador replied: "If such a change, which is extremely unlikely, occurs I am sure that King Alfonso would be elected its first President, as he is the most popular man in the country with the masses of the people. The reports of the uprisings which were sent abroad were very much exaggerated. King Alfonso is a very hard working ruler."

Mr. Woods did not believe in the report that the Spanish Government intended to pass a law to prevent the King from visiting Deauville and other popular resorts where there is gambling. There was a report from Barcelona, he added, that the steamship service between the United States and Spain was to be improved by putting on new steamships that would reduce the time of the journey by two or three days.

Mrs. Woods said she saw bullfights in Madrid and had some misgivings about them until she was informed that the Spaniards had started the sport in the twelfth century to train the young men in the use of arms to fight against the Moors in their own country and against the Moslems in the crusades to the Holy Land. Mr. Woods was met at the pier by a delegation from his native town, Greenburg, Pa., with a private car to take him there. He said he would go later to Washington for instructions and then proceed to the Pacific Coast and sail for Yokohama.

HARVEY'S VISIT PERSONAL.

Washington Not Aware That He Has Any Political Plans.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The arrival of Colonel George Harvey in New York caused inquiries to be made at the White House today as to the reasons for his return to America at this time. These inquiries brought the first formal explanation on the subject which was in accord with the understanding previously obtained and published in The New Yorkk Times that Colonel Harvey's visit was purely of a personal nature and has no connection, so far as the Administration is aware, with any political plans of the Ambassador.

It was said at the White House in behalf of President Harding that, so far as he or the State Department knew, the leave of absence granted to Colonel Harvey was to enable him to attend to personal affairs. Colonel Harvey, it was said, had not as much as hinted that he contemplated retiring from his diplomatic post. There is every reason to believe that in asking for leave of absence Colonel Harvey made no other statement to President Harding and Secretary Hughes than that he was obliged to give attention to personal affairs which he had been unable to attend to when he was in this country at the beginning of the year.

Before Colonel Harvey had the opportunity of attending to his personal affairs he was called from New York to Washington to assist the American Debt Commission. The negotiations were halted when the British Commission was summoned to London for further consultation with the Cabinet. It was deemed important by the American Commission that Colonel Harvey should be in London while the British conferences were in progress and he was asked to return to England without delay.

MOUNT BURIED IN LIME, SAYS MEDICAL EXPERT

Grand Jury Views the Hazed Student's Skeleton and the Pier Where It Was Found.

CHICAGO, May 11.—An effort to identify the skeleton found under an Evanston pier twelve days ago as that of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University student who disappeared in September, 1921, after a class rush, was being made tonight by members of a party of doctors and Coroner's assistants, who went to Evanston today to examine the skeleton and view the pier under which it was found.

The report of the specialists and experts will be submitted to the Grand Jury, which also viewed the scene as well as the skeleton, the corroded belt buckle with its initials "L. M." and bits of cloth and a piece of rope found beside the skeleton.

Dr. Joseph Springer, Coroner's physician, declared the identification was positive in his mind.

Dr. B. S. McLeod, a specialist in bone tissue, expressed the opinion that quicklime or other chemical had been used to hasten decomposition. Samples of the bone were taken to test this theory.

Dr. F. H. Ivey, a Chicago dentist, identified the skeleton by means of fillings in the teeth.

William Sadler, a newspaper reporter, who has been accused by students of kidnapping Mount to obtain a "scoop," went before the jury and denied this.

President Scott of Northwestern was called again today and denied statements attributed by the newspapers to Mrs. J. L. Mount, mother of the missing student, to the effect that thirteen students were expelled after the hazing.

Dean Flickinger testified that although hazing was prohibited no disciplinary measures had been taken after the 1921 class rush, because no complaint was made.

but for the consumers of the nation. Won't you join us and help us?"

Mrs. Welsmiller spoke at a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club at the Hotel Commodore and said that her committee had prepared a bill for the next Congress which would seek to make it unlawful to deal in "futures." She said the proposed law would make actual delivery a requisite of every sale.

Advances in the price of Cuban raw sugar continued yesterday to 6⅛ cents, against 6.42 cents on Thursday. At the same time there was a decline of from 4 to 23 points in sugar futures, and the refined price remained unchanged.

"Only 324,820 tons of sugar remained to be produced by Cuba at the beginning of May to equal the Federal estimate," states the Federal Sugar Refining Company in its review of the industry. "According to cables from Federal's representatives on the island, the total production to April 30 was 3,410,180 tons. To April 15 the total production was 3,126,059, so that in the two intervening weeks Cuba produced 284,121 tons. The revised Federal estimate for the crop is 3,735,000 tons, leaving 324,820 tons to be produced since the date of the last report.

The Board of Trustees of the Contemporary, the largest women's organization in Newark, consisting of several thousand members, yesterday voted to refrain from buying sugar except when absolutely necessary until the present high prices for that commodity have been reduced. This action was in response to a request from the State Federation of Women's Clubs, which is sending similar requests to all organizations of women in New Jersey.

LONDON, May 11.—Speaking at a woman's Unionist meeting today Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in referring to the sugar situation said the sowings in Europe were approaching a 40 per cent. increase over last year and that so far as could be seen production by the early part of next year would once more be ahead of consumption and prices would fall.

The Chancellor asserted that the only result of a reduction in the sugar duty here would be that the foreign producer would get what the Exchequer surrendered. The obvious thing for him to do, he said, was to decline to take such a step and to await the inevitable working of natural law which meant that the higher prices this year would result in an increase of sugar cultivation.

MRS. HAYES'S BAIL MAY BE WITHDRAWN

Surety Company Asks for 'Surrender Piece' in Its Bond of $10,000.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY POLICE

Friends Said to Have Faith in Woman Indicted on Charge of Forging Schwab's Name.

Further light was thrown on the career of Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes, under indictment on the charge of forging the name of Charles M. Schwab to a promissory note for $25,000, when it was alleged that in the last fifteen years she had been connected with several business enterprises which had met with failure after large sums of money had been invested in stock by acquaintances of the woman.

It was reported that many of the losers in these ventures were residents of Boston, Worcester and other cities in Massachusetts, and it was alleged that before they made investments Mrs. Hayes invariably told them Mr. Schwab was her personal friend.

It was reported that many friends of Mrs. Hayes in Boston have declared that, although they had suffered financial losses through two hotel projects she started in that city and Brookline, they still retained confidence in her.

Orville H. Hayes, her husband, was reported to be the nephew of a banker in this city, and a "gentleman farmer" at Pigeon Cove, Me. Friends of the couple said that Mr. Hayes was in no way connected with the project to build the hotel in Brookline, or the previous plan to build one in Boston.

The representatives of the surety company that obtained Mrs. Hayes's release on $10,000 bail last Wednesday night applied for a "surrender piece" in General Sessions yesterday and intimated that the company was about to withdraw its bail bond. He said that the officials of his company had received information that Mrs. Hayes contemplated leavin gthe city for Boston, which would be a violation of her agreement with the company when it agreed to furnish the bond.

The "surrender piece" acts as a warrant in such cases, and the person holding it can call on any policeman to aid him in lodging the person named in the instrument in the Tombs. Mrs. Hayes had not appeared at her suite in the Hotel Lorraine up to a late hour last night, and at the Tombs it was said that she had not been brought there. The police said they had not been asked to take her into custody.

CALIFORNIA SIZZLES; BAY STATE FREEZES

Mercury Hits 103 at Calexico—Ice Forms in Massachusetts Ponds—Snow in Montana.

CALEXICO, Cal., May 11.—Because of the hot weather the School Board has issued an order for schools to open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at noon.

The thermometer registered 103 degrees yesterday, but a cool breese last night indicated the peak of the heat wave had been reached.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 11.—Reports this morning from several towns in the northerly and westerly sections of the county record a drop in temperature of forty degrees to 28 during the past forty-eight hours, with snow capping the hills in Rutland, Princeton and Barre.

The lowlands in the valley towns were visited by a heavy frost this morning, but as peas are about the only vegetable out of the ground there will be practically no damage to crops. The peach orchards in Grafton, Berlin, Bolton and Harvard being on high ground, escaped the frost. Most all ponds were frozen over.

NAVY BARS STATE POLICE.

Judge Advocate General Rules They Have No Jurisdiction in Yards.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The question whether the authority of State and city police officials runs within the limits of a naval shore station of a navy yard has been answered in the negative by the judge advocate general of the navy in an opinion approved by Secretary Denby.

"A police officer, or other State officer has no right whatever to conduct investigations of any kind within a yard," Rear Admiral Latimer, the judge advocate general, asserted. He added that in cases where there is reasonable ground for believing that an offender against State laws has taken refuge within a yard, a duly authorized State officer should be permitted to enter for the purpose of identifying, if possible, the guilty party.

If the offender is in the service, his arrest should not be permitted, but his surrender arranged in accordance with regulations; if a civilian, he should be forced to leave the yard, the State officer being notified of the departure.

POLICEMAN MAKES RESCUE.

Donald McDonald Saves Stevedore in East River.

Joseph Mahoney of 6 Middagh Street, Brooklyn, fell into the East River at the foot of Maiden Lane yesterday and was rescued by Patrolman Donald McDonald of the Oak Street Station. Mahoney, a stevedore, was walking along the stringpiece near a United Fruit Line pier when he lost his balance. McDonald, hearing his cries, ran over and saw him struggling in the water, the tide gradually taking him out.

Throwing off his cap and coat, McDonald jumped in and swam over to Mahoney, caught him by the hair and held him up until they were picked up by several men in a rowboat. The men were attended by a doctor from Broad Street Hospital. McDonald was congratulated by Chief Inspector William Lahey, who is his uncle.

PUBLICITY CUT OFF IN CHILDREN'S COURT

'NO STAR CHAMBER SESSION'

Use of Names May Mean Ruin in Future, He Says—Society's Head Agrees.

When reporters assigned to the Brooklyn courts appeared at the Children's Court in Schermerhorn Street, yesterday, they were told by attaches that Justice Morgan M. L. Ryan had instructed them to bar the press from the courtroom. No previous intimation had been given to this policy which seemed to be in violation of Section 4 of the Judiciary Act, prescribing that all courts should be open to the public.

Justice Ryan's attitude is in striking contrast to that of Chief Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt, whose policy has been to welcome the press. In his book on juvenile delinquency Justice Hoyt appealed to the press to interest itself in the work of the children's courts. He has been quoted as saying: "I always view that a good story helps the cause of child welfare."

Justice Ryan defined his attitude in an interview at his home in West Brighton, S. I., where a reporter found him yesterday afternoon sowing grass on his lawn.

"I am legally and morally right in barring the public and the press from my courtroom during the hearing," he said. "I have been doing so for many years. This morning I learned that reporters had been gaining entrance to the courtroom and I simply instructed the attaches to keep them out."

He quoted a section of the Inferior Criminal Courts act which empowers a Judge to exclude the public from the hearings of any case involving a child, and said the law was enacted for the very purpose of protecting the child.

"My aim is to protect the child and its future," he said. "No newspaper worthy of its name would print any of the cases that appear in the Children's Court. If the press would leave out the name of a child, and simply say 'a 15-year-old girl,' or 'a 9-year-old boy' was arraigned or sentenced on a certain charge, it might be different.

"The whole future of a woman who had been in court as a child might be ruined if her name had been published at the time of the delinquency. Some one in later years would be sure to recall it. A boy who had been convicted might find it impossible to get work, and if he does, to keep his job. The publication of names serves no purpose as evidenced by the annual appeal for the Hundred Neediest Cases in THE TIMES. In that appeal you don't publish names which would embarrass those who had met financial reverses or other misfortunes."

Justice Ryan said that half the cases that came before him involved improper guardianship. He disagreed with the suggestion that it was good public policy to give the name of a child whose parent or guardian had subjected him or her to cruel treatment. "And I want to emphasize that it is not a star chamber proceeding as far as the families and attorneys in the case are concerned," he said. "Only the public and press are excluded."

Charles Warner, Superintendent of the Brooklyn branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, coincided with the views of Justice Ryan. Although his office is decorated with pictures depicting children who had been victims of cruelty, he still believed that the press should not be admitted to the Children's Court.

"Children who have been in court have returned to their neighborhood with a stigma which their playmates hurled at them. Publishing accounts of juvenile burglars makes heroes of them, if they chance to read the papers. After all, juvenile delinquency is largely the result of environment, and the one problem is to give the delinquent a new outlook. If the world knows his or her name and the details of the crime the problem is harder."

TRENTON, N. J., May 11.—In company with Mrs. H. Otto Witpen of Jersey City of the State Board of Institutions and Agencies, Governor Silzer today inspected the New Jersey Reformatory for Women at Clinton. Tomorrow the Governor will visit the New Jersey State Hospital at Morris Plains.

Last week the Governor announced he intended to visit the various State institutions in order to secure first hand information as to how they are conducted and their needs for the future.

A. C. McClurg & Co. have sold the retail department of their book business to Brentano's. Starting originally as a retail house, the wholesale department has developed so greatly that it is now six-sevenths of their total business. A statement by the McClurg company says:

DETROIT, May 11.—All employes of the Detroit United Railway, operating a large proportion of the Interurban Railway trains in Southern Michigan, were preparing for a strike vote today, following the refusal of the company to bargain collectively with the various unions in which the workers hold membership. The company declared its intention of treating with each union individually or not at all. The workers demand a 20 per cent. wage increase for all classes.

AGED BROOKLYN MAN BEATEN BY BURGLAR

Attacked as He Goes to Answer Telephone, Robbed of $57 and Locked in Closet.

A burglar who got into the home of Lee Greenfield, a well-to-do dress manufacturer, at 2,106 Eightieth Street, Brooklyn, yesterday, beat his father-in-law, Leopold Klein, 90 years old, into unconsciousness and then robbed the house. The police say the assault was so unnecessary and brutal that it was probably the work of an amateur, on whom they have a good description.

Mr. Klein was alone in the house, his daughter, Mrs. Greenfield, and Mrs. Klein having gone to a funeral in the afternoon. He was sitting in his room reading when he heard the telephone ring in the hall downstairs and went to answer it. As he approached the telephone he saw a man standing at one side of the hall, and as he picked up the telephone the man stepped up behind him and hit him on the head with an iron pipe. Mr. Klein fell to the floor, and the man stooped over him.

"Don't hit me again; I am an old man," begged Mr. Klein, but the young thug hit him twice more over the head, and then dragged him to a little closet and locked him in.

About half an hour later Mrs. Klein and Mrs. Greenfield returned and heard moans. They traced them to the closet and discovered Mr. Klein lying on the floor only partly conscious. Dr. Albert R. Fritz of 8,622 Bay Parkway was called, and said that Mr. Klein had some severe contusions, but that he would probably recover.

Acting Captain of Detectives George Busby, with Detectives Lahey, Kramer and Henne, searched the house to learn how the burglar gained entrance, but without success. It was found that he had taken $57 from Mr. Klein's pocket, a necklace from a bureau drawer and most of the silverware.

Mother's Day—May 13

The melodious character of the earth,
The finish beyond which philosophy cannot go, and does not wish to go,
The justified mother of men.
—Walt Whitman.

Lincoln said that he owed everything he became in life to his mother. Tolstoi believed that to have seen again his mother's enchanting smile would have healed his most acute unhappiness. The passionate affection of Madame de Sevigne for her daughter is kept fresh for all generations of mothers and daughters in her immortally gay and witty letters.

The white carnation, the Mother's Day gift, each is but a symbol, a token in recognition of that age-old selfless devotion of mothers the world over to their children which no gift can ever repay.

DAIL WITH COSGRAVE AGAINST DE VALERA

President Says He Will Welcome Irish Peace on Any Honest Basis Upholding Treaty.

BUT WON'T CALL OFF TROOPS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, May 11.—Winding up the debate in the Dail, which had continued during most of the week on de Valera's peace proposals, William Cosgrave, president of the Cabinet, said he was not impressed by those peace conditions, statements and proclamations of the republicans, and that further examination did not convince him.

Just about the time that the first peace letter came in he ran across a letter found in Ernest O'Malley's house which referred to a truce and peace negotiations, pointing out that the Free State Government could not accept de Valera's terms because they implied a breach of the Constitution, and also that a truce would not last long and that war would start again.

The President proceeded to ask whether the issue in this peace business was not a political career for the people who had waged destruction and disorder throughout the country in the past ten months. If those people wanted peace let them subscribe to democratic principles.

It was stated at one time that a certain number of men could hold up the country, but said the President, "we will see before we get out of office that that doctrine will be exploded," and continued:

"If we see any honest effort on the part of anybody acting for the irregulars, republicans and people promoting disorder to make peace, we will deliver the goods, but we have no intention of releasing one single soldier from his duty until we know where we are with regard to these people. We would be failing in our duty if we did."

He said he had received messages from all parts of the country expressing apprehension that the Government should enter into any negotiations that would mortgage the future liberty of the people.

Mr. Cosgrave said that from the very beginning the Government was prepared to wipe the slate clean, but was not now prepared to take any risk regarding the possession of arms by people who do not realize the responsibilities of citizens. "They want a lease of political life," he concluded, "but it can not be given at the price asked."

Labor Opposes de Valera Terms.

During the debate a Labor member, Deputy Johnson, said he recognized the foolish nature of the conditions put up to the Government and thought too much importance was attached to a general election to find out the people's will. He added that it should be obvious to de Valera that the people's will was very clearly expressed, not by votes but by conduct, action and acceptance of the Government Constitution and the jurisdiction of the Dail and Senate. All such should be taken by any sane statesman and observer of politics as a clear indication of the people's will.

The Deputy examined de Valera's terms in detail, characterizing some as childish and declaring that only two mattered, namely, the disposal of arms and the taking of the oath. As to the latter, he said, there was no necessity of any one objecting to the oath, denying himself the rights of citizenship and taking any part he wished in political life and activities of the nation.

As to the arms disposal he contended that it would mean no loss of prestige to the Government, whose authority was recognized by the mass of the people, to concede something to the raw, peculiar mentality, prejudices and sincere convictions of the Republicans. He added that if there was a will to peace, even that kind action on the part of the Government would result in early peace by complete cessation of hostilities and more general acceptance of the Government's authority.

He suggested the cessation of military activity by the Government for one month to test how far peace is really meant by de Valera.

Deputy Milroy thought Johnson's suggestion in conflict with all conceptions of statesmanship, with all elements toward stable peace, declaring: "I think it is time to end definitely and finally all this comic opera diplomacy, these hankey-pankey negotiations, and time to talk horse sense. There are certain basic principles of authority that must be observed in this as in all other civilized countries, and the Ten Commandments must not be scrapped even in the Free State."

He suggested to the Government to carry on, because the Irish people expected resolute action on the part of their own Government.

Duffy for Negotiations.

Deputy Gavan Duffy said one thing came clear out of the correspondence read on Wednesday by Mr. Cosgrave, and it was that negotiations should be resumed forthwith. The question of disposal of arms should be left to the military chiefs of both sides. As to the oath, he said that if there is one thing more certain than another it is that the oath clause must go. He asked the Government and the House to realize how very slight was the difference now separating the Government from the Republicans, and how immensely important it was for the country to have peace by agreement.

Mr. Hogan, Minister of Agriculture, said the real issues were common honesty, common decency, and everything making for honest, decent public life, adding that any peace that did not vindicate those principles was no peace.

Professor MacEnnis also examined De Valera's proposals and said the difficulties in the way of peace were arms and the men. He asked whether there were not other men on the other side with whom satisfactory negotiations could be conducted, and concluded that the personality and peculiar mentality of any man should not be allowed to stand between the country and peace.

Other deputies urged that if an opportunity should present itself for an agreement it should be taken advantage of.

Senator Douglas gives an account of the conversation he and Senator Jameson had with de Valera, in the course of which the republican leader said that, notwithstanding the Government's statement that the oath question could not be reopened he had felt it right to include in his terms the condition that no citizen subscribing to other conditions could be justly excluded by any political oath, test or other device from a share in determining the national policy or from the councils of Parliament, because he believed that even if the Government could not do so, they should be asked to admit as a general principle that there should be no barrier to elected representatives accepting their main principles taking their seats.

The entire Dublin press devotes the principal editorials to the subject. The Irish Times, admitting that peace hopes have received another check, says the Government gives ample proof of its readiness to make every concession compatible with its duties and the rights and interests of the State. The only real obstacle which remained was de Valera's attitude toward the oath of allegiance. On this point, the paper says, the Government will not and cannot make any compromise. The oath is an inseparable part of the treaty and Constitution, and repudiation of it would be repudiation of the treaty and of the national verdict which ratified the treaty."

In all other matters, the paper said, de Valera was "knocking at an open door. This door, however, had been locked by the people themselves, and he must beat on it in vain until they choose to turn the key."

The paper points out that de Valera and his friends can have peace tomorrow without sacrificing republican principles if they take the Government's terms, and "they will then have every opportunity to induce the next general election to reverse the judgment of its predecessor and Cosgrave and his followers must accept it, whatever it may be. If it dethrones the Free State the present oath of allegiance will vanish and the people will have accepted the far-reaching and disastrous consequences of their action with open eyes."

The Irish Independent asks what is de Valera's actual complaint, and proceeds: "In regard to the custody of arms, the Government has modified its original terms. There remains the oath in the treaty. The people have accepted the treaty. Mr. de Valera says all authority is derived from the people. An article in the Constitution is to the same effect. Political issues should, he admits, be decided by a majority vote of the duly elected representatives of the people.

"He describes the oath as a political oath. It is, therefore, a political issue. The constitutional course is to put such issues before the people and let them decide."

The Freeman's Journal says De Valera's invitation to the Government to a peace palaver means an invitation to go back to December of 1921. It proceeds: "But in the interval the country has learned that Mr. de Valera, with all his constitutional and democratic professions, was ready 'to wade through the blood of brother Irishmen' to have his way. The Government is determined to have no more wading through the blood of Irishmen to settle differences that should be settled at the polling booths."

LARGE REBEL FORCES CAUGHT.

Dublin Announces Round-Up in the South and Seizure of Ammunition.

DUBLIN, May 11 (Associated Press).—Large captures of irregular troops throughout the South and the rounding up of several important columns of irregulars in the West are reported in an official army communique issued tonight.

The communique also reports the seizure of 10,000 rounds of Thompson gun ammunition at Louth, which it is believed was brought from Great Britain by persons now held prisoners.

REBUKED FOR KISSING, BOY AND GIRL DROWN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—Because they were reprimanded by their employer for kissing and told that their conduct would be reported to their parents, two 14-year-old children, Henri Chartier and Germaine Leboucher, drowned themselves in the Seine last night.

The two little sweethearts, both children of respectable parents, were known to be very much attached to each other. They worked side by side in a dye factory, and their love was a joke among their comrades. Yesterday evening the foreman, seeing them kissing each other, laughingly said he would tell their parents. The little girl, Germaine, who was slightly the older of the two and the dominant character, seems to have feared a rebuke, and to her companions when she left the factory she declared that she intended to end her life.

No one took the girl seriously until it was found that the children had not returned home after work. Search was begun during the night by their distracted parents and factory hands, and this morning the bodies of the two oversensitive children were found together in a lock in the river near their homes.

Why a "Second Choice"?

WHY NOT A PACKARD—TO-DAY?

MANY prospective Packard owners content themselves with a "second choice" motor car, and continue to promise themselves at some future date—a Packard.

WAS 4 DOWN AT 13TH HOLE

HARRIS OTHER FINALIST

Qualifies to Meet Wethered for British Title by Beating Grant, 5 and 4.

DEAL, England, May 11 (Associated Press).—British golfers today got rid of the last of the Americans who sought to take their amateur championship trophy across the Atlantic Ocean.

Francis Ouimet of Boston, former American open and amateur champion, was beaten this afternoon in one of the semi-final rounds by Roger Wethered of England. Douglas Grant, also an American, but who has lived for some time in England, lost the other semi-final to a short Scotchman, Robert Harris, by the score of 5 and 4.

The two finalists in the amateur golf championship to be decided here tomorrow are Britishers who represent the new and old school of golf. Robert Harris, a Scotchman, was an accomplished golfer before Roger Wethered, the Englishman, was born.

Harris, who has been dubbed by the experts "the surprise of the championship," is a stock broker. He was born in Dundee and is forty-one years of age. Harris is well kown in the United States, where he went last year with England's Walker Cup team. He did not play in the tournament owing to ill health. When twenty years old Harris won his first cup, presented by the Dundee Telegraph. He has captured several more trophies since then, including the gold vase, presented by Golf Illustrated, which he won in 1911 and 1912.

The Scotchman always enters a championship from the Royal and Ancient Club, but he is closely identified with the Royal St. George's at Sandwich. Several times he has been a favorite for the amateur championship, but the nearest he had got to it previously was reaching the final at St. Andrews in 1913, when he was beaten by the redoubtable H. H. Hilton. Harris, for several years running, has played for Scotland against England. He captained the Scottish amateur team against England at Sandwich last week. The match ended in a victory for his side. He will captain the British team in the Walker Cup match at St. Andrews.

Wethered Well Known Here.

Roger Wethered has the advantage in age, being seventeen years younger than his opponent. His record as a golfer is well known in the United States. He represented Great Britain against Americans and also was runner-up in the British open championship after a tie with Jock Hutchison at St. Andrews, when he beat the amateur record over the St Andrews course twice in one day.

The best performance of Wethered, however, was when he played for Oxford in 1919, beating R. H. De Montmorency on the last green at Stokepoges after having been five down with seven to play. He was captain of the Oxford University team in 1920, but resigned in favor of Cyril Tolley when Tolley that year won the amateur championship.

Wethered generally is considered better at stroke play than at match play. He certainly has done better work in stroke competition. He is a good all-round athlete and plays cricket and lawn tennis about as well as he plays golf.

Tomorrow's final of thirty-six holes will be but another of those frequent golf battles between England and Scotland. Ambitious America will play the less thrilling rôle of an interested spectator.

Ouimet Fails for Third Time.

In going down by a score of 2 up and 1 to play this afternoon Ouimet for the third time in his life failed to achieve his ambition to win the British amateur title. Before he fell he eliminated the pet of the English galleries, Cyril Tolley. In beating Tolley this morning in the sixth round Ouimet gave a magnificent display of artistic perfection in the strokes for which he long has been famous, and when he went out in the afternoon again to meet another giant of English golf he was the favorite.

But the Bostonian's artistry had deserted him; his shots were bereft of the superb finish that made his forenoon effort so bright and beautiful, and he was trounced by a man who played golf that was only ordinary for one with such a reputation as Wethered enjoys. To meet and defeat in one day such fine masters of match play as Tolley and Wethered was a terrible task to set for any one. It was one which Ouimet lacked sufficient stamina to fulfill.

Through poor putting Ouimet was four down by the time he reached the thirteenth green. Here, however, he rallied and tried bravely to avoid the inevitable. He succeeded in winning the fourteenth and fifteenth holes and barely missed winning the sixteenth where his putt, delicately curved to dodge a quarter stymie sticking on the lip, ran over the rim of the cup and refused to drop.

Wethered was beginning to play loosely. But he had played surely and steadily that first hour and a half when Ouimet had wobbled and wavered, particularly from the cups, and the young Englishman fairly deserted his victory.

The gallery of 3,000 thought so, and they loudly cheered Wethered for putting aside the man who, of all the visitors, was considered the one most likely to take the championship trophy away from the soil that gave it birth. The gallery had been wanting Wethered to win so badly that many members of it even cheered when Ouimet missed a putt, his third one, on the ninth hole and Wethered made the turn 2 up. This display of questionable golf manners somewhat affected Ouimet's temper, but the brisk and blithe Bostonian never by any outward sign let it be known.

Ouimet Makes Gritty Fight.

After losing th eninth Ouimet's hitting went furiously off the line, whereas on the outward round his play through the fairways had continued good, and it was only on the greens he had failed to take Wethered's measure. At the twelfth his drive went into the rough and his second shot into a trap, and his third was short of the green. On the next hole the American went four down in his effort to sink a ten-foot putt, failing by inches.

Then Ouimet began a real fight, hopeless perhaps, but gritty; always appearing not a determined struggler but a carefree chap having a good time, win or lose. He chipped up so close to the fourteenth hole that Wethered conceded it to him. He repeated this performance at the fifteenth, where the Englishman got into a bunker and had to shoot twice to get out. Ouimet was two down with three to play at the sixteenth. Ouimet drove well and, like Wethered, was on in three, and well on, for his 50-yard approach lay six feet from the cup. Wethered then putted his fourth to the very edge of the pin, and it lay partly in the line of Ouimet's putt.

Ouimet knew that if he hit it Wethered's ball would drop and the match would be gone. Carefully and with exquisite touch he sent his ball curving to the cup. It reached the edge, ran along the top of the rim, seemed to hesitate, and then went away. Every one knew then that it was all over but the shouting, and the end came on the next green where both men took a four.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DEAL, England, May 11—The two remaining Americans were knocked out of the British amateur golf championship today and the thirty-six hole final tomorrow will be contested by an Englishman and a Scot. In defeating Francis Ouimet of Boston in the semifinals this afternoon, Roger Wethered came to the rescue of British golf, as he did at St. Andrews two years ago, while Robert Harris, who was a finalist in the championship in 1913, and captained the British team that visited America last year, accounted for Douglas Grant, a citizen of the United States, but a resident of England.

Ouimet had made a great bid for the British championship this week and when he defeated Cyril Tolley, a former British champion, in the sixth round this morning, it looked as if he was going to carry it off, for Tolley was the strongest hope of the British-ers. Expert opinion at Deal was that the winner of the Ouimet-Tolley match would be the winner of the championship, but events falsified that opinion.

Ouimet overcame Tolley all right but then found himself up against Britain's next best hope, Wethered. To meet and defeat in one day two men who are regarded as the finest amateur golfers in this country was a big task which Ouimet just failed to accomplish and with his departure from the contest there went up a sigh of relief from the British side and at the same time a certain amount of regret that such fine sportsmanship had been defeated.

Ouimet had made himself a great favorite at Deal and today he showed himself a splendid loser. The way in which he congratulated his victorious oppunent appealed very strongly to the three thousand persons who watched the match and he well deserved the warm-hearted cheers that went up for him. The two players walked off the last green with their arms around each other's waist.

Crowd Follows Ouimet-Tolley.

Virtually everybody went out in the morning to follow Ouimet and Tolley. There was a strong wind blowing and Tolley was most disappointing in the lack of control he showed over the ball. He was outdriving his opponent but he was frequently in trouble and in all other departments of the game the American was superior. Ouimet was not driving for length from the tees but for accuracy in the direction of the ball. The consequence was that Tolley actually won only two holes out of eighteens, namely, the second, where Ouimet found himself stymied, and the ninth, where the American thrice visited the roush.

Play for the first nine holes was fairly level, Ouimet was outdriven at the first hole but secured it by a finely played second shot. Tolley squared the match at the second, and the third was halved. Ouimet got a superb two at the fourth to take the lead again. After the fifth was halved, Ouimet made a good pitch to within five feet of the pin at the sixth, which made the American 2 up. Two more halves followed, but Tolley should have won the seventh, where he missed a yard putt, but he took advantage of Ouimet's visitation into the rough at the ninth to make the turn 1 down.

The Englishman sadly fell away from grace by losing the next two holes. He managed to halve the twelfth, but gave another hole away at the thirteenth, thus giving his opponent a four-hole lead. Ouimet then secured the necessary two halves to make him a victor by 4 up and 3 to play. A feature of Ouimet's game was, as is usually the case, his deadly putting. He missed two putts of two feet, but he required only one putt on five greens, his final putt being a four-yarder over a very undulating route.

BRITISH PRAISE OUIMET.

Showed Himself the Great Golfer That He Is, Writes Critic.

LONDON, May 11 (Associated Press).—Bernard Darwin, the Times' golf expert, sends The Times the following appreciation of Francis Ouimet:

"Ouimet showed himself the great golfer that he is. * * * He went down, game to the end. It is no disrespect to Roger Wethered to say that Ouimet was the best golfer in the tournament. So much greater the glory of his conqueror."

TWENTY NAMED FOR WALKER CUP TEAMS

British and Americans Draw Up Lists From Which Selections Will Be Made.

DEAL, May 11 (Associated Press).—Teams, of ten golfers each, have been selected by the Americans and British for the Walker Cup tournament at St. Andrews Friday and Saturday of next week. From these ten eligibles eight will finally be nominated the day before the tournament begins.

The British are Robert Harris (captain), John Caven, E. W. E. Holderness, C. V. L. Hooman, W. L. Hope, W. W. Mackenzie, W. A. Murray, Cyril Tolley, Roger Wethered and John Wilson, with O. C. Bristowe in reserve. The naming of a reserve man for the British is because of the fact that Holderness, former British champion, may be unable to get leave from his employers to play.

Anticipating an enormous Spring Clothing business, and in a desire to protect our clientele against the increasing wholesale price of men's clothing, GIMBEL BROTHERS purchased to the limit of their three store outlet. The weather has been backward, and we find ourselves with a larger stock than necessary at this time. We have, therefore, taken hundreds of garments from stock and reduced them drastically.

The clothing is our standard grades—a great part of it from one of America's leading makers—and the lowest priced garment in the lot has been selling at $35, with the former prices of the great bulk of them from $40 to $50—and some were $55 and $60.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 11.—Will the Rancocas Stable's Zev or J. S. Cosden's Martingale be favored in the going in the fifteenth renewal of the Preakness Stakes at the Pimlico track tomorrow? That is the question which is on the lips of all followers of racing gathered here tonight. All indications point in the direction of these two horses, for the showers which fell intermittently during the racing this afternoon are predicted as the precursors of a heavier downfall to come.

Heavy rain, and the inevitable consequence of a muddy or sloppy track, will be hailed by the followers of the two candidates for the classic race over the mile and one-eighth course of the pretty plant of the Maryland Jockey Club, for they are the outstanding mudders of the round dozen which are expected to go to the post at about o'clock in the fourth race on the card, which, it is expected, will be almost exactly the same in value as the $51,000 that was taken down by Pillory when he carried off the honors just a year ago by beating Elsa and Tune Grass.

William Garth greeted the approaching storm with undisguised smiles this afternoon, but Sam Hildreth was equally happy, especially after Zev worked out in convincing fashion early in the day, the clockers and the handful of observers who made the early journey being especially impressed with his appearance and the way in which he went a half in close to :48 seconds. The son of The Finn and Miss Kearney has been tried and found true, and Hildreth has the colt fit for the race of his career.

Best Under Weather Conditions.

So the two veterans, who will saddle the pair that are looked upon as being the best under predicted conditions, which are showers to be followed by thunder storms tomorrow, have not the same reason to worry as some of the others who will send their charges to the post.

Fourteen thoroughbreds were named to go overnight, but it was considered doubtful if Golden Rule and Sallys Alley will accept the issue, the former dam, this afternoon, being beaten by Midgur in the third race, while the latter has not lived up to her two-year-old promise. So there is every reason to expect that the field will be limited to twelve of the best three-year-olds in the country, barring the stop-watchers, of limited number, which did not come on from the West to do battle with those which they will meet a week from tomorrow on Churchill Downs in the Kentucky Derby.

The announcement of the weights this afternoon show that four will be asked to shoulder the top weight of 126 pounds—Zev, Martingale, Blanc Being and Goshawk. It is a matter of record that only two horses have ever won the Preakness carrying the highest impost. These were Sir Barton in 1919 and the great Man o' War the following year. In spite of this, Zev undoubtedly will carry the bulk of the money to win, the probable odds last night being 8 to 5 against him. Martingale and Golden Rule are coupled as the J. S. Cosden entry, and probably will start at about 8 to 1. Blanc Being is held in high esteem by those who figure the chances, and is held at 30 to 1, the same figure being quoted against Gifford Cochran's Goshawk.

Next in the weights is R. T. Wilson's Tall Timber, which will pick up 122 pounds. The Campfire colt will have a big following in view of the fact that he has done all that has been asked of him. Many, however, question whether he will go the distance under the weight. He will start coupled with Walter J. Salmon's Vigil, as both will be saddled by Tom Healey. They probably will be at 8 to 1 in the betting.

Sally's Alley comes next in the weights at 121 pounds, but is hardly being considered, although the odds against the filly, which gained the record of being the largest two-year-old money winner last season, is being quoted at 15 to 1 against.

The two entries of the Greentree Stable, Barbara Bush and Rialto, and Chickvale, which will be the sole representative under the silks of Harry Payne Whitney, will be saddled by James Rowe and will be coupled at 5 to 2. All three will carry 114 pounds, as will all the others to start.

Doubtful are the Whitney-Greentree entry will command a great deal of support, as all three are of Preakness calibre.

Among the others, the Nevada Stock Farm's General Thatcher has not been overlooked. He has speed and that he will have a chance is indicated by the fact that the odds against him are given as 8 to 1. But Zev is the outstanding figure in the field tonight, not only in the eyes of those who figure are probabilities of a race, but those who will saddle his opposition. Among these is Thomas Rowe, and when asked his opinion today after Zev's workout, he said pointedly:

"Zey is the one I have to beat."

Out for a Breezing.

All of the New York horses were out for a breezing this morning except the Oneck Stable's Hobgoblin, which did not arrive until later in the day. He is figured as an outside chance at 15 to 1. Benjamin Block's Better Luck, which is not considered as better than a 30 to 1 shot, went three-quarters of a mile in 1:17 in the early hours.

Given a fair day, it is expected by the officers of the Maryland Jockey Club, that close to 30,000 will crowd the stands, lawns and infield at Pimlico tomorrow afternoon. A storm will cut the attendance seriously. About 20,000 jammed the attractive grounds a year ago to watch Pillory carry off the biggest sum ever won by a horse in a race in Maryland.

YALE TRACK TEAM BEATS NOTRE DAME

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 11.—Yale downed Notre Dame today in the first dual track meet held between the two universities, accumulating 94 points to 41 for the South Bend collegians, who took only three of fifteen firsts. Weeks won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 1¼ inch, Captain Lieb captured the discus throw with a toss of 135 feet 10 inches and Gus Desch, the Newark, N. J., former all-round star, the 220 low hurdle event, timed at 24⅘ seconds.

Cleveland Storrs of Yale broke the only American record of the meet when he heaved the javelin 200 feet 10¾ inches. This is nearly twenty feet further than the previous figure. Doubt was expressed whether the mark would be accepted because of the high wind prevailing.

MONDAY MORNING WINS AT JAMAICA

Stoneham's Colt Beats Fisher's Entry by a Head in Arizona Handicap.

Judges Let Result Stand—Bevy Runs Fast Five Furlongs to Beat Reply.

A thrilling duel through the stretch between Monday Morning and Muskilonge repaid the 3,000 hardy souls who braved the chill winds at Jamaica yesterday. The race was the Arizona Handicap, feature of the card, for a purse of $1,200 added. Nine horses went to the post, with Bud Fisher's Muskilonge and T. S. Cosden's Vacuum as the favorites at odds of 13 to 5.

The talent, however, reckoned without Monday Morning, or, to be more exact, it counted on a recurrence of the Stoneham colt's almost proverbial hard luck. But this time the black son of King James escaped the jinx, although it was a narrow squeak. No sooner did the riders return to the judge's stand than Sande, who had the leg up on Muskalonge, rushed up with a complaint of foul. Sande contended that Monday Morning had impeded his mount's progress in the closing strides and that this had cost him the race.

The judges called Monday Morning's rider, Teddy Rice, before them and a prolonged conference followed. While the officials considered, the supporters of the Stoneham colt, remembering his disqualification in his last race, waited apprehensively. It looked for a minute as if it might be another black Friday for the Monday Morning adherents, but finally the red board went up and the race stood as it was run.

The King James colt took command as soon as Starter Max Calendy sent the field on its way and forced a fast pace throughout the five and a half furlongs, but at the head of the stretch Sande brought Muskalonge out of the pack and alongside and there followed one of the longest, hardest drives of the present meeting. Muskalonge had both speed and gameness, but so did Monday Morning. Stride for stride the two charged down the stretch with the chestnut's head at the black colt's withers. There it was and there it stayed. There was no let-up in the chestnut's bid, but the Stoneham colt was too good, and they flashed over the finish line just that apart.

The fifth race, the Parkway, for three-year-olds and upward at a mile and seventy yards, went to D. Douglass' well-played four-year-old bay colt Sweepy. Jockey Shilluck had the leg up and rated his mount well behind the pace until the turn was reached, when he sent him along to win handily by three-quarters of a length. Whisk, which belongs to the Marrone stable, was the favorite, but was badly outrun to the stretch. He came on strong in the sixteenth, however, and closed a big gap to beat Irish Pat handily. Sweepy paid his backers at odds of 11 to 5.

J. Byer scored a double for the day winning with Insulate, formerly played favorite in the opener, and with Dunsandel in the third. A well-judged ride by Jockey Earl Sande saved the latter, for the Byer gelding had to be ridden completely out to beat Carmen Pantages. Sunny Girl got the show money.

The last race of the day brought a sparkling performance by August Belmont's juvenile filly Bevy, which ran the fastest five furlongs of the meeting, turning the distance in :59 3-5. Bevy, in receipt of twelve pounds from Mrs. T. W. O'Brien's speedy filly Reply, beat the latter by over a length in a dual through the stretch. Reply was played at 9 to 20. She faltered just at the end, although running a good race.

BURNHAM, England, May 11 (Associated Press).—Miss Doris Chambers of Wirral, Cheshire, won the British woman's open golf championship here today, defeating Mrs. Alan McBeth in the final of thirty-six holes by one up. Mrs. McBeth, when Miss Muriel Dodd won the championship in 1913, and created surprise yesterday by eliminating the titleholder, Miss Joyce Wethered.

YALE WINS WAY TO FINAL POLO ROUND

TODAY'S POLO PROGRAM.

Game to start at 4 o'clock.

Woefully handicapped because their ponies were not equal to those used by the Yale team, the Norwich polo players went down to a 25-to-2 defeat at the hands of the Eli horsemen, before a thousand spectators, in the semi-final match played yesterday afternoon at Fort Hamilton in the tournament for the Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard Trophy. The Blue quartet won the right to meet the victor of today's contest between Princeton and West Point for the intercollegiate championship.

Yale used ten ponies in yesterday's game, eight of them coming from the University R. O. T. C. stable, one of them belonging to Louis E. Stoddard and the other the property of Fort Hamilton. Norwich was mounted on army horses secured from the Second Army Corps District and which they had never seen before. While the horses ridden by the Blue quartet are owned by the artillery unit at New Haven, the majority of them belong to the "dollar ponies" group. These horses were presented by prominent horsemen to the Yale Polo Association through the unit at a very nominal sum. They are good horses and their worth was shown in their ability to outdistance the Norwich mounts yesterday and their handiness in turning and stopping and staying on the course of the ball. Had the mounts of the two teams been of equal speed the score of the game would have been much closer, is certain. That the ultimate outcome would have been changed is improbable, considering the superb work of the Yale players.

Dean Outscores Famous Baldwin.

Baldwin, Yale's No. 1, who made twelve goals in the opening contest of the series, when Yale defeated Cornell 20 to 3, scored nine of the Elis' markers yesterday. Dean, however, at No. 2, accounted for eleven goals, while Captain Hopkins, at No. 3, scored three; Muir, back, one, and A. A. Cairns, who substituted for Hopkins in the last period, one.

Plumley, Norwich's No. 2, drove in the first goal for the Northfield four in the first period, thirty seconds after Dean had tallied the first point of the contest. Plumley had gone down with his horse when the pony ran into the right-hand goal post at the west end of the field. Although he received a severe shaking up, he continued to play after a short delay. Easton, who went in as No. 2 when Plumley replaced Nichols at No. 1, drove the ball between the uprights, after a pretty series of shots down the field, at the end of twenty seconds in the fourth period, for the second Norwich counter.

George C. Sherman, President of the Indoor Polo Association, acted as referee in the last three periods. Sherman was to have refereed the entire game, but due to transportation trouble he did not arrive in time. Captain John T. Neu, who has been the official on the field in the previous games, served during the first three periods. Among the spectators yesterday were Devereux Milburn and J. Watson Webb, international polo players. They congratulated the Yale team upon its ability.

Trophy Is On Display.

The trophy which will be awarded to the winner was on display in front of General Bullard's box yesterday. It is a bronze piece, fourteen inches high, showing two polo players riding at full gallop and endeavoring to keep each other off the ball. Members of the losing team in the tournament receive bootjacks, and members of the fours in the finals will be given cigarette cases.

STEARNS AND DRIGGS PLAY IN GOLF FINAL

STERLING MATCH PROMISED

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., May 11.—The Nassau Country Club has at least an even chance to retain the Long Island championship golf trophy which now graces the Glen Cove trophy room by virtue of Howard Maxwell's victory at Lido last year. With the stage of the second annual amateur tournament now swept clear of all except the principal actors, the final round will have one representative of Nassau in the race for the district honors—John N. Stearns, one of the officials of the association.

Tomorrow Stearns will meet Eddie Driggs, former Princeton athlete, later one of the Philadelphia district stars and now a member of the Cherry Valley Club, in the 36-hole final, which augurs some sterling golf, judging by the performances of these two linksmen today. In stepping up into the top flight, both Stearns and Driggs encountered some heavy going today, but both emerged from their ordeals with banners flying. The second round this morning, Driggs gained a somewhat hollow victory over N. E. Sprague of Inwood, winning by 4 up and 3 to play. Stearns, however, was forced to go twenty-one holes before he succeeded in shaking off his tenacious rival. He ran afoul Ham Kerr, the Garden City golfer, when the latter happened to be in a particularly unyielding mood, and it was not until the third extra hole had been played that the Nassau representative was able to mark down a victory. He fared far better in the afternoon, when he met E. W. Nash of Rockaway Hunt. The match ended on the thirteenth green, Stearns being the victor by the one-sided margin of 6 up and 5 to play.

Kramer Gives Driggs Trouble.

While Stearns was coasting along, only once in danger, Driggs was having his troubles in disposing of J. T. Kramer of Brookville. The latter, a club secretary, came into the tournament practically unknown to the district's rank and file, but he demonstrated in thoroughbred fashion that he possesses a very keen game. He has been playing golf for a long time but is one of those uncommon few who shun tournament play. Having entered the present tournament at the urging of friends who have noted his mettle, Kramer was determined to go as far as possible, and it was only by the narrowest of fractions that Driggs overcame that determination. The end of the round found them all even, but Driggs won on the first extra hole, where he got one of those extremely satisfactory birdies, which left him 1 up.

There was no more surprised player in the world than Driggs himself when he got an opportunity to play the extra hole which served him so well. Going to the eighteenth 1 up, Kramer, despite a topped tee shot, was favored by a break when his third landed on the bank that surrounds the home green and rolled down on the

CHEEVES IS BATTED HARD

The Giants made substantial gains along the whole sector yesterday. At the identical moment when the champions were tripping up the Cubs at the Polo Grounds the Pirates, Reds and Cardinals were being tapped gently on the skull by their Eastern rivals, making it a profitable day all around. The Pirates move in today for a series, and large and thrilling happenings seem to impend.

There was nothing large and nothing thrilling about the events yesterday. The Cubs lost by 7 to 4, which sounds closer than it really was, for the Giants won as they pleased. By the end of the sixth inning they had a six-run lead, and consequently there was no general consternation when catcher O'Farrell plunked a home run into the right field stand or when the same player slammed a triple to deep centre with a couple of Cubs on the lines in the ninth.

It was just a ball game. Jack Scott pitched for the champions and finished the nine innings, something he hadn't done since near the beginning of the campaign. Jack's glass-blown arm is generally susceptible to cold weather and it was cold yesterday. But the frigidity didn't seem to filter in. After getting first a three-run lead and then a six-run advantage Jack warmed up to his work and did not let down until the Cubs were within two gasps of passing out in the eighth and ninth.

Three pitchers, two of them left handers and the other a regular flinger, worked in relays for Bill Killefer. Nick Dumovich, a recruit from Los Angeles, started it and exceeded even the worst fears. He was wild, gave every batter at least three balls and uncovered a slow delivery that ate up the time. "If that fellow lasts the nine innings," said the regular fans, "we'll never get home."

Cheeves Succeeds Dumovich.

But Nick did not last through the second. With three on the bases and one out, he was waved away from there, and Virgil Cheeves, the 1922 model among Giant killers, was inducted. Heinie Groh slapped Virgil's first pitch to centre for a single, and two runs clattered over. The Giant killer looked slightly dazed.

He went on killing Giants for three innings, and in the fifth O'Farrell produced his home-run blow into the lower tier in right field. Chief Cheeves followed with a totally unexpected double away over Young's head, but Scott settled down and stopped Stats on a fly to Bancroft. Then Cheeves began regretting his rash sprint around the base lines. He felt the strain in the sixth and was blown wide open for four runs.

Bancroft led off with a single to centre. Callaghan surrounded Groh's lift, but Frisch singled to right. A pass to Meusel filled the bases, and a fly by Young scored Bancroft. Cheeves walked Kelly, filling the sacks again, and then Willie Cunningham cleaned up. The battle kid lined a two-bagger against the left-field fence, and Frisch, Meusel and Kelly flowed over the plate.

Cheeves receded in the first half of the eighth to allow a Mr. Weis to hit for him, which he did to the extent of a single. The succeeding Chicago pitcher was Fred Fussell, new and left-handed, who gave one walk and one single but was not scored on.

Between bits of bad playing the Cubs uncovered two plays that were as good as you will see in a number of games. Shortly after Cheeves's début in the second, with runners on second and third and two gone, Irish Meusel hit a liner over the second baseman's head that was immediately chalked up as a two-bagger. "Jigger" Statz, hurrying over from deep centre, seemed to have no chance at all to get near the ball. But he ran and ran. When man and ball met, Statz was going at top speed, his body bent over, his glove extended down to his ankles—and there the ball stuck. How he was done will have to be explained by Mr. Statz himself.

Adams Makes Line Catch.

And in the fourth Groh hit a foul that carried over against the boxes back of third. Miller, Adams and Friberg rushed for it, but Adams got it—running like the wind, with only his glove under the wall. He scooped it in, crashed full tilt into the concrete and was knocked flat. But—and this was what irritated Groh—he had the ball when he got up.

Bancroft hit Dumovich's first pitch to left for a single, and Groh walked after Banny had stolen second and kept on to third when O'Farrell threw wild. While Frisch was forcing Groh, Bancroft scored. Meusel singled to the pitcher, but Frisch was out down trying to splice third. In the second Cunningham walked, Snyder singled to left. After Scott's out Bancroft's pass filled the bases, and Cheeves came on to be assaulted by Groh for a single, scoring two more.

The Giants closed their run-getting in the sixth, and the Cubs began getting busy in the eighth when O'Farrell walked. Pinch Hitter Weis singled to Bancroft, and the runners advanced a base when Dave threw past Kelly. On Stats's sacrifice fly to O'Connell, O'Farrell trotted home.

In the ninth Friberg walked, Miller singled to centre. With two out, Groh and Snyder let O'Farrell's pop foul drop betwixt them, and the catcher then plastered a triple over O'Connell's head. He died at third when Pinch Hitter Hartnett swung idly and emphatically at a third strike, ending the inning, the game and the series. The Giants won two of the three games, and today it will be Max Carey, Wilbur Cooper and the Pirates.

COLUMBIA DEFEATS CORNELL, 11 TO 3

The Columbia University baseball team trounced Cornell on South Field yesterday, 11 to 3. It was the second time this season that the Blue and White has triumphed over the Ithacans. A few weeks ago Cornell was defeated on her home diamond by Columbia by the score of 9 to 3.

Gehrig, besides pitching the nine innings, did more than his share of the work at bat. In five times at the plate, the big southpaw made three hits and was walked twice intentionally. One of Jehrig's blows was a home run that traveled high over the north stands into 116th Street.

For a while it looked as if Gehrig was going to enter the no-hit hall of fame. For five innings his southpaw slants mowed the Cornell batsmen down without a safety being made. But in the sixth his dreams were shattered when Smythe singled to short.

RUTGERS NINE WINS BY A SINGLE TALLY

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 11.—Rutgers took advantage of the breaks today, hit savagely with men on the bases and stopped Washington and Lee's winning streak in a game which see-sawed throughout and finally ended with Rutgers ahead, 10 to 9.

It was a good sample of the ups and downs of college baseball teams. The Virginia Generals had defeated, by large scores, Johns Hopkins, Annapolis and Delaware and had lost only three games this Spring, all to teams which later were beaten in return contests. Rutgers, on the other hand, had won only one game, tied one and lost six.

After driving Lackey from the box the Scarlet fell on McCallum in the eighth and snatched out the winning run before McDonald could get warmed up to relieve him.

Wilbur Cooper, Johnny Morrison and Babe Adams are all primed for a fling at the Giants today, but McKechnie will probably use Cooper first. Hugh McQuillan is on tap for the Giants, with Kent in reserve for tomorrow. Today's game will start at 2 o'clock.

Advices reaching Secretary Jim Tierney indicate that a special train of Pittsburghers will be here for the Sunday conflict. Fred Clarke is coming for the entire series between the Giants and his old team.

Charley Hollocher got into action for the first time this season in the ninth inning. He hit for Adams and popped one to Groh.

You may snicker at Adams's dental tasse build, but he's a bundle of pure grit and nerve. There's nothing on a ball field that he won't try at least once.

For long throwing Bancroft's toss on Kelleher in the ninth is not often excelled. He was clear back on the grass behind Groh when he stopped the ball.

The Cubs complained bitterly at the umpires from beginning to end. The world doesn't look as cheerful as it did when that mid-April winning streak was running its course.

"Jigger" Statz is the best golfer in baseball. He is also no mean shakes at chasing fly balls.

The Giants will be the guests of the Washington Heights Temple at the Selwyn Theatre tomorrow night, where an all-star vaudeville bill will be presented.

CY WILLIAMS HITS THREE HOME RUNS

TWO CLUBS SET NEW MARK

Make Ten Circuit Clouts and Surpass Total Established in 1894 —Other Records Broken.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—Several records were broken or equalled at the National League Park here today when Philadelphia defeated St. Louis by 20 to 14 in a hard hitting contest.

Ten home runs were made by the two teams, which is a National League record for one game. The best previous mark for two clubs in a single game was nine circuit clouts, established by the Cincinnati and Boston National League teams in 1894 and duplicated the following year by Cincinnati and Chicago. The latter record was made in a seven-inning contest. The best American League mark is eight home runs, registered by Philadelphia and Detroit in 1921.

Cy Williams hit three of the homers. This feat ties the modern major league record made last year by Ken Williams of the Browns and duplicated by Walter Heniine of the Phillies, but is one less than the all-time major league record of four homers in a single game, hung up by Ed Delahanty of the Boston club in 1894 and equalled in 1896 by Ed Delehanty of the Philadelphia Nationals.

Williams has twelve circuit clouts for the season and leads both major leagues in this respect. His third home run today went into the left field bleachers, the only time he has ever preformed this feat.

The Cardinals made twenty-two hits, which gives the visitors seventy hits for the four-game series, beating the record of fifty-nine hits for four games, made by Boston here recently. The fourteen runs made by the Cardinals gives them forty-one for the series, beating Boston's mark by one run.

Mokan hit two home runs, both times with two men on base, and doubled in another trip to the plate. Mann also made two home runs, while Bottomley had four hits, one a double. Five pitchers were used by the two teams and twenty-seven players participated in the contest.

SENATORS TRIUMPH OVER DETROIT, 4 TO 1

DETROIT, May 11.—Zachary was too good for Detroit today and the Washington Senators beat the Tigers, 4 to 1. Heilmann's home run that cleared the left field fence saved Detroit from a shutout, and brought to seventeen the number of consecutive games in which the rightfielder has hit safely. Not a Tiger reached first base between the second and eighth innings.

PIRATES DEFEATED BY ROBINS, 7 TO 6

Grimm, With Single, Has Now Hit Safely in 22 Consecutive Games.

Burleigh Grimes twirled the Robins to an even break in the series with the Pittsburgh Pirates by turning in a 7 to 6 victory at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon. Pittsburgh took the first game of the series, and the next two were postponed. The Pirates go to the Polo Grounds today and the Cubs move to Ebbets Field.

Charley Grimm, the Pirate first baseman, almost had his record for consecutive hitting broken, and it was not until the eighth inning that he connected for a single to right which made it the twenty-second straight game in which he has hit safely. He has not failed to make a hit in any game in which the Pirates have played this year. Grimm had been helpless before Grimes on his other three trips to the plate. On his third time up he was an easy strikeout victim.

Grimes went the route for the Robins, but Manager McKetchnie was forced to call upon four pitchers. Jim Bagby, the former member of the Cleveland Indians, started, but was replaced in the third by Earl Kunz, whom the Pirates purchased from Sacramento. Kunz gave way to a pinch hitter, and then Earl Hamilton, former St. Louis Browns southpaw, went into action. He also gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth, and Whitey Glasner finished the game.

Two outfielders played an important part in the final decision, one contributing a catch that helped to save the game for the Robins, and the other making an error which enabled the Robins to register their seventh and winning run. In the seventh inning with a Pittsburgh runner on third and first and two out, Bigbee sent a liner to right. Tommy Griffith, turned his back to the ball, raced to the wall, turned in time to leap into the air and make the catch. He fell against the wall, however, bruising his left arm. The hit would have been good for at least a double, and the catch saved two runs and broke up a rally.

It was the usually reliable Max Carey, Pirate centrefielder, who made one of his rare errors. This came in the seventh inning, while Earl Hamilton was on the mound. Wheat greeted Hamilton with a single to centre, but was forced at second on Fournier's rap to second. Nels grounded to Grimm, but the ball glanced off Grimm's glove to Hamilton, who made the put-out, Fournier taking second. High sent a liner to centre which Carey muffed, Fournier scoring what proved to be the winning run.

The Robins were the first to score, registering two runs in the second inning. Fournier singled, and Nels was safe on a fumble by Spencer Adams, former Seattle infielder, who is replacing the injured Tierney. High grounded to Traynor, whose throw to second pulled Adams off the bag, and the bases were filled. Taylor singled, scoring Fournier and Nels.

The Pirates went into the lead in the third by tallying three runs. With Grimm out, Schmidt walked and Johnston fumbled Bagby's grounder, Maranville grounded to Olson, and the bases were filled when Johnston dropped Olson's throw. Carey rolled to Fournier and Schmidt scored on Fournier's wide throw to the plate. Bigbee walked, forcing home Bagby. Maranville counted on Barnhart's fly to Griffith. Johnston ended the inning by throwing out Adams.

The Robins came back with four in their half of the third. Wheat singled, Fournier and Nels beat out infield taps and High doubled, scoring Wheat and Fournier. Kunz relieved Bagby. Nels scored on Taylor's fly to Barnhart and High came home on a single by Grimes. In the eighth Pittsburgh made its fourth run. Barnhart doubled, went to third on an infield out and scored on Grimm's single. Gooch singled, but Grimes took Pinch Hitter Reb Russell's roller for the final out of the inning.

RAWLINGS IS BOUGHT BY PHILADELPHIA CLUB

Johnny Rawlings's days as a Giant ended yesterday. World's Series hero two years ago, invaluable utility man last season, "Lucky John" yesterday went back to where he came from—the Phillies. He was purchased outright by Baker's club, and a dispatch from Philadelphia announcing the news said he would be at second base in today's game—the same position he was holding down when McGraw yanked him by the Giants on July 1, 1921, to fill an infield hole. With Johnny came Emil Meusel and Cecil Causey; in the other direction went Rapp, King, Walker and a sum estimated at $30,000.

Rawlings finished the season as a regular, and in the 1921 World's Series his hitting and fielding were sensational. His slop on Frank Baker in the ninth inning of the last game, which was followed by the famous double play through Kelly and Frisch, was a World's Series classic. But the next Spring Groh came along, and Lucky John faded away to the bench. He filled in in dazzling style when Frisch and Groh were hurt, and was generally recognized as the best utility infielder in baseball. This Spring he held out, and that may have hastened his departure from the Giants' ranks.

M'TIGUE WELCOMED BACK TO AMERICA

Light-Heavyweight Champion, Conqueror of Siki, Gets Noisy Reception.

Is Ready to Meet Gibbons, Tunney or Greb After He Encounters Carpentier July 14.

While more than 1,000 enthusiastic admirers boomed their welcome and the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory band blared its message to the conquering favorite, Mike McTigue, Irish middleweight boxer, who holds the world's light-heavyweight championship, stepped down the gang-plank of the steamship Berengaria yesterday and once again set foot on the soil of his adopted America. The appearance of McTigue was the signal for a noisy reception, which was in sharp contrast to the departure of the boxer for Europe. Then McTigue was just a middleweight among a lot of other middleweights struggling for the title. The McTigue who returned here yesterday was the holder of the world's title which Georges Carpentier held until he met his fate at the hands of Battling Siki. This McTigue, too, was the young Irishman who overcame the reputed fury of Siki, the Senegalese, and gained the title.

President Murray Hulbert of the Board of Aldermen officially welcomed McTigue back to the United States. When this was accomplished, the admirers of McTigue—representatives of various Irish societies, associations and athletic clubs—stormed the returning boxer, and almost wrenched his good right arm out of its socket in the eager scramble to shake his hand. A way finally was forced through the crowd and McTigue was escorted to a waiting automobile. Followed by more than a score of cars, and led by the Sixty-ninth Band, the procession wound slowly up Broadway to Fifth Avenue and then to the Pennsylvania Hotel, where McTigue will make his headquarters until he obtains an apartment.

The Irish middleweight was visibly impressed with his reception and grew enthusiastic under the greeting. For the benefit of those friends who demanded the story from his own lips, McTigue recounted how he had beaten Siki for the light-heavyweight title in Dublin last March 17. "Siki was about thirty pounds heavier than I," said McTigue. "But I boxed him carefully and easily beat him on points. I'll say this for Siki: he is a great fighter. He is strong and he can give as well as take punishment. If he'd learn how to box he'd be a great man in the ring.

"I'm back in America now prepared to defend the title I won in Europe. I want to be a real champion. If I have not the ability to qualify as a real champion, then I don't deserve the title. I'll box any middleweight, light-heavyweight or heavyweight who is selected for me. Tom Gibbons, Gene Tunney, Harry Greb, or any other man who seeks the title I hold is welcome. My manager, Joe Jacobs, will arrange the matches. I'll do the rest. I would like particularly to get a match with Johnny Wilson. I'll guarantee to make the middleweight limit for him, and I am confident I can beat him."

McTigue has returned here to prepare for a world's title match in which he will defend his championship against Georges Carpentier, at Promoter Tex Rickard's arena in Jersey City on July 14. Manager Jacobs has several other matches arranged for the new champion prior to the scheduled clash with Carpentier. Efforts now are being made to sign a bout between McTigue and Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, to be held subsequent to McTigue's bout with Carpentier.

NET STARS PLAY BEFORE PRESIDENT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11.—Lawn tennis players of international repute, including William T. Tilden 2d, national champion, and Japanese and Spanish Davis Cup men, played before President and Mrs. Harding and many other distinguished persons at the White House this afternoon. It was an enthusiastic gallery, and applause was frequent, the President and Mrs. Harding joining in showing their appreciation of the skillful play.

Tilden and his young protégé, Sandy Weiner of Philadelphia, went on the courts in a two-set tilt with the Alonso brothers, Manuel and José, of Spain, losing the first at 7—5. The second ended in a tie at 5-all. The champion's partner was the point of the Spaniards' attack and stood up well, playing a hard driving game and displaying a strong service. The Alonso brothers showed exceptional teamwork in outscoring their opponents.

Richards, partner of M. Fukuda, the Japanese star in the Chevy Chase Club doubles tourney here, was too much for his teammate in a set of singles, winning at 6—1, although the Japanese made a better showing than the score indicates. Zenzo Shimizu and Seiichiro Kashio, the Japanese internationalists, who have been in America for several years, defeated R. Norris Williams 2d of Philadelphia and Watson M. Washburn of New York in a set of doubles 8—6, winning through greater steadiness.

RICHARDS-FUKUDA REACH NET FINAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Vincent Richards of Yonkers and Masamoskue Fukuda, the Japanese lawn tennis champion, continued their clever playing in the Chevy Chase Club invitation doubles tourney here today, reaching the final round by defeating Harold Throckmorton of Elizabeth, N. J., and Dean Mathey of New York, 6—3, 6—3, in the lower semi-final. R. Norris Williams 2d of Philadelphia and Watson M. Washburn of New York will play the Alonso Brothers, Manuel and José, of Spain in the other semi-final tomorrow, and the winning pair will then take on Richards and Fukuda.

Throckmorton and Mathey reached the semi-final round by scoring over Hugh G. M. Kelleher and Leonard Beekman of New York, 6—2, 8—6. Williams and Washburn advanced at the expense of Alfred S. Dabney of Boston and Marcus Wallenburg of Sweden, 8—6, 6—3. Richards was in excellent stroke today and was ably supported by Fukuda. Mathey bore the brunt of the play of his team, Throckmorton being handicapped by a bad ankle. Williams and Washburn were too steady for the Dabney-Wallenburg combination.

MONTCLAIR NET TEAM WINS.

Defeats Lehigh University Representatives 4 Matches to 1.

The Montclair A. C. tennis team defeated the Lehigh University representatives at Montclair, N. J., yesterday, 4 matches to 1. The New Jersey netmen captured three out of four matches in singles and one doubles contest. A second doubles match was interrupted by darkness after each team had won a set. Leonard W. Knox, lead-off man for the home team, defeated Rodney Peck, one of the best players in intercollegiate ranks, 6—2, 2—6, 6—4.

the farm life he loves so well. The former champion has trained hard and faithfully for the encounter. Not since 1915, when he took the title from Jack Johnson, has Willard appeared in such fine fettle. He has trained off superfluous flesh; his spirit is high, he is determined and he is confident. A majority of critics have picked him to win. Willard will enjoy advantages in height, weight and reach against Johnson. These advantages, it is predicted, will prove insurmountable obstacles for Johnson. The Iowan has youth, courage, the heart of a lion and remarkable speed and endurance. His one weakness is his inability to hit hard.

It is this lack of a punch which many predict will bring about the downfall of Johnson. The Iowan fights wide open. He has no standard style of defending himself. He relies on his speed and tireless activity to serve as a defense; simply through his own assault Johnson keeps a rival too busy to launch an offensive. Against the lumbering Willard, however, Johnson will meet a different style of fighting than he has encountered in his previous battles. Willard, fundamentally, is a flat-footed boxer who works strictly on the defensive. He has as his special blow a left hook or jab and a right uppercut. It is the uppercut which Johnson's well-wishers fear most and upon which Willard's supporters base their hopes for a Willard victory.

35	Age	22
241 pounds.	Weight	194 pounds
6 ft. 6 inches.	Height	6 ft. 1 inch
18 inches	Neck	17 inches
81 inches	Reach	76 inches
44 inches	Chest (normal)	40 inches
53 inches	Chest (expanded)	43 inches
36 inches	Waist	33½ inches
9 inches	Wrist	8 inches
15½ inches	Calf	15½ inches

Firpo Excels in Weight.

In the bout between McAuliffe and Firpo it will be speed and cleverness against brute strength and courage. McAuliffe is faster than the Argentinian. He enjoys a wider knowledge of boxing science, but Firpo has the strength of a bull and the fury of a tiger when aroused, and Firpo is courageous to a commendable degree. In physical measurements the men are evenly matched. McAuliffe has advantages in height and reach and youth. Firpo will be fifteen to twenty pounds heavier.

The match means more to Firpo than any other in which he has fought. Upon his showing against McAuliffe depends the South American's chances for a bout against Dempsey. If he wins, Firpo will be within a step of the title match. A defeat will send the South American careening back to the obscure regions where repose the heavyweights who have advanced as has Firpo, only to be sent toppling downward on the pugilistic path.

Firpo.		McAuliffe.
6 ft. 2¼ inches.	Height	6 ft. 3 inches

To Fulton the bout with Renault means much. The Minnesota veteran is engaged on a campaign to re-establish himself, with a match against Dempsey as his ultimate goal. He gained considerable prestige recently in his bout with Floyd Johnson, despite the fact that Johnson was declared the winner on points by a majority of critics. If he succeeds in beating Renault, Fulton probably will demand another bout with Johnson as a stepping stone to more important matches in the future.

The opening four-round bout will bring together Joe McCann, a local heavyweight, and Harry Drake, English heavyweight. Al Reich, Newark's heavyweight, will box Tiny Herman of Omaha in a six-round preliminary.

SEATTLE GETS CUP MATCH.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

SYDNEY, May 11.—The Australian Lawn Tennis Association today agreed to play Hawaii at Seattle, probably about June 28.

The first round of the Davis Cup match between Hawaii and Australia was scheduled to be played at Honolulu. On May 4 it was announced from Sydney that the Antipodeans were to sail on May 31, their port unmentioned, and that the Australian Lawn Tennis Association had suggested that the match be played in New York.

An Associated Press dispatch from Honolulu dated May 7 stated that the Hawaiian Tennis Association had sent a letter to the Australian team asking it to reconsider its decision not to play the Hawaiians in Honolulu. A. I. Castle, President of the Hawaiian body, said that if the Australians were determined to play on the mainland instead of in Honolulu, the match might be staged at Seattle, if agreeable to the Antipodeans.

The above dispatch from Sydney indicates that it was agreeable to the Australians and that the match will be played on the Pacific Coast.

Kilbane Insures Himself Against Accident for Criqui Bout.

CLEVELAND, May 11.—Should accident or illness prevent Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, from entering the ring with Eugene Criqui in New York on June 2, he will suffer little financially. Kilbane has taken out a $50,000 insurance policy, which expires when he steps into the ring with the French challenger.

Should Kilbane be injured, taken ill or die before the fight, he or his estate will be paid the amount of the policy.

WORKMEN START ON SHELBY ARENA

Million Feet of Lumber Purchased, Land Leased and Carpenters Begin.

SHELBY, Mont., May 11 (Associated Press).—More than one million feet of lumber has been purchased and is now being moved here for construction of the arena where the Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons heavyweight championship fight will take place July 4. Carpenters already are at work on the structure and 200 more men will be on the job Monday, according to Mike Collins, one of the promoters of the match.

A fight fan from Swift Current, Sask., today deposited $10,000 for tickets for his town. Sale of the pasteboards has now reached $200,000, and, according to Collins, they will be on sale throughout the country May 20.

The State Land Department today executed a lease on 400 acres of State lands lying directly southeast of Shelby, upon which will be erected the arena. The land is rented for a period of one year from May 11, 1923, for "grazing purposes," the rental price being $50, the lease shows. A Helena representative of the American Legion Boxing Club, Toole County Post No. 2, made the application. So long as the proposed Dempsey-Gibbons fight is conducted within the law Attorney General W. D. Rankin will not interfere, he announced today. Governor Joseph M. Dixon is out of the city, but he is understood to have told a delegation from Shelby that he will leave the matter in the hands of the Attorney General.

W. S. A. TO COMPETE DESPITE A. A. U. BAN

APPEAL IS VOTED DOWN

Board of Governors Sustains Registration Body's Decision, It Is Announced.

Following receipt here of advices from President William C. Prout of the A. A. U. that the Union's Board of Governors had defeated its appeal from the decision of the National Registration Committee against America's competing abroad in advance of next year's Olympic Games, the Women's Swimming Association of New York last night, through its attorney, Joseph A. Reilly, issued a statement in which it announced that a swimming team will leave Tuesday for England to compete in a series of meets abroad, regardless of the Amateur Athletic Union's prohibition.

President Prout, in Boston, announced that the Board of Governors, voting on the W. S. A. appeal from the National Registration Committee's decision against issuing permits to the women swimmers for international competition, sustained the A. A. U. Registration board by a vote of 53¾ to 14¼. Forty-four votes were missing from among the 112 members of the Board of Governors when this decision was announced. The voting was made known on a request for an immediate reply. Under the rules of the A. A. U., a two-thirds vote is necessary to carry such an appeal. The returns announced show this to be impossible.

The Misses Gertrude Ederle, Helen Wainwright and Aileen Riggin, three of America's leading swimmers, chaperoned by Miss Charlotte Epstein, one of the leading figures in the W. S. A., are the swimmers scheduled to leave for Europe in defiance of the A. A. U. The team, prior to the adoption of the A. A. U.'s prohibition, had accepted invitations to compete in a series of events in England, the first scheduled for May 26. If the W. S. A. members compete abroad as scheduled, the members of the team automatically will suspend themselves, it was explained last night by a prominent A. A. U. official. The case is similar to that of Charlie Paddock, Coast sprinter, who competed abroad in defiance of the A. A. U. prohibition, it was said. Paddock now is suspended from competing in A. A. U. events here.

Secretary F. W. Rubien of the A. A. U. last night declined to discuss the case in detail. "We must await developments," said Rubien. "The team has not yet sailed. Under the International Federation rules, foreign athletes are not permitted to compete in a country unless they have permits from their home country. The swimmers have not received permits. We do not know if the English authorities will permit them to compete."

In his statement for the W. S. A., Attorney Reilly repeats the allegation that the organization's case has not received fair treatment from the A. A. U.; denies that the swimmers are in danger of professionalism, and announces that the W. S. A. has demanded a complete record of the voting. The statement closes as follows: "The girl swimmers will sail on Tuesday convinced that their action will be upheld by the general athletic public and by the fair-minded, unbiased and independent element in the A. A. U. The W. S. A. will carry on its fight and interesting developments may be looked for very shortly, to continue to the floor of the A. A. U. convention next November."

Amateur Federation Announces More District Centres in Southern Cities.

The Associated Press.

Five new district organizations of the National Amateur Athletic Federation are to be set up in the South, with centres at Atlanta and Savannah, Ga., New Orleans and Montgomery, Ala., and Charleston, S. C., Elwood S. Brown, executive officer of the federation, announced yesterday upon his return from an organization tour.

These district federations, Mr. Brown said, will include athletic, as well as various civic bodies, affecting recreational activities of boys and girls, men and women. They later will be grouped into State Federations and affiliated directly with the national body. Until the formation of State groups is perfected the district organizations will be represented on the National Board of Governors.

ALECHINE-TRYBALL WIN CHESS GAMES

Remain Tied for First Place in the International Tournament.

CARLSBAD, May 11.—Alechine and Tryball, by winning their games in the tenth round today, remain tied for the lead in the International Chess Masters' Tournament here. Alechine defeated Bogoljubow, who thus lost his first game in the play, and Tryball vanquished Thomas. Niemzowitsch defeated Bernstein and Gruenfeld drew with Tarrasch. Niemzowitsch and Gruenfeld are even with the losers, so far as lost games are concerned, but they have respectively one and two adjourned games still in hand, and it will depend upon the results of these what position they will occupy in the standing. The other results in the tenth round follow: Tartakower defeated Saemisch, Maroczy and Rubinstein drew, and the game between Teichmann and Chajes was adjourned at the call of time.

The point records of the players to date are: Alechine and Tryball won 7 and lost 3 each; Gruenfeld won 6, lost 3; Maroczy won 6, lost 4; Yates won 5½, lost 3½; Bogoljubow won 5, lost 5; Niemzowitsch won 5, lost 3; Teichmann won 5, lost 4; Rubinstein won 5, lost 5; Tartakower won 5, lost 5; Reti won 4½, lost 4½; Chajes won 4, lost 5; Tarrasch won 4, lost 6; Wolf won 4, lost 6; Saemisch won 3, lost 5; Spielmann won 3, lost 7; Thomas won 3, lost 7; Bernstein won 2, lost 7.

BROWN WINS ON TRACK.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 11.—Brown defeated Wesleyan, 77 to 58, in a track meet held here this afternoon in connection with Brown's Junior Week. Evan Feiman of Oak Park, Ills., a sophomore, broke the Brown record for the javelin throw with a hurl of 156 feet 4½ inches. Selberling was Wesleyan's best point winner, capturing the dashes easily, while Needham won both the high and low hurdles for Brown.

Types of agencies represented at organization gatherings, according to Mr. Brown, included public schools, municipal playgrounds, army and navy units, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts, clubs and industrial athletic bodies.

The National Federation, Mr. Brown added, has developed plans to organize other district federations in Maryland, Connecticut, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Texas, Washington and California.

PASSING OF "CREDIT INFLATION."

Secretary MELLON'S opinion that whatever "crisis" may have existed in regard to imminent overexpansion of credit has now passed is interesting. Not less so is the statement that the Reserve Board is not now even discussing the question of an advance in discount rates. As a matter of fact, it is now well known that, although the subject was discussed at the meeting of Reserve Bank Governors in March, the idea of restrictive action of the kind has never been seriously entertained.

Speaking on Tuesday to the United States Chamber of Commerce, Secretary HOOVER reviewed the facts on which much of the recent misgiving of bankers and economists was based. Summarized, the case was that, three months ago, the Reserve Board's statement showed that whereas outstanding notes and deposits of the system required by law a reserve of some $1,500,000,000, the actual cash holdings of the Federal Reserve banks amounted to $3,200,000,000. In other words, it was theoretically possible to more than double the $1,964,000,000 deposits and the $2,217,000,000 note circulation of the system then outstanding, while still maintaining the full ratio of reserve required by the Federal Reserve act.

Considering the huge amount of superfluous gold in the Federal Reserve and its latent possibilities of creating inflation and speculation, Secretary HOOVER on Tuesday suggested, first, the possibility that the Reserve banks might "mentally earmark a considerable part of our recently acquired gold as temporary." This is not a new idea. It may be well enough as a program of general policy for extending credit; but it could go no further when the Federal Reserve act itself merely provides that a Reserve bank shall maintain "not less than 35 per cent. against its deposits" and "not less than 40 per cent. against its reserve notes in actual circulation," thereby implicitly authorizing the use of any surplus above these percentages as a basis for creation of new credit.

Mr. HOOVER further holds that redistribution of part of the Reserve system's gold to foreign nations through gold exports will automatically solve the problem. He regards such gold export as desirable and believes it probable, on the ground that, although our foreign trade in commodities during 1922 showed an export excess of $760,000,000, the inclusion of other remittances made in the course of international trade would leave the balance one to two hundred millions against us, even without allowing for gold imports.

The process of "redistribution" is somewhat difficult to foresee in the light of existing circumstances. At the Genoa economic conference there was talk of the United States providing gold from its own superfluous reserves to help reform Continental Europe's currencies. Unfortunately, the countries which need the gold most urgently for that purpose are the countries least able to draw gold through the foreign exchange market. We should normally ship gold to France or Italy, for instance, when their exchange rates stand at a fraction above 19 1-8 cents per franc or lira. But the franc now brings only 6¾ cents on exchange and the lira only 4¾.

In 1919 and 1920 the United States actually did export $600,000,000 gold, but of this more than half went to the Far East and the rest mostly to South America. Repetition of that movement later on, even though not relieving Europe, would at least reduce the gold in our Federal reserve and remove the large possibilities of reckless inflation of credit. But the huge gold export is not an immediate probability, and the superfluous gold fund is likely to remain for some time to come around its present figure.

Yet Mr. HOOVER expressed on Tuesday the prevalent feeling that the danger has never been so imminent as was recently supposed. His reason was that the banks and the markets have not availed themselves of their theoretical opportunities; that the business community, instead of predicting unlimited expansion and rise of prices (as it did in 1919), has been preaching caution and conservatism. But this, after all, implies only that the mere existence of large facilities for continuous expansion of credit does not necessarily mean that the facilities will be employed to the point of recklessness.

They were not so employed last year, although the surplus reserve of the Federal banks went at one time far above any percentage touched thus far in 1923. They were not so employed when idle reserve money, accumulated in the reaction after our great war panics, on occasion brought the New York surplus bank reserve to nearly double the lawful minimum. The safeguard of the present situation—as indeed of most economic situations—lies in preserving that careful judgment of the facts which is expected from prudent bankers, which was utterly lost in 1919, but the presence of which now is proved by the attitude of the whole business community toward prices and the use of credit.

ANOTHER INVASION REPELLED.

If FRANCOIS OUIMET had won the semi-finals yesterday, all golfing Britannia would have been pale today. But now the cup is safe from even an American long resident in England, who went down to defeat at the same time as OUIMET did. For the latter's skillful play and fine sportsmanship the British critics have had nothing but the highest praise. He was in reality undertaking a task almost beyond the range of human powers. To play through an entire tournament against the best British amateur golfers requires not only a heart of oak, but more than one's share of the lucky breaks of the game. It was almost a miracle when WALTER TRAVIS did it, and no American has since been able to equal his feat.

Our invading golfers this year at least struck terror to the hearts of the British down to the very last day. They may have better fortune in the matches for the Walker international cup yet to be played, but they cannot add to their reputation as golfers and gentlemen, or get a more generous reception than has already been accorded them by their British rivals on the links.

LEADEN-HEELED JUSTICE.

Rather confusing to the layman, who perhaps has no right to have an opinion, are the views expressed by divers eminent Judges and lawyers on the causes and remedies of ineffectual enforcement of the laws. Former Governor HADLEY, now a law professor, quotes Chief Justice TAFT as saying that in almost all the States the administration of criminal law is "a disgrace to civilization." According to Professor HADLEY:

> There are three influences, as I see it, that result in the inefficient enforcement of law and as a consequence in the increase of crime. First, the archaic and ineffective rules of procedure; second, indefiniteness and uncertainty of the law of crimes and criminal procedure; and third, the faults and weaknesses of the men who administer the laws. This list of public officials includes the police, the prosecutors, the Judges and those authorized to exercise executive clemency.

The American Law Institute is expected to make the law clear and to propose reforms of procedure. That will be a long work. The other improvement is in the hands of the public. Does the public take much interest in it? It might almost be said that nobody fit to be a juryman will serve on a jury if he can help it. There is a good deal of sentimental sympathy with the criminal. Politics and bosses have altogether too much to do with the selection of Judges. The multiplication of laws produces new crops of offenses. Some prosecutors seem to talk more than they act. Here and there a Governor or a pardon board is weak; but, on the whole, Judges, prosecutors, police, try to do their work faithfully. Where is the trouble? Why do so many important criminal trials in this State, for instance, drag on interminably and often result in the failure of justice? Why is "Jersey justice" so much swifter and surer than New York justice?

Lawyers and some of the Judges are always complaining of the "congestion of the calendar," criminal and civil. There is always a cry for more Judges. The Legislature has just increased the number of Justices of the Supreme Court in the First Judicial District by four. Six were asked for. The four may be needed; but it was not agreeable to observe that Republican "leaders" here seemed to regard the law as a scheme to fatten Tammany patronage. What chance have the Republicans here in an "off year"? Candidates for the new posts have to consult Mr. MURPHY, that renowned jurist of East Fourteenth Street. Our echt Amerikanisch neighbor, the Staats-Zeitung, says that one of the four must be a German-American. Justice as an appendage of politics is not an agreeable figure.

Of course, population and business and the manufacture of laws are always expanding; but to the benighted layman New York seems sufficiently rich in Judges and jurisdictions, appeals, confusions and delays. Professor SUNDERLAND of the University of Michigan Law School revives the noble notion of a "Ministry of Justice" at Washington. If the law's delays are intolerable, pay a lot of fussy bureaucrats to make them worse.

THE STRENGTH OF PARTIES.

Postmaster General NEW seems now to be the recognized Mercurius of the Harding Administration, its chief spokesman—at least its chief political spokesman. In his address at Mansfield, Ohio, he recounted the achievements of the President, but frankly admitted that there are serious divisions in the Republican Party. Of course, Mr. NEW took a certain sort of malicious pleasure in pointing out that the Democrats are still more torn by factions. But he concluded by deploring that both parties are suffering from the same disease. He diagnosed it as the "lack of cohesion."

What is it that causes political parties to stick together and to accomplish results? There is no single answer to the question. But the Postmaster General, who went to Ohio to represent the President at the celebration of the centenary of JOHN SHERMAN, the most famous citizen of Mansfield, might have found in the career of that statesman some indications of what ails the Republican Party today. It certainly did not have its origin and early triumphs on account of the "cohesive power of public plunder." All its thoughts were not, as the Postmaster General's seem to be by necessity, of the distribution of offices. It looked to inspiring leadership in behalf of great causes. There was not much "cohesion" in 1859, when JOHN SHERMAN failed of being elected Speaker because he would not recant or qualify his opposition to slavery. When he was Secretary of the Treasury, and set his face like a flint toward the resumption of specie payments, there were many of his own party who doubted and feared and demurred. JOHN SHERMAN survived to be a Republican leader in 1896, when the Republicans were greatly divided on the burning issue of sound money, when Senator TELLER led out of the Republican National Convention a large body of deserters, when States before safely Republican were swept away by the Bryan movement, but when the bulk of the party, boldly lifting a standard to which the great conservative forces of the country might repair, won a notable victory because it had principles and leaders who would fight for them.

It is not to be lightly asserted that such elements of strength are wholly wanting in the Republican Party today. But they are not prominent or controlling. Postmaster General NEW concedes that there is a great deal of dissatisfaction with the Republican Administration. This is not to be allayed by exhortations to rest and be thankful. The country is waiting for policies to which it could rise with enthusiasm. Republican leadership is not furnishing this. President HARDING has the opportunity to do it, and has made his greatest advance toward doing it in putting forth his program of co-operation with other nations in the World Court, and of resolutely facing the other international obligations which we cannot avoid if we would. If he steadfastly presses this new and compelling issue, and swings the party into line behind him on it, there need be no further moaning about the absence of Republican cohesion. The party will readily enough cohere if provided with a vital policy and inspiring direction.

ITALY'S ADRIATIC POLICY.

It is two and a half years since the Treaty of Rapallo settled the Adriatic question between Italy and Jugoslavia, so far as principle is concerned. Yet the practical applications of that treaty, and of the subsequent and supplementary agreement of Santa Margherita, are still unsettled. A conference of Italian and Jugoslav experts, which agreed at length over these points in Abbazia, has now resumed its sittings in Rome, and will arrive at an agreement some day if both sides display more moderation than either has displayed so far.

Peace on the Adriatic, however, seems more durable than at any time since the seizure of Fiume by D'ANNUNZIO. This is not wholly because neither Jugoslavs nor Italians want a fight. Both nations have internal problems that need all their attention; and though both still want Fiume, it is impossible for either to control the city fully under present conditions. Dalmatia has been completely evacuated by the Italians, and the controversy has now virtually narrowed down to a dispute over the southern half of the Port of Fiume known as Porto Baross. Trivial in size, it is of potential economic importance; but more important is the fact that Fiume is of no use to either country while the dispute continues.

The Rome correspondent of The London Times sets forth some encouraging symptoms pointing to a peaceful and friendly settlement. Not the least of these is the fact that MUSSOLINI, whose party was violently chauvinistic on the Adriatic question while out of power, has kept it moderate now that he is in office. From this first he has shown a statesmanlike realization of the fact that the two sides of the Adriatic cannot afford to be hostile. Further, according to the correspondent, the Italians are realizing that "Fiume cannot revive, or even live, as purely Italian commerce." The fate of Trieste since the war has opened many eyes. If communications are once opened up, Fiume has a brighter prospect than Trieste; but good relations with the hinterland are indispensable.

The correspondent believes that the Italians are inclined to follow the policy of Dr. BENESH, "which consists in taking such steps as will prevent the new political boundaries in Europe from destroying the old economic unities." In such a reorganization of the Danubian countries, Italy can exert a powerful commercial and cultural influence, but only if aspirations to serious political influences are abandoned. In the Spring of 1918 it seemed that Italy, in co-operation with the Western Slavs, was ready to adopt just such a policy. Misguided and overzealous patriots, on both sides, but especially in Italy, have deferred its realization for five expensive years. But it is still the best policy for all concerned.

RESULTS AT SANTIAGO.

The fifth Pan-American Conference at Santiago, which adjourned on May 3, may have been a disappointment to idealists, but practical men will review its work in the light of Secretary HUGHES'S message that "all problems find solution among those who desire to be friendly and just." In about six weeks of deliberation no question of far-reaching importance was determined, but there was an illuminating exchange of views upon issues like a Pan-American Monroe Doctrine, a Pan-American Court of Justice, and Limitation of Armaments. The proposal to adopt the principle of the Monroe Doctrine by all American States was included in Uruguay's plan of an American League of Nations. As the United States did not ratify the Versailles Treaty, and, moreover, as this country had maintained the Monroe Doctrine for the protection of the three Americas against the rest of the world, the suggestion was an embarrassment to our representatives.

Mr. FLETCHER, who spoke for Secretary HUGHES under instructions, pointed out that Article XXI. of the Versailles Treaty, which recognized the Monroe Doctrine, failed to make it clear. "It is the unilateral national policy of the United States," said Mr. FLETCHER. The proposal of a Pan-American Monroe Doctrine Mr. FLETCHER could not regard with favor. In his closing address President AGUSTIN EDWARDS of Chile tactfully said:

> Whatever interpretations the Monroe Doctrine has received, none can fail to recognize its transcendent importance to America. The spirit of President MONROE has spread through the compass of America.

The movement for limitation of naval armaments failed because Brazil, Argentina and Chile could not agree upon capital ship tonnage. Brazil was inclined to stand upon her uncompleted building program of 1906. Argentina was moderate in naval aims, and Chile, in order to break the deadlock between Argentina and Brazil, favored an A B C conference. Limitation of land armaments was never seriously considered. The Costa Rican proposal of an American Permanent Court of Justice encountered opposition, not because the principle was not generally approved, but because it included arbitration of questions involving vital interests of nations. The plan went over to the next Pan-American Conference.

Thus all the large questions suffered partial eclipse. But something was gained when the meeting of the Pan-American Congress of Jurists at Rio de Janeiro in 1925 to undertake codification of American international law was hailed as an opportunity to perfect the plan for a Pan-American Court of Justice. Tangible results of the conference were the drafting of treaties to protect trade-marks and for an agreement under which international disputes could be investigated by a fact-finding commission. By no means unimportant was the adoption of measures for co-operation in stamping out disease.

A FEEBLE ARGUMENT.

The experience of the past few years lends some support to those pessimists who feel that the human race ought to be abolished en masse, but pending that not much can be gained by killing it off in detail. A Swiss who had served in the Denikin army, and whose father and uncle, according to his story, had been done to death by the Bolsheviki, went to a Lausanne hotel and shot VOROVSKY, the Russian Minister to Rome, who had invited himself to join the Lausanne conference. Naturally, the other members of the Russian delegation at once accused the Swiss Government of being "tacit accomplices," since they had given insufficient police protection. The Powers which organized the Lausanne conference, too, are morally responsible, since their attitude toward the Russians "created confusion in the public mind."

Many American radicals will accept this as the final word. The "confusion in the public mind" arose from the fact that VOROVSKY came to Lausanne without an invitation and didn't receive the protection accorded to delegates because he wasn't a delegate. The Swiss wanted him to go, he insisted on staying, and now it is complained that he didn't receive the protection due a diplomat, though it is said he had some protection at that. At any rate, it seems from first reports that the shooting was the purely personal enterprise of a man grieving over personal troubles, and not a fruit of political conspiracy.

In any case it was no very intelligent enterprise. Men who hate the Bolsheviki would be well advised to let them come to international conferences and let them talk; for all experience from Genoa to Lausanne shows that when faced with a practical situation they get nowhere. The wealth and might of Russia looked formidable till people got the Russians out in the open and enjoyed a closer look.

On the same day M. JOSEPH CAILLAUX, promenading in Toulouse, was attacked and beaten up by some young men, who apparently belong to the Royalist faction. One can only say that this act is worthy of the intelligence of the political group whose noisiest spokesman is M. LÉON DAUDET. For some time past M. CAILLAUX has been trying to come back. He finds it necessary to assume the pose of the persecuted prophet, the Messiah cast out by a generation of vipers. Why help him along? CAILLAUX's history is proof that if you give him time enough he will dig his own pitfall and gleefully tumble in. As between M. CAILLAUX and M. DAUDET one can preserve a strict neutrality; but since CAILLAUX is a political possibility and DAUDET is not, one can't help regretting that the young men who draw their inspiration from DAUDET help to spread the delusion of persecution.

There has been a good deal of political assassination since the war. The men who murdered RATHENAU and RASMIN selected distinguished victims, whose loss is felt by their countries and by all Europe. The lunatic who shot President NARUTOWICZ of Poland at least aimed high. But even a lunatic would find it hard to say what profit could be obtained from shooting a minor Bolshevist Ambassador, or slapping the fat face of JOSEPH CAILLAUX.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Seeking for Safety in Flight.

In its latest, but possibly not last, chapter the story of SALVATORE VENOTTA continues to be as nearly incredible as one supported by indisputable evidence could be.

The family came to public notice two years ago when GIUSEPPE VENOTTA, then 8 years old, was stolen away by kidnappers who hoped to get as ransom for his return a considerable sum of money which they mistakenly thought had recently come into the father's possession. Whether or not SALVATORE VENOTTA would have paid if he could never will be known. He could not, and he did a thing highly unusual for men of his race and class—he went to the police, told them what had happened, and from then until the kidnappers had been hunted down, tried, convicted and some of them sent to the electric chair he gave what help he could to bring to justice the murderers of his little son.

This was heroic, as well as unusual, for it exposed VENOTTA, his wife and his other children to the confidently expected efforts by friends of the criminals to avenge their death. Fully understanding this situation, the police have maintained a constant guard over the family, and thus far they have been able to protect them—no small achievement in the circumstances—and for both the undertaking of the task and its performance, through many months full of peril to all the VENOTTAS, Commissioner ENRIGHT and his subordinates deserve warm praise.

Realizing that the feud would end only when VENOTTA'S "treachery" had been punished, at last it was determined to remove the whole family to some distant town, and the elaborate precautions that were taken to conceal the selected place of refuge—precautions revealed only after the flight had been effected—are sufficient indication of the seriousness of the dangers which still threaten these well-deserving and most unfortunate people, whose only offense, in the eyes of their bitter enemies, is that, like good Americans, they trusted to the law instead of undertaking to right their wrongs by the private use of pistol or dagger.

No Other Refuge Possible.

That the police could think of nothing better to do with or for the VENOTTAS than to send them secretly away from the city is at first thought humiliating. It always is wise to recognize facts, however, and to police knowledge, no matter how long the vengeance of the friends of the kidnappers might be delayed, it would be inflicted at last if its destined objects remained within the reach of the long arms of the black brotherhoods.

Even if the guarding of VENOTTA had been kept up as long as he and his family remained alive, his position here would have remained a cruel one. A man marked for death by violence, nobody in the circles where he could get work would give it to him, not because he lacked sympathy, but because his employer and his fellow-employes might be involved in his fate when it came.

Where he has gone his foes presumably will do their best to discover. VENOTTA now has powerful friends as well as implacable enemies, however, and, with their help, one can hope that he may start life anew. He is a man worth saving at any cost. Indeed, should he not be protected, villains of the kind that murdered his son and ever since have persecuted him will be encouraged and incited to repeat like crimes because their chosen victims will not dare to resist them or to refuse their demands.

They Cannot Mean What They Say.

Now it is JOHN HAYS HAMMOND who repeats the familiar declarations as to the superiority of poverty over wealth as the starting point for a successful life. As Vice President of the Boys' Club Federation, now in convention here, he told the members that not "privileged," but "supervised," boys were those whom he would select as most likely to achieve wealth, simply because the latter had been compelled early to develop self-reliance and to practise self-denial.

Few will deny the truth of these statements, and of course many cases can be cited, both of poor boys who have become in one or another way eminent and of rich boys who have had careers of lamentable failure. Somewhere in this sort of reasoning there is a serious fallacy. A strong hint of that is to be found in studying the inmates of jails and prisons, for the great majority of them had in early life abundant opportunities for acquiring the traits so much valued by Mr. HAMMOND and everybody else, while only a minute minority of them in youth were what he meant by "privileged."

A still better reason to doubt men who talk as did Mr. HAMMOND is to be found in the fact that invariably, if they can do so, they give their own sons exactly the sort of assistance toward making a start in life that they declare to be an impediment to success. Instead of subjecting them to the hardships of poverty, they give them all possible care, dress and feed them well, and send them to the best schools and colleges that can be found. Whatever they may say, instinct or something of the kind not only tells them, but compels them, to ignore their own preaching.

Everything considered, it is a fairly safe assumption, though an unpopular one, that between success and either poverty or wealth in youth there is no close or inevitable connection. The one is as far from assuring success as the other is from assuring failure.

The well-to-do father that let his son go cold, hungry and illiterate, in an effort to teach him self-dependence and self-denial, would get into trouble with the law and into worse trouble with the boy's mother.

A Grievance Easy to Explain.

In the first of the articles by Lord ROBERT CECIL that were printed this week by THE TIMES he made a half-humorous, half-serious complaint that the courtesy and kindness of those whom he addressed while here prevented him from getting as much information as he wanted about the real state of American sentiment. Now and then, at a public or private meeting, somebody asked what was intended to be an embarrassing question, but always, or almost always, these inquirers found themselves objects of resentment, plainly expressed by the other auditors, and this usually silenced them.

The explanation of Lord ROBERT'S grievance, of course, is that while "heckling" is something which all British statesmen and politicians are obliged to endure, and therefore have learned how to utilize, over here we are accustomed to manifest antagonism in different ways—to permit the man who "hires a hall" to say about what he chooses without interruption or audible criticism.

There are occasional exceptions to this American rule, but nobody would be less likely to experience one of the exceptions than is Lord ROBERT. He has the happy faculty of making himself liked wherever he goes, and even those who disagree with him most feel his charm of manner and personality. In this country he is in as little danger of "heckling" as is President HARDING, who always will escape it for much the same reasons.

HOOVER GIVES SUGAR FACTS

Explains the Statement He Made to the Senate Committee in 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial this morning contains the following:

> "On May 5, 1920, Mr. Hoover appeared before the Senate Committee at a time when sugar was selling at twenty-five cents per pound retail, and predicted that there would be a shortage for at least two years, with high prices. But within a year sugar dropped to five cents per pound. It would be well for great Government officials not to prophesy unless they know."

It seems to me that this flardly does justice to the statement made by me at that time. In a reply to a question as to my opinion of prospects for future sugar production, I said that it was entirely too early to forecast the immediate crop, "but taking it by and large, it is my impression that the world will be two or three years recovering its normal sugar production." Both this and subsequent expressions in the examination as shown by the context were related to the question of sugar production; neither future price nor consumption were in discussion or mentioned.

That this statement has proved digitally accurate is evidenced by the fact that whereas the annual world production of sugar was about 18,500,000 tons ore-war, it fell as a result of the war to 15,300,000 tons in 1919-1920 (the year of that statement). The crop for 1920-21 was 16,700,000 tons, for the year 1921-22 about 17,650,000 tons and for 1922-23 is estimated at something over 18,000,000 tons, i. e., it required three years to recover.

Salvation Army Music.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I remember hearing that old General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, replied to the protest that he was using popular and pleasant music for the singing of religious words. "I do not propose to let the devil have all the good music," he is reported to have retorted.

How far his followers have strayed from those high, fine musical standards is apparent to any one who is in the neighborhood of the Public Library, where, for the last ten days, the Salvation Army band has been holding forth. After listening to it for many hours—my office is just across the street from the library—I am convinced that the army has let the devil get all the good tunes. Is inquisitiveness the only standard by which musical compositions are permitted as repertoire?

A Vote for the World Court.

After giving the matter thorough consideration, I feel convinced that President Harding's and Secretary Hughes's idea of a World Court is most desirable and I declare myself in favor of same.

QUESTIONS.

Will it ever be this way,
And will it never, never be
That having gone, He will stay,
And not be always here with me?

Will it never be otherwise,
When the dusk is deep and dear,
That I may never close my eyes
But that I feel him near?

And is there not enough of pain
In knowing him forever gone,
Without having him go again

ASKS LIMIT ON CANAL LAND.

Panama Urges the United States to Declare It Needs No More.

PANAMA, May 11 (Associated Press).—In a memorandum submitted to Secretary Weeks, the Government of Panama takes the ground that inasmuch as the Canal has been completed, the United States should definitely declare that it now holds all the land necessary for the protection of the waterway, thus affording a safeguard against expropriations which might eventually result in the absorption of the entire republic.

The memorandum sets forth Panama's position with regard to several points in its relations with the United States. It says that the leasing of concessions to private concerns is acceptable to Panama only if the companies pay duty on all importations. The Panama Railroad Company, it says, should pay the taxes on its commercial enterprises in this country and should make restitution of all urban property in the cities of Panama and Colon under Article 2 of the Canal Treaty.

It is necessary, the communication holds, that Panama should have means of crossing the Canal without hindrance, thus facilitating communication between the two sections of the republic. As certain Panama roads may be used by the American Government for strategical purposes, the note says that the bridges on such highways should be of heavy construction, and suggests that the United States pay for such improvements, as bridges of light construction suffice for local needs.

It is urged in the memorandum that importations by Canal employes should be subject to duty.

Government Asks That Trustees Control Reading Coal Mines.

The Government filed objections in Philadelphia yesterday to certain provisions of the third modified segregation plan for the Reading Company, which was ordered by the United States Supreme Court to divorce its railroad and coal properties. In the objections raised by the Government in a brief filed in the United States District Court and the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, the court was asked to place control of the coal company in the hands of trustees.

Attorney General Seymour, in filing the brief, said that the plan would result in higher prices for coal, and added that "the court has the power to prevent the public from again suffering this Winter at the hands of the coal gougers." He pointed out that the Reading Company produced about 30 per cent. of the anthracite coal mined in Pennsylvania. William Clarke Mason, counsel for the Reading, raised objections to the Government's conclusions.

Alfred Cook, representing the Continental Insurance Company, and the Fidelity-Phenix Fire Insurance Company, both large holders of the common stock of the Reading Company, commended the stand taken by the Government. Senator Pepper gave warning that there would be no end of litigation if the plan was not approved by the court.

Referring to the Government's appeal for the placing of the coal company's stock in the hands of trustees, counsel for the company said that this was provided for in the court's decree handed down in June, 1921, and that the coal company today was functioning as freely of the domination of the railroad as it ever could.

RENEW TUNNEL BOARD FIGHT

Jersey City Corporation Counsel Will Resist Vacating of Street.

A renewal of the conflict between the New York and New Jersey Vehicular Tunnel Commission and the Jersey City authorities is indicated in a statement issued yesterday by Thomas Brogan, Jersey City's Corporation Counsel, in which he said that every possible effort would be made to prevent the commission from vacating Eleventh Street, between Provost Street and Jersey Avenue, and turning it over to the Erie Railroad Company in exchange for easements and rights now owned by the Erie company. The Erie has agreed to pay a total of $443,000 for the property it will acquire. Hearings on the matter will begin in Trenton on May 24.

A representative of the joint commission in Manhattan said yesterday that if the efforts of Mr. Brogan promised to result in again delaying the work commission engineers would be immediately withdrawn from the project. This would place upon the Jersey City authorities the burden of proving that the contract with the Erie company is against public interest. In his statement Mr. Brogan said:

> "The street which the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission intends to give away is worth $1,500,000, and all Jersey City asks is an equal amount of street area in Eleventh Street at the tunnel entrance to take care of traffic.
> "The city will resist this outrageous program, and not until the Supreme Court and the Court of Errors have said that the city has no rights shall we stop resisting. The people should know that the Bridge and Tunnel Commission is composed of men who are dear to the interests of the State and Jersey City."

GET GREEK CHURCH HONOR.

Dr. Charles S. MacFarland and Dr. John M. Moore Are Decorated.

The Cross of the Holy Sepulchre, one of the highest honors bestowed by the Greek Orthodox Church, was conferred yesterday upon Dr. Charles S. MacFarland, General Secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and the Rev. Dr. John M. Moore, pastor of the Marcy Avenue Baptist Church of Brooklyn, in the assembly hall of the Council at 105 East Twenty-second Street. Archbishop Pantaleimon, in his capacity as emissary of His Beatitude Damianos, the Patriarch of Jerusalem, conferred the decorations.

Dr. MacFarland, addressing the Archbishop after the ceremony, said: "We receive these honors as representatives of our churches, whose servants we are, as symbols of the relationship of brotherly love, sympathy and good-will existing and so rapidly deepening between your churches in the East and our own."

UPHOLDS INQUIRY BY SCHOOL BOARD

NEEDS SPECIAL RESOLUTION

ALBANY, May 11.—In a decision handed down today, Dr. Frank P. Graves, Commissioner of Education, holds that William L. Ettinger, Superintendent of Schools of New York City, and James C. Byrnes, Chairman of the Board of Examiners, were within their rights in appealing from the resolution of the Board of Education directing an investigation of the affairs of the Board of Examiners, and also that the Board of Education has authority to make such an investigation, but not under the resolution as adopted.

The Commissioner rules that the board may proceed with the investigation after adopting a resolution specifically directing a committee or its President to conduct an investigation and specify the subject to be investigated. The blanket resolution adopted authorizing the President as a committee of one to investigate generally all matters relating to the public school system was held illegal and void.

The resolution was so far reasoning to its effect that it might, if carried to its logical conclusion, obstruct him (the Superintendent) in the performance of his duties as a supervising officer of the public school system of the city, added Commissioner Graves.

The President of the Board of Education on March 30 notified Superintendent Ettinger that because of "serious charges and counter-charges with reference to the conduct of teachers' examinations by the Board of Examiners," he had started an investigation of the allegations made by the several parties, as authorized by the resolution of the board. Superintendent Ettinger in his appeal alleged the understanding was that the President would postpone the investigation until after Superintendent Ettinger had an opportunity to investigate and report his findings to the Board of Education. But on March 31 the President, with the apparent intention of proceeding with the investigation, subpoenaed Chairman Byrnes of the Board of Examiners to appear before him on March 27. The appeal was filed prior to that day and the hearing was adjourned pending a determination of the appeal.

The Board of Examiners had on March 15 adopted a resolution removing an examiner charged with irregularities from his position as Chairman of the board. The resolution was presented to Superintendent Ettinger, who requested the Board of Examiners to submit to him a detailed statement of the facts leading to the adoption of the resolution. Superintendent Ettinger informed the President of the Board of Education of the action and also stated that the Board of Education has authority to make such an investigation, but not under the resolution as adopted.

> "It is apparent from the action taken by the Superintendent of Schools and by the President of the Board of Education that they both felt that the alleged irregularities of the deposed Chairman and the issues raised by him in explanation thereof presented matters of sufficient importance to warrant a thorough investigation of all of the affairs of the Board of Examiners," says Commissioner Graves's decision. "The ascertainment of the fitness of candidates for appointment to the teaching staff of such candidates when found competent and their appointment as teachers are professional in their nature and should therefore be within the special cognizance of the Superintendent of Schools and to which extent the Board of Education should be guided by his expert knowledge. It would have been eminently proper for the Board of Education and its President to have permitted the Superintendent of Schools to continue and terminate his investigation before undertaking an independent investigation."

After stating that the charter "permits the board to make an investigation of any subject of which it has cognizance or over which it has legal control," to be determined by the President, the Superintendent of Schools was strictly within his rights in appealing to the Commissioner of Education from this resolution.

> "The board, it is obvious, is privileged to conduct an investigation of the Board of Examiners and, like a grand jury, adopt a resolution directing one of more of its members to conduct such investigation and report the result thereof to the board. It may, if it sees fit, designate the President of the board to conduct such investigation.
> "The papers presented on this appeal, the arguments of counsel and other matters which have come officially to the attention of the Commissioner of Education and the facts stated by him in argument all point to the necessity for a fair, open and unbiased investigation of the teacher examination system of the City of New York. Every citizen must control the appointment of teachers in the public schools of the city."

Both Sides Claim Victory.

Both George J. Ryan, President of the Board of Education, and Dr. William L. Ettinger, Superintendent of Schools, declared the decision of the State Commissioner of Education was a victory for them.

> "The decision speaks for itself," said Mr. Ryan yesterday. "I had confidently felt it will be found to sustain all the points I raised in my letter of September 30, 1922, in which I said the Board of Education would make early next week to pass the specific resolution required by the decision of the Commissioner of the Board of Examiners. As I explained to the board at that time, I felt investigation would be necessary before the board as the school system, Mr. Ryan said.

Dr. Ettinger said that he regarded the decision as sustaining the contentions he had made in connection with the request that the Board of Education be empowered to make an investigation of the Board of Examiners. It was only against the sweeping resolution that I objected. I have no complaint to make about the investigation carried on in the proper way, with due regard for the discretionary powers of the Superintendent of Schools."

Author Wants His Name Off Film.

Samuel R. Golding, playwright and lawyer, yesterday afternoon summoned the Preferred Pictures Corporation to the West Side Court, where he asked Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager to order the corporation to refrain from using his name as author of a photoplay entitled "The Girl Who Came Back."

Golding wrote a play by that name and sold the "movie" rights in 1917 to the Cinderella Productions, which firm resold the play rights to the Preferred Pictures Corporation. Golding charged the version now being exhibited is nothing like his play and he wanted his name withdrawn from the film as author.

The case was adjourned to May 23.

Every one at all the Booths was counting bills at the big Park Avenue Street Fair for the benefit of the Association for Crippled Children yesterday. There is no doubt that the fair has been a great success and that the little cripples will be well cared for as a result of the four-day carnival which came to an end last night. The smallest things sold well and brought in surprising amounts of money.

A "rube" with a little white beard, duster and battered straw hat who sold 25-cent whistles all day alone turned in about $400. Girls dancing in the street to the music of a hand organ took in $400 in a day. The cigarette booth took in about $2,000. Many women patronized this booth as well as men, and an indication of the business transacted there was the large number of women kept busy waiting on the customers. "And we have worked," said one of the women proudly yesterday.

The booths with garden supplies also did well, much to the surprise of those in charge, and were practically sold out. The cake booth had always a vacant look and there was ever a waiting crowd at the popcorn stand – waiting for the man doing the popping to catch up. You couldn't get near the sketching booth at any time, and yesterday, with Guardabassi, Pixzella and Howard Chandler Christy working at the same time—each getting $50 per sketch, for the benefit of the little crippies—it was the most popular place along the Midway.

The little theatre proved a daily money-gatter at a dollar admission, and the cabaret was an equally successful attraction, winding up with Cortez and Peggy and Ann Pennington and Brooke Johns at midnight. At the voters' booth up to the time of closing, Mrs. I. Townsend Burden was still running strong for first, with Jeanne Reynal as a running mate.

One of the most unique proposed additions to the fair's funds made yesterday was that of a woman who lost a diamond brooch and said she would contribute $50 to the fair receipts if the person finding it would return it to the lost and found booth.

It was not possible to get the full returns yesterday, but there will be much bigger returns for this year than last.

MOTHERS FORM CLUB TO GUARD DAUGHTERS

Mothers in the section of Brooklyn between Flatbush Avenue, Canarsie and Bergen Beach have organized the Flatlands Women's Community Club and appointed a captain to watch each block of street in the neighborhood in order to prevent men from annoying their daughters on their way to and from school.

The decision to form the vigilance committee followed reports of stories circulated to the effect that attempts had been made to attack children. The section in which they live is very lonely, on the outskirts of the borough, and the women complain that it is insufficiently illuminated at night.

Mrs. Henry Potter of 4,415 Avenue L and Mrs. William Edwards of 4,617 Avenue L, who are taking leading parts in the work of the Community Club, say that the police of the Flatlands Precinct are doing all the work possible for them, but that there are too few policemen.

Most of the children of the neighborhood attend Public School 110, at Avenue K and East Thirty-seventh Street. To reach the school many of the children take short cuts through lots, which in the Summer are overrun with high weeds. These spots are to be watched particularly.

K. OF C. TO ORGANIZE BOYS.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 11.—The New Jersey Council of the Knights of Columbus plans to organize all the Catholic boys of the State for the pursuit of outdoor recreation, according to plans outlined by State Deputy William L. Leonard of Elizabeth, at the annual convention in St. Nicholas Parish Hall here today. All boys between the ages of 10 and 17 are to be organized into companies similar to the Boy Scout system.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 boys will be incorporated in the new organization, with Summer and Winter camps now maintained by the different councils. The Knights of Columbus now have three camps which could be taken over. These are at Culver's Lake, Lake Hopatcong and Seaside Island, where 4,000 boys are given educational courses each year.

New Jersey now has 30,000 Knights, an increase of 2,000 over last year.

The Rev. Father Joseph A. Ryan of the Church of the Sacred Heart, New Brunswick, State Chaplain of the order, told the delegates in the course of his annual sermon today that love of God first and love of country next were the commandments of the Catholic Church.

MOVES TO BALANCE THE FRENCH BUDGET

IT IGNORES FOREIGN DEBT

And Also Charges Reconstruction and Pensions Up to Germany in Separate Account.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—France may succeed in balancing her budget this year, and, if so, for the first time since the war. Indeed for the first time since several years before the war, the Treasury will not have to borrow to meet the running expenses of the Government.

The Senate Finance Committee today adopted the plan for balancing the budget to leave a 3,500,000,000 franc surplus laid before it by Senator Henry Berenger, Reporter General for the Budget.

While one would not wish to disparage the very serious fiscal effort the French are making, it should be pointed out that this balanced budget, unlike the budget of England, would make no provision toward meeting the foreign debts of France save inclede any of the enormous expenditures for reconstruction and pensions, which are raised by loans and carried as a separate account under the heading of "recoverable expenditures." As it left the Chamber of Deputies the budget called for expenditures of 23,971,000,000 francs, with the estimated receipts 20,281,000,000 francs—in other words a deficit of nearly 4,000,000,000 francs.

Under the Senate plan the appropriation is cut by 1,500,000,000, leaving the total expenditures 22,821,000,000. On the improved tax returns for the first four months of 1923, Berenger calculates that the Government's income this year will be 2,000,000,000 francs greater than the Chamber estimated by 2,000,000,000 francs. In addition, he provides that the railroads shall be obliged to pay the State this year the 600,000,000 francs due for equipment turned over to them by the Germans.

The Chamber project carried provision for interest on 3,700,000,000, which under the Chamber plan would have to be borrowed to balance the budget amounting to some 244,000,000.

Thus Berenger's plan lists the expenditures at 22,852,000,000 and receipts at 23,081,000,000, or a favorable balance of some 400,000,000.

Balance of 2,500,000,000 Francs.

As the budget would stand revamped it would not carry any appropriation to pay the interest on the 6,000,000,000 borrowed this year for reconstruction expenditures, although it would carry an appropriation of 3,000,000,000 to pay the interest on former loans floated for reconstruction. While the project has not yet the support of the Government, Berenger proposes that this be taken out of the ordinary budget and placed in an account of expenditures recoverable from Germany. If this were done the ordinary budget would show a favorable balance of 2,500,000,000.

The French treasury would still have to pay this interest, but instead of being covered by tax receipts, it would be covered like the rest of the money raised for pensions and reconstruction—that is, by domestic loans.

Thus it will be seen that, disregarding the foreign debt, the French have a fair chance of seeing the tax receipts meet the running expenses of the Government. This by no means solves the fiscal problems of the French Government, however because it is always under the shadow of the 100,000,000,000 francs borrowed for reconstruction and pensions which will go to 150,000,000,000 before the job is done.

It is the French reparation plan to pass on to Germany the interest and sinking fund charges of this debt, or at least, for the 110,000,000,000 francs spent for reconstruction, for it is conceivable that the Reich will shortly drop their pension claims against Germany if England does likewise. This would mean in return that the French budget then would carry provisions for the interest and sinking fund for the pension borrowings which up to the present amount to about 35,000,000,000, which would add some 2,000,000,000 to the annual budget charge.

Leave Foreign Debts to Germany.

The French taxpayers would probably meet this without straining if assured that Germany would take care of the reconstruction loans.

There is little disposition on the part of either the French politicians or the French taxpayers to face squarely the issue of raising money to meet the charges on debts of France to America and England. The politicians have always told the people that Germany would pay this, and today part of the Poincaré reparation plan as laid down in his reply to Cuno is that France will demand payment of the Class C bonds, representing two-thirds of the reparation total, only in proportion as America and England obliged France to pay.

The taxpayers have heard this for so long and so often that they do not worry about the foreign debt. As the average Frenchman sees it, the high indirect taxes he is paying, which keep the cost of living at highwater mark in France, although it has fallen elsewhere, will balance the running expenses of his Government. As for reconstruction and the foreign debt, he relies on his Government to pass that on to Germany. He may wake up to disappointment some of thees days, but he has not yet.

The French resent the theory expressed by economic writers in England and America from time to time that the franc may go the way of the mark and the ruble. They argue that cannot happen so long as the French keep the paper circulation down as they have done, there having been no increase over the 37,000,000,000 at which the circulation stood in 1919. They say that adverse events might make the franc fall as low as twenty for the dollar, but that it is entirely unfair to say there is any danger of the franc going the route of the mark.

NOTABLES AT ASTOR DINNER

LONDON, May 11 (Associated Press).—Viscount and Lady Astor gave a dinner and reception at their London residence tonight "to meet the Prince of Wales." It was a very representative gathering, there being guests from the realms of the Church, Parliament, journalism, stage, art, literature, diplomacy and law. A number of Labor members of the House of Commons were invited and some of them attended with their wives.

The fifty guests for dinner included the Earl of Balfour, the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, Viscount Haldane, the Bishop of London, Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, Lieut. Col. Amery and Mrs. Amery, Sir Edward and Lady Grigg and many members of the House of Commons.

The Labor members who, with their wives, came for the dinner, included Arthur Henderson, Vernon Hartshorn and Will Thorne. Robert Clynes, with his wife and daughter, and James Henry Thomas and his wife were among the 500 guests at the reception.

Captain Alex. McDougall Very Ill.

DULUTH, Minn., May 11.—Captain Alexander McDougall, 78, internationally famous shipbuilder, who underwent a surgical operation here last Saturday, is in a precarious condition and Dr. W. H. Magie, attending physician, today held out little hope for his recovery.

WINNERS IN TOURNEY OF 20 LITTLE PLAYS

'The Crow's Nest,' 'The Clock' and 'The Little Stone House' to Compete for Trophy.

The three one-act plays qualifying for honors in the Little Theatre tournament, which held its final round last night at the Hayes Theatre, were carefully chosen by the judges. The winners, to be presented again this afternoon and evening, are: "The Crows Nest," by William Manley, offered by the Fireside Players; "The Clock," by Robert Courtney, given by the Garden Players, and "The Little Stone House," by George Calderon, acted by the East-West Players. David Belasco will present a trophy signifying distinction in the bowl to the three tonight, the trophy to be held by the winning team until the tournament is repeated next year.

None of the four plays presented last night rightly qualified for first place. Only one of the plays, "The Monkey's Paw," had any great amount of merit; and this was not a one-act, but a three-act play, Louis N. Parker, who dramatized the play from a story by W. W. Jacobs, called "The Monkey's Paw" a story in three scenes." This did not help, however, to hide the fact that it had little right to compete with sketches. Nevertheless it was beautifully acted and produced by the Montclair Players.

"Three Pills in a Bottle," by Rachel Lyman Field, has been presented several times before by amateur organizations here, and was done well enough by the Nyack Players. The audience was a bit perplexed in trying to figure out what the Mistletoe Bough, by Dorothy Stockbridge, was all about. The Stockbridge Stocks presented it well enough to make one wish that the play had been a trifle less vague. "Another Way Out," by Lawrence Langner, and presented by the Players League, had some good things in it than bad things.

The committee of judges, which selected the three winning plays, was composed of Forest Davis of the New York Tribune; Alfred Bryan, playwright; Mrs. Frances Fisher Dubuy, of Arts and Decoration; Miss Verna Mickol of The Daily News, and Miss Martha Leonard, an actress-manager.

ILLUSTRATORS ACT IN AMUSING SKITS

An excellent show was put on by the Society of Illustrators at the Century Roof Theatre last night. More than one illustrator apparently found his true niche in life behind the footlights. The performance will be repeated tonight and Monday night.

The show began with a gorgeously satirical curtain by Rube Goldberg, in which the celebrities of the town were depicted in unflattering but recognizable poses, at least with the aid of the program. The skits which followed included an amusing attack upon criticism in general by James Montgomery Flagg, with a bitter but inevitable recognition at its close that critics might be silenced but could not be killed; a grimly realistic studio scene, in which Adele Klaer did excellent protean acting; scholarly estimate of the sociological aspects of bus riding and a grand and gorgeous first-act finale with an unbelievably beautiful assortment of artists' models.

Other features were community singing of the Fatal Wedding, an illuminating Egyptian dance by Olive Ann Mercorn, a fly swatters' ballet and the appearance of Rube Goldberg, Billy De Beck, Clare Briggs, H. T. Webster, Charles Voight, Harry Hershfield, Winsor McCay, Jonathan Swift and George Herriman in an act peculiarly entitled "Men Who Make the Nation Laugh," although no other mention of this liberal publication was made during the evening.

DIXEY DARES LACKAYE TO FIGHT ON STAGE

Actors in Same Worcester Company, One 64, Other 61, Have Been Long at Odds.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 11.—Henry E. Dixey today issued a challenge to Wilton Lackaye to engage in a ten-round boxing bout at a Worcester Theatre tomorrow night for the benefit of the Milk Fund for the poor children of Worcester, the New York Milk Fund, or any other fund for charity. He accompanied his challenge with a $100 cash deposit. Both men are members of a company playing here. The manager of the theatre says there has been bad blood between them for nearly a year, and that Dixey is anxious to see which is the better man on the stage immediately after the performance, which is the last the company is to give this season. Dixey is 64 years old and Lackaye 61.

HIRSHFIELD ON HECKLERS.

Denounces Irish Patriots Who Stay 2,500 Miles From War.

In a statement yesterday deploring the action of Irishmen who interrupted his speech on Thursday night at the dinner of the Friends of India at the Hotel Astor, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield said:

"When I accepted the invitation to attend this dinner I was told that the young men representing India were in need of cash with which to carry on their propaganda for freedom, and when I went there I did so with the intention of starting with a fair sum a nation-wide drive for funds for the Indian cause. It is too bad that a good purpose was spoiled by a few misguided young men who cannot distinguish patriotism from rowdyism.

"I again repeat that to my mind the cheapest and meanest demagogue is the able-bodied young fellow who vociferously proclaims his patriotism with his hide safe twenty-five hundred miles from the seat of war. The true patriot stays home where the fight for freedom is on and in the front line of battle bares his breast to the enemy's bullets."

A HERO OF EQUITABLE FIRE

Chaplain Major in 69th Regiment in World War, in Which He Served With Five Brothers.

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph P. Dineen, Chancellor of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, died yesterday morning in St. Vincent's Hospital. He had been ill with kidney trouble and was removed to the hospital ten days ago, where his condition grew steadily worse. Mgr. Dineen was 40 years old. He was born in this city and grew up here. His early school years were spent at the College of St. Francis Xavier in West Sixteenth Street. After graduating there he studied at St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, N. Y.

On his twenty-fifth birthday he was ordained by Cardinal Farley and assigned to St. Peter's Church in Barclay Street. In January, 1912, while Mgr. Dineen was at St. Peter's occurred the Equitable fire, in which several lives were lost and scores had narrow escapes. Mgr. Dineen was among the first to arrive at the fire and stayed all night and day in bitter cold weather, offering what aid he could to firemen and civilians. In his book, "Fires and Fire Fighters," Chief Kenlon pays the following tribute to Mgr. Dineen:

"A feat which I take pride in recalling was that of the gallantry shown by Father Joseph P. Dineen of St. Peter's Church in Barclay Street, who, at the risk of his life, conveyed the sacrament to one of the men, afterward rescued from the vault; this at a moment when onlookers feared the worst and when no man would have been considered a coward for hesitating."

Mgr. Dineen was long secretary to Archbishop Hayes, representing him on many occasions, and when, two years ago, the Rev. John J. Dunne was promoted from Chancellor to Auxiliary Bishop he was appointed Chancellor. It was while he was secretary to the Archbishop that Mgr. Dineen was charged by Mrs. Margaret Sanger and other leaders of the birth control movement with having been responsible for the police stopping the American Birth Control Conference in the Town Hall in November, 1921. Father Dineen is said to have found that children were present at the meeting and accordingly reported the fact to the police.

Mgr. Dineen and his five brothers, one of them also a priest and another a surgeon, served in the army during the war. He himself was Chaplain Major of the Sixty-ninth Regiment. At that time his mother, Mrs. Margaret Dineen of 852 West Twenty-eighth Street, was rejected for service with the Red Cross because of her age.

The body of Mgr. Dineen was taken from the hospital to the Episcopal residence, Fiftieth Street and Madison Avenue. Archbishop Hayes will celebrate a pontifical mass on Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Cathedral. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

HORNELL, N. Y., May 11.—Brig. Gen. Henry Martyn Robert, U. S. A., retired, died today at the Steuben Sanitarium here after a five weeks' illness. He was 86 years old. With him at the time of his death were his wife and daughter. Funeral and burial services will be held at Arlington Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

General Robert was a veteran of the Civil War and for a time Chief Engineer of the United States Army. He was born at Robertsville, N. C., and graduated from West Point in the class of 1857. He was at the time of his death the oldest living graduate of the Military Academy. His first detail after his graduation hold him at the Academy as an assistant professor in natural philosophy and astronomy. In 1858 he was ordered to Washington Territory to take command of engineering operations in a campaign against the Indians. With the beginning of the Civil War he was placed in charge of the construction of defenses around Washington. Similar assignments in Philadelphia and New Bedford, Mass., followed in addition to other duties of the young officer from more active duty during the war. However, by his efficient engineering services he was promoted to a captaincy in 1863 and four years later became a Major.

Through the Lake region, on Middle Western rivers and harbors, on the Pacific and Atlantic Coast are many monuments to General Robert's engineering ability. He helped in planning and building the defenses of New York Harbor, Long Island and Long Island Sound, Galveston, Texas, and other coast line points, besides planning and carrying out improvements on the Hudson, Delaware, St. Lawrence, Tennessee and other rivers.

In 1901 he was made Chief of Engineers with the rank of Brigadier General and held that post a year before he retired.

General Robert in spite of his exceedingly active life as an engineer, devoted much time to works on parliamentary law. His interest in a matter apparently so far removed from engineering came about in this manner. As a twenty-five-year-old Lieutenant he was called upon to preside at a meeting. Knowing nothing about parliamentary procedure, he sought and did not find a complete book on the subject. He then set about gathering the material now famous in the form of "Robert's Rules of Order," published first in 1876 and revised and republished for the second time in 1915. Since 1915 General Robert has published two other works on the same subject.

He was a member of the Loyal Legion, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

ERROR STARTS A NEW HYLAN-CRAIG FEUD

HULBERT TAKES A HAND

Another chapter in the Hylan-Craig warfare was read into the record yesterday when the two city officials clashed at the meeting of the Board of Estimate over a request of the Transit Commission for $366,402.40 for construction work at the Jerome Avenue subway yards. The money had been appropriated at a previous meeting of the board and was placed on yesterday's calendar through an error.

"This shows," said the Controller, "that the members of the board don't know half the time what they are voting for."

Mayor Hylan bridled at this and declared that the error was due to the Controller's refusal to permit an examination of his books.

"You had better introduce a resolution to find out what you, yourselves, are doing," retorted Craig.

"There goes the Liberty Bell again," commented Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen.

"You would be better off," said the Controller, turning to Hulbert, "if you kept your eyes open and your mouth shut more when you are appropriating money."

The Mayor then got through a resolution instructing the board's examiners to report any difficulties they may have in their efforts to examine the books in the Controller's office.

"I want to nail that insinuation right away," asserted Craig, pounding the desk with his fist. "Examiners have access to our books. The trouble is that these examiners don't know their way about the town. Some of them don't know where the Controller's office is except on pay day."

The Mayor then turned to Joseph Haag, his new assistant, and instructed him to see that the resolution was enforced.

Court Confirms Car Barn Sale.

Elsberg acting as special master in the old New York City Railway foreclosure litigation, of the car barn property, bounded by Fourth and Lexington Avenues and Thirty-second and Thirty-third Streets. The property was purchased by Harry Newmark, Fred Brown and another for $1,600,000.

The 3-Mile "Kick" In the Rum Ruling

Three miles out in the ocean runs an imaginary line along our shores which divides the "dry" land and water of the United States from the "wet" world without. Within that line (and within similar lines around our insular possessions), no foreign ship, be she British, French, Italian, Portuguese, may carry sealed or unsealed, a single drop of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes. Outside those lines our own ships may legally serve intoxicants without limit.

This recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court, in the opinions of many editors, is likely to arouse international complications. Some heads of European steamship companies say they will abide by the letter and spirit of American rulings, altho others hope that there will not be very rigid enforcements. Some rather amazing predictions about what will happen have been current in news and editorial columns of leading newspapers.

All phases of this new development in the working of the Volstead Act are reflected in an interesting article in this week's issue of THE LITERARY DIGEST, May 12th.

LISTED SECURITIES OVER 42 BILLIONS

CROMWELL ISSUES REPORT

EFFECT OF QUESTIONNAIRE

Failure of a Member Firm Is Expected to Be a Very Rare Occurrence—Bucketing Problem.

Seymour L. Cromwell yesterday made public a report covering his two years as President of the New York Stock Exchange. It is the first report ever made public by a President of the Exchange. It is understood to have been associated, including proposed influenced by the many important events with which the Exchange has legislation dealing with the execution of security transactions and the licensing of brokers, corners, bucket shop failure and many other happenings.

Mr. Cromwell explains these incidents and in addition discusses the rapid expansion in new securities during the last year and half, the economic situation, resolutions adopted and the efforts made by the officers of the Exchange in further protecting the interests of the public. He also points out that to meet new conditions a special committee has been appointed to revise the Exchange constitution. Regarding failures, Mr. Cromwell says that these will be rare as a result of the questionnaire which the Committee on Business Conduct sends to all members twice a year.

Regarding the listing of new securities, Mr. Cromwell says that excluding Liberty bonds, estimates of the par value of listings show an increase of $5,846,717,543, or 16 per cent., between Aug. 1, 1921, and March 1, 1923. He also points out that, exclusive of Liberty bonds, total securities listed at present have a par value of $42,398,-296,923.

The Increase in Listings.

As to the rapid increase in new security listings during the last year and a half, Mr. Cromwell says:

"There have been several distinct reasons, arising from contemporary economic and financial conditions, for this large addition of securities to our list. For one thing, securities have in recent years been extensively issued to retire short-term corporate indebtedness at the banks, often 'frozen' by the drastic liquidation of 1920-1921. Also, many former partnerships have recently incorporated, some because of expanding business and some for reasons to be found in our present taxation system. Lastly, America has became so significant an international credit center that many foreign securities have been floated in New York and subsequently listed on the Exchange.

"This increase in listings has been an important factor in the expansion of outstanding loans on security collateral. Both such loans and listings, as a matter of fact, respond very sensitively to the swift and continuous growth of American business. If either should for long cease to increase, it would indicate either that business itself had been halted, or that the financial facilities whereby it is maintained had been paralyzed.

"Owing to the great number and variety of listings today, a more uniform system of corporation statements seems to me desirable. The widely divergent systems of bookkeeping employed by the different companies with securities listed on the Exchange to some extent confuse the public and work to its disadvantage."

Bucket Shop Problem.

In his comment on the bucket-shop problem of 1921-1922, Mr. Cromwell said:

"The long decline in the stock market from November, 1919, till August, 1921, to an unusual degree enabled unscrupulous firms masquerading as stock brokers to bucket the orders of the public. The Stock Exchange made every effort to check the epidemic of bucketing by these outside houses, both through its control over its tickers, and through continually urging that the existing fraud laws be enforced by public officials. Nevertheless, owing to the inability of the Exchange to regulate any except its own members, and to the inadequate enforcement of the law, the nefarious practice of bucketing continued among a swarm of mushroom non-member security firms, until stock prices turned upward in the autumn of 1921.

"As stock prices rose, these bucket-shops, which were of course technically 'short' of the market, were quickly driven into insolvency. The failures of something like a hundred of these firms ensued.

"In removing our tickers from certain of these firms prior to their failure, the Stock Exchange incurred the enmity of a few influential persons who were associated with them and in some cases in their employ. The efforts of certain public officials, whether through misunderstanding or through intention, had the effect of laying the blame for the bucketshop debacle elsewhere than upon the actual culprits. Accordingly, the Stock Exchange was violently though mistakenly attacked in the public press, and the attempt was made in January, 1922, to force through the State Legislature a bill which proposed the licensing of stockbrokers and other unsound measures. The bill was defeated in the State Senate on March 17, 1922, by a vote of 26 to 20.

"During the public controversy which accompanied these events the President of the Exchange in several instances had occasion to state the attitude of the Stock Exchange squarely and clearly before both the legislature and the general public."

Mr. Cromwell reviewed the questions of blue-sky legislation, the licensing of stock brokers, the attempted State control of the Stock Exchange, the creation of the Better Business Bureau of New York, the expenses of which were underwritten by the Exchange by advancing $60,000 until the bureau was self-supporting; the educational and publicity work of the Exchange, the smallness of failures of Stock Exchange firms in connection with failures among banks and other lines of endeavor, the Piggly Wiggly corner and the striking of securities from the Exchange, the work of the Stock Clearing Corporation, the improved quotation service and improvement in the handling of odd-lot transactions.

The Questionnaire.

The resolution adopted by the Governing Committee instructing the Business Conduct Committee to send a questionnaire to all members twice a year calling for a statement of their financial position, was adopted April 26, 1922. Since that date, says Mr. Cromwell, "the Exchange has sent to its members a questionnaire designed to give the experts of the Exchange a comprehensive view of the members' condition. The purpose of the questionnaire is to disclose any condition which, either through negligence or lack of understanding, might ultimately impair the firm's credit and jeopardize its customers' interests.

"With this information in hand, the Exchange is in a position to assure itself that its member firms are in strong financial condition, and where firms are weak, to insist either upon arrangements to restore their solvency or upon an immediate assignment. In the latter case, customers of the firm are benefited materially through the conservation of present assets and the prevention of future losses or perhaps of deposits by new customers, through a continuation of the weak condition in a hope of improvement which might not materialize.

"Since the inauguration of the questionnaire highly beneficial results have been obtained, and it is confidently expected that hereafter a failure on the Stock Exchange will be a very rare occurrence.

"The questionnaire has also been instrumental in bringing before the heads of firms a concise statement of their exact condition and in safeguarding them from the possibility of internal losses. Many firms have arranged that a monthly statement be prepared on the exact lines of the questionnaire for their own guidance in directing their policy."

In conclusion Mr. Cromwell said: "The New York Stock Exchange of today is not only the primary securities market of the country—it is the freest and most open of all the great capital markets of the world. It provides a source of capital both to foreign Governments and to all manner of domestic enterprises. Its operations serve to stabilize the price of capital and stimulate its flow into industry, to support the export trade of the nation, and to sustain national and private credit throughout the world. There are no classes in American society and few if any foreign nations of advanced civilization which are not benefited today by its broad and continuous securities market.

"Over a century ago the founders of this great institution declared its purpose to be not merely to facilitate the business of its members but also to maintain high standards of commercial honor and integrity, and to promote and inculcate just and equitable principles of trade. It is both our privilege and our task to see that these high aims are realized."

FIND DUMMY BURIED IN CANVAS BAG AT SEA

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., May 11.—A fake burial at sea to shield a fugitive, or a hoax, with some insurance company as the intended victim, is suspected in the finding of a perfect form of a body pulled aboard their boat today by Henry Decoase and his brother, Walter, of Belford. While they were out lobster fishing their anchor rope fouled this form, which was sewed in canvas with a 250-pound bag of sand tied to the feet. The form was taken to shore at Port Monmouth, where about fifty fishermen gathered, suspecting that some murder had been committed and the body had been thrown overboard.

County Detective J. B. Rue was notified and had the body brought to Undertaker Albert W. Worden Jr.'s morgue here. Dr. H. W. Hartman, county physician, was notified and he, with his assistant, Dr. H. S. Cassidy, came here prepared to perform an autopsy. Opening the canvas the physicians found a perfect form of a man made of plaster of paris, boards and excelsior. It was about 5 feet 8 inches in length, and weighed 180 pounds. A flannel union suit had been stuffed with excelsior, legs and feet were cut out of wood in good shape, and there were plaster of paris hands, and nose, in the most perfect form ever seen by the detectives and physicians. The finding of the "body" will be reported to the proper authorities in New York, Newark, Philadelphia and other cities.

HIRSHFIELD RAPS FALCONER

Writes to Banton That Attack on Him Was Not Privileged.

David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, in a letter to District Attorney Joab H. Banton yesterday, charged that Alderman Bruce M. Falconer had failed to introduce in the Board of Aldermen on April 24 a resolution calling for the removal of Mr. Hirshfield and that therefore the contents of the resolution, alleged to have been given out by Mr. Falconer, were not privileged.

"For the past five years every city official, not a member of the Republican Party, has been subjected to brutal, false and malicious attacks from the same Alderman Falconer," Mr. Hirshfield wrote. "However, in making these attacks upon city officials this Alderman always made sure that he made them at meetings of the Board of Aldermen where his hide was protected by the law which gives members of legislative bodies protection for stating things on the floor they would not dare to say outside, just as Cuvillier, Steinberg and others like them, have recently been doing in the Assembly. This is the first time that Alderman Falconer's well-laid plans to abuse a city official under the protection of the Aldermanic floor privilege have miscarried, and I am submitting the matter to you for your consideration."

Mr. Banton would not comment on the letter.

The award, which is to be annual, was made this year for the first time. The subject of the essays was confined to "an American poet or group of American poets, or to some problems suggested by their inheritance."

Deaths in Week Drop 108 From Same Period in 1922

There was a decrease equivalent to a saving of 108 lives in the deaths reported last week as compared with the deaths of the same week last year, according to a report made yesterday to Health Commissioner Dr. Frank J. Monaghan by Dr. William H. Guilfoy, Registrar of the Health Department. The total deaths reported last week were 1,423.

The principal decline was shown in deaths from bronchial pneumonia. There were eighty deaths from this cause last week, while in the corresponding week last year there were 114. Of the contagious diseases the largest decrease was in diphtheria. There were twelve deaths from this cause last week compared with thirty-four a year ago.

MEXICO WELCOMES WARREN AND PAYNE

Recognition Is Believed to Be Near at Hand—Conferences Will Soon Begin.

MEXICO CITY, May 11.—The arrival here today of Charles B. Warren and John Barton Payne, the American Commissioners sent to negotiate for a resumption of friendly relations, heightened the new feeling of optimism. Bankers and merchants, both foreign and native, and all classes of people are taking great interest in the coming meetings, as they firmly believe that recognition by the United States is near at hand.

The Commissioners arrived at 8:45 o'clock in the morning. They were met at the station by the Mexican delegates who will confer with them, Ramon Ross and Gonzalez Roa, accompanied by George T. Summerlin, the American Chargé d'Affaires; the staff of the embassy and a delegation from the Mexican Foreign Office. Rodolfo Nervo, Mexican Chief of Protocol, made an address welcoming the Americans to the city.

Messrs. Warren and Payne were taken to the Escandon Palace, where they will reside until the end of the conferences. They paid their first formal call on Secretary Albert Pani at the Foreign Office at noon; Matthew E. Hanna, Chief of the Mexican Affairs Division in Washington, accompanied the Commissioners, together with a staff of secretaries and Manuel Denegri and Ignacio de la Torre, who had met the visitors at the border.

Announcement was made that John Manuel Urquidi, former Chargé of the Mexican Legation in London, has been named as interpreter and secretary to the Mexican delegates.

Mr. Warren said in an interview:

"We have come to Mexico representing the United States Government on a friendly mission for the purpose of continuing the negotiations between the Mexican and American Governments in the hope of reaching an understanding that will lead to the resumption of good and normal relations between the two countries. The details of our meeting will of course be arranged after we consult the Mexican Commissioners. We have no information as to the exact time when we will hold our first meeting.

"We understand that the Mexican Foreign Office will arrange to present us to President Obregon. We certainly appreciate the courtesy of the Mexican Government in sending Señors Denegria and de la Torre to escort us to Mexico City and the hospitality in furnishing us such luxurious quarters, as well as the kindness of the municipality of Mexico City in making us guests of honor."

Judge Payne added a few words, saying:

"Judging from the hospitality shown us and the luxury with which we are surrounded, I can say that we are prepared to be very patient in the negotiations."

The Mundo, an afternoon daily newspaper, says:

"We heartily welcome Messrs. Warren and Payne, the personal representatives of President Harding, who will exchange impressions with the delegates of President Obregon. We wish to be optimistic as to the results of the talks which will be held. We wish to believe that the high representatives of the White House arrive filled with profound humanitarian desire to understand our problems. We wish to think without the slightest malice that they come determined to study with a penetrating eye the necessary antecedents which will explain and resolve the profound causes which have had a part in the process of the transformation of Mexico, largely derived from the peculiar social conditions of the people of this country.

"It is easy to settle the problem of Mexico in large offices in Wall Street, in the delightful surroundings of sweet France or in the lovable Puerto Del Sol in Spain where things have histories far behind those through which we have lived during the last forty years. It is difficult from a distance to understand this condition, where 90 per cent. of the population form an ignorant mass, where political bosses strongly organized at the service of the few have exploited the abundant poverty, where hungry foreigners have tried to treat Mexico with the exploitation methods that have richly paid when used on the people of Asia Minor and Africa.

"Mexico is a country yet weak, but is as proud of its historic place in the world and of its manifest destinys as is Great Britain. We expect from the Governments which direct the capitalistic countries the same justice."

Lenroot Declares She Will Control the Territory in Ten Years.

SUPERIOR, Wis., May 11.—A menace "genuine, foreboding, foreboding," exists in Hawaii today, declared Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, who has just returned from an extended tour of the Island possessions. Unless some step be taken, and taken at once, Senator Lenroot predicted, Japan will have assumed, by virtue of numbers, the governmental authority of Hawaii.

"Over two-thirds of the population of Hawaii is Japanese today," Senator Lenroot asserted. "Within ten years the Japanese voters, by right of their birth there, will far outnumber the natives and Americans, thus gaining control of the Territory."

Mr. Lenroot charged that despite denials by the Japanese Government, Japanese children attending Japanese schools in Hawaii are taught allegiance to the land of the Mikado rather than to the United States. He declared evidence everywhere was "overwhelmingly against the denials of the Government at Tokio" in this regard.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—New York City (Manhattan) led the country in the aggregate amount and in the increase in postal savings business in April. Its increase in the month of $223,935 brings the aggregate of depositors' balances to $43,624,210.

Brooklyn's increase was $46,454, making the depositors' balances $12,876,446. Brooklyn's aggregate is more than double that of Chicago and nearly double that of Boston.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—Paris musicians, led by M. Georges de Launay, a well-known pianist and conductor of the Paris Orchestra, have declared a strike against wireless telephone owners. Last evening at the Halle Gaveau, where the Paris Orchestra was giving a recital of Massenet's "Mary Magdalene," de Launay, before the recital began, made a formal protest against the installation of a wireless telephone transmitter in the concert hall and refused to begin the concert if it was used. His action had the support of all the musicians and singers taking part.

The concert, M. de Launay explained, was on behalf of the poor of the Parish of Saint Roch, and he had been shocked during the day when he had been called up by several friends who told him they were not coming to the concert, but would hear it much more comfortably in their own homes, where they had installed wireless sets. These people would all hear the concert for nothing, he said, and it was in the name of the poor for whom the concert was given, as well as in the name of the musicians, that he made the protest.

"The wireless telephone," said the leader in an interview today, "seems likely to empty the concert halls. For a young musician who wishes to bring his name before the public it may be an advantage to sing or play to the wireless, but for orchestral musicians and men like Paderewski, Kreisler and Ysaye there is nothing to be gained and everything to be lost."

De Launay insists that, at least, wireless telephone companies should be compelled to pay a substantial fee for the right to install a transmitter at a concert. Others, especially among singers, are objecting to any wireless transmission at all, on the ground that the instruments as at present developed do not do them justice.

In the first enthusiasm for a new discovery wireless companies found that singers and musicians were eager to sing and play to 50,000 persons or more for a very small charge. But that enthusiasm has waned with the installation of about 1,000,000 sets in France and a sadly increase in the number.

M. Devries, one of the finest tenors of the Opera Comique, discussing the situation, said that wireless companies offered him $5 to sing for them.

"It's ridiculous," said M. Devries, "and do you imagine that people who have heard me sing over their wireless sets are ever going to come to the Opera Comique to hear me? And it isn't only musicians who are menaced by wireless. You newspaper men are in danger as well. I learned about the death of Sarah Bernhardt by wireless and some of my friends in the country follow the Bourse operations in that way."

Wireless telephone companies, which have been having an enormous boom, thanks to the publicity they get, naturally regard the musicians' protest as foolish.

"Look at the advertisement they are getting," they say, to which the musicians reply: "But look at the box office receipts we are losing."

SMASH BRONZE DOOR TO MARTYRS' TOMB

CASKETS EXPOSED TO VIEW

An act of vandalism more serious than several recently committed in Brooklyn came to light yesterday when it was found that a bronze door leading to the crypt of the Prison Ship Martyrs' Monument, in Fort Greene Park, had been battered from its hinges some time during the night or morning, leaving the interior of the crypt exposed to view. The twenty caskets reposing in the crypt, containing the bones of more than 1,500 heroes of the Revolutionary War, were not disturbed.

The destruction of the door, which weighs more than a ton, was discovered at 12:45 P. M. by Samuel Oberle, a Park Department foreman. Several rocks, evidently used in smashing the hinges of the door, were lying beside it at the bottom of the small flight of steps leading from the second of three terraces to the entrance of the crypt. The rocks are believed to have been carried from excavation work in connection with the water main system just in front of the monument.

The towering monument, which marks the last resting place of those who died on board British ships in Wallabout Bay, arises from the third of three terraces making a gradual ascent from the street level. Each of the terraces is reached by a flight of thirty-four granite steps. The crypt was built beneath the level of the second terrace, and the entrance to it is reached by a flight of eight steps cut in the face of the second flight of stone steps.

Park Commissioner John N. Harman was notified as soon as the broken door was found and hastened to the scene. He at once gave it as his opinion that the work of destruction was performed some time during the night or early morning.

"This seems to me to be the work of the same person or persons that perpetrated the previous acts of vandalism," said Commissioner Harman. "The police heretofore have made every effort toward apprehending the guilty persons, and we are hopeful of finding some clue that will lead to the capture of those responsible for the outrage."

Policeman Thomas J. Barrett of the Classon Avenue Precinct reported that he passed the steps leading to the crypt at 11:45 A. M. and that he noticed nothing unusual at the time. This was only one hour before the discovery of the crime. Policeman Barrett believes that if it had taken place before that time he would have noticed the broken door. The park officials, however, after questioning a number of workmen, are of the opinion that the deed is mistaken. They assert that if the work of breaking the door was attempted just at the noon hour the persons committing the outrage would have been seen by somebody.

Captain Patrick Randall, in charge of the Detective Bureau in Brooklyn, at once ordered Detectives Eugene Daly and James Conlin to make an investigation. An investigation has been ordered to determine the responsibility of the patrolman on duty in the vicinity of the monument both inside and outside of the park. The men who worked from 4 P. M. to midnight, Thursday, from midnight to eight o'clock yesterday morning and from eight o'clock to noon yesterday will all be questioned.

Yesterday afternoon a score of children, white and black, who live in the neighborhood were using the granite coping of the walls leading to the crypt as a sort of "chute the chutes." The color line was sharply drawn. The slope of one side was used by the negro children while the slope of the other side amused the whites. The children of neither hue were concerned with the crime. They replied vaguely that something unusual had taken place, but it was not important enough to them to stop their daily sport.

BUCHANAN AWARD ASSAILED BY LABOR

CALLS IT DISCRIMINATION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The controversy over the award of the contract to recondition the Shipping Board liner President Buchanan to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company found its way back to the White House today, when the American Federation of Labor filed a protest with the President in which it is charged the award represents "a deliberate return to the spoils system in public work."

The Federation asserts that the private yard contract calls for an expenditure of $400,000 in excess of the estimate submitted by the New York Navy Yard, and that in refusing to give the work to the navy yard the Shipping Board is discriminating in favor of the private-owned yard and against the Government plant and the workers employed therein.

At the White House it was said that the protest, which was filed by the Executive Council of the Federation, is before the President, but that he had not had time to study it, and until he did there would be no comment from the Executive.

In the case of the protest of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, which was along lines similar to the one filed today, the President upheld the action of the board, and there is no reason to believe he will change his position.

President Harding's Attitude.

Mr. Harding takes the attitude that an estimate by a navy yard is not binding so far as final cost is concerned, and that until Congress passes a law authorizing Government plants to contract there is no cure for the existing situation.

If the cost figures published by the Government in the Navy Year Book are correct, as a general rule the cost of ships built in navy yards exceeds the cost when constructed by private corporations. The dreadnought Florida, built in the New York Navy Yard, cost $10,359,979, while her sister ship, the Utah, built in a private yard, cost $8,-504,492. The Connecticut, built in the navy yard, cost $7,705,603, and her sister ship, the Louisiana, constructed in a private yard, cost $7,342,000, while the Government-built dreadnought New York cost about $350,000 more than did her privately built sister ship, the Texas. In all these cases the Government-built ship was constructed under the estimats system and the private-built ship under contract.

The Federation of Labor protest reads:

"We are informed that the United States Shipping Board vessel President Buchanan is to be reconditioned by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at a cost $400,000 higher than the amount estimated by the United States Navy Yard at New York.

Protest Against "Discrimination."

"We are aware of no adequate explanation for this action on the part of the Shipping Board, and we desire to enter our most vigorous protest against this discrimination in favor of a private corporation and against the navy yard and the workers employed therein.

"In connection with this we recall the action of the Shipping Board in awarding the contract for reconditioning the Leviathan to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company when a much lower estimate for the work was submitted by a Government navy yard.

"We regard such action as in every way contrary to sound public policy, a waste of public money and an encouragement of unfairness and extravagance which the Government can ill afford to offer.

"Until a satisfactory explanation of this conduct is offered from reliable Governmental sources, we may only regard the action as a deliberate return to and encouragement of the spoils system in public work.

"We direct that a copy of this declaration be respectfully forwarded to the President of the United States, the Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, the Director of the Budget and the Secretary of the Treasury.

"We trust that these officials may bring out a speedy rectification of the wrong that has been done, and offer to the public a satisfactory explanation of the policy pursued."

TO AID MEMORIAL DRIVE.

Boy Scouts Join in Campaign for Fund to Decorate Graves Abroad.

The American Legion, in launching its nation-wide drive today for a $300,000 endowment fund to provide for the decoration of the graves of American soldiers in foreign lands, will be aided in its local campaign by Boy Scouts from every troup in New York. The Scouts will distribute more than 5,000 contribution boxes. Members of the Women's Overseas Service League will be stationed in public places to accept gifts to the fund.

The drive will continue until May 19. Of the $300,000 needed, $100,000 already has been raised by the Department of Europe of the American Legion. Theodore E. Damm, Chairman of the New York Committee of the drive, explained that there were 32,000 graves to be decorated on the other side of the Atlantic.

Reports on the progress of the campaign will be made at a dinner at the Hotel Commodore on May 17, sponsored by ten service organizations that did welfare work during the war. Elihu Root will preside. Checks for the fund should be made payable to Frank E. Guest, Treasurer, 85 East 103d Street, New York City.

BANTON'S ASSISTANT CHASED FROM MIAMI

THREATENED WITH DEATH

Passaic Contractor, Who Accompanied Him as Complainant, Arrested There Himself.

In the fight being made by friends of Willard E. Campbell in Miami, Fla., to prevent his extradition to this city on an indictment charging him with defrauding a wealthy New Jersey contractor in a liquor smuggling scheme, Assistant District Attorney Harold Kunstler and the complainant, Harry Kuller of Passaic, who had gone to Miami to identify Campbell, had to flee to a railroad station thirty-five miles away, when friends of Campbell threatened to kill them. This was only one of a series of incidents connected with their appearance in Miami about two weeks ago, after Campbell had been arrested as a fugitive at the request of the New York police.

It was related in District Attorney Banton's office late yesterday afternoon that soon after the arrival of Kuller with the assistant prosecutor in Miami and when the contractor was about to enter the Dade County Court where Campbell was to be arraigned, Kuller was seized by the three deputy sheriffs on the Court House steps and hustled over to the Dade County jail, where he was told that he was under arrest on a charge of having swindled Campbell out of $120,000 in January. Mr. Kunstler and Detective Sergeant Joseph Daly of this city had preceded Mr. Kuller into the court, about five minutes before and when Campbell was arraigned before the County Judge to be identified by Kuller and the contractor did not appear, the Court announced that he would have to release Campbell, in the absence of a complainant.

Start Hunt for Contractor.

Mr. Kunstler and the detective were unaware that the contractor had been taken into custody by the Deputy Sheriffs, and explained to the Judge that they expected him to appear at any minute, as he had walked from their hotel to the entrance of the court house with them. Detective Daly eventually succeeded in having the court postpone the hearing for a few hours, and then he and Mr. Kunstler went in quest of the contractor.

Before Daly and the assistant prosecutor then jumped into an automobile and made a tour of Miami in quest of the contractor, but it was not until a few minutes before the time set for the resumption of the hearing that a friendly Deputy Sheriff drove up beside them on a side street and whispered to Daly that Kuller was a prisoner in the county jail. After getting the details in the jail they hurried back to the court and informed the Judge, who then ordered Mr. Kuller arraigned before him.

After a hearing lasting less than ten minutes the Judge had Detective Daly sworn in as a Special Deputy Sheriff and paroled the contractor in the detective's custody for a hearing the next day, which resulted in Mr. Kuller's discharge. Campbell then was arraigned and held without bail as a fugitive, when Mr. Kunstler informed the Court that extradition papers which had been signed by Governor Smith were on their way to Florida. It developed at this hearing that Kuller accused Campbell of having obtained $140,000 from him altogether after several conversations at the Hotel Astor here in April.

Met Campbell in Hotel Here.

Kuller said that he was introduced to Campbell by two friends on April 18 when he was standing in the lobby of the hotel. He said that Campbell told him that he was in the way of making $50,000 in a liquor deal if he could get somebody to finance the purchase of 16,000 cases of liquor which Campbell was alleged to have represented, had just left England on the steamship Rosebud for St. Pierre, Martinique.

According to Kuller, Campbell told him that it was his plan to purchase the liquor at a small figure on its arrival at St. Pierre. The next day, Mr. Kuller said, Campbell showed him bills of lading for the liquor and other papers which he declared were Lloyds insurance on the vessel's cargo. The contractor said that he thereupon gave Campbell $55,000 for the purchase of 4,000 cases of the liquor, with the understanding that if Campbell found he could purchase the 16,000 cases he would give him $75,000 more.

A few days later, Kuller said, Campbell met him in the hotel lobby, explained that he had arranged to purchase the whole cargo of liquor and obtained a $75,000 draft at a bank at Nassau, in the Bahamas, from him. It was not until several days later that the contractor went to the New York office of Lloyds and learned that there was no such steamship as the Rosebud under English registry, the present scale had any vessel bearing a name anything like it left any English port in the preceding year with a cargo of liquor for St. Pierre.

Found Draft Had Been Cashed.

The contractor then cabled to the bank in Nassau not to make payment on the draft, but he received word from the bank that the draft had been cashed a few hours before his message was received. He then hurried to District Attorney Banton, who assigned Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Murphy to investigate the matter. It was found that the draft transaction could not be prosecuted as it had taken place in Nassau, but the Grand Jury about a month ago returned an indictment against Campbell charging him with the theft of the $55,000 cash.

A bench warrant was turned over to Detective Sergeant Daly, and soon after Kuller learned that Campbell was at his home in Miami. Campbell then was arrested as a fugitive by the Miami police at the request of Inspector John D. Coughlin and Detective Daly. Assistant District Attorney Kunstler and Kuller went to Miami to arrange for Campbell's return to this city.

When Mr. Kunstler telegraphed to District Attorney Banton of the arrest of the contractor on the charge of robbing Campbell, Mr. Banton ordered Edward J. Kelly, a clerk in the Grand Jury room, to take charge of the extradition papers which had been signed by Governor Smith, and deliver them personally to Governor Hardee at Tallahassee, Fla. It was explained yesterday that the usual procedure in extradition matters is to mail the papers, but it was felt that because of the peculiar circumstances which had developed following Campbell's arrest at Miami, it was advisable to have Mr. Kelly act as Governor Smith's personal representative in the matter.

Warning From Deputy Sheriff.

It was while Mr. Kunstler and Kuller were awaiting the arrival of Kelly at Miami with Governor Hardee's endorsement on the papers that a man who said he was a deputy sheriff called on the Assistant District Attorney and the contractor at their hotel and warned them that they had better leave Miami before nightfall.

"We have it pretty straight that you will be shot tonight," Mr. Kunstler quoted the man as saying. "The Sheriff cannot be responsible for you as he has not enough men to protect you. There is only one thing for you to do. That is, jump into my automobile and I'll get you away from here."

Mr. Kunstler and the contractor hurriedly got their effects together, and the man drove them to a railroad station about thirty-five miles from Miami, where they boarded a train and returned to this city, leaving Detective Daly behind.

Lawyers employed by Campbell then made unsuccessful attempts to have Campbell released on a writ of habeas corpus, but when this was denied they then obtained his release in $10,000 bail pending argument on a writ of error before Supreme Court Justice Ackerson.

Lie Sends Taxi Man to Jail; Truth Meant Only a Fine

Henry Cohen of 105 East 119th Street went to the workhouse for five days yesterday because he chose to tell a lie when the truth would have let him off with a fine.

Arraigned before Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in Morrisania Court on the charge of driving a taxi without a license, he pleaded guilty with an explanation that the man who owned the car had received a telephone message that his wife had just given birth to a baby and had asked Cohen to take the taxi to the garage so that he could go home.

"That's a very good excuse and deserves consideration," said the Court, but a policeman was told to investigate. As the policeman was about to start Cohen stopped him and admitted he had told a lie.

"Five days in the workhouse," said the Magistrate.

UNIONS DEMANDING MORE

Conferences Between Building Crafts and Employers Fail to Produce Agreement.

Abandonment of a $5,000,000 building project in Brooklyn on account of rising costs of labor and materials was announced yesterday just when several building crafts unions were in conference with members of the employers' association pressing their demands for increased wages. The building project scrapped for the present at least was that of a 1,000-room hotel planned by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce. The wage conferences between the unions and the employers, after lasting throughout the afternoon without progress, were adjourned until next week.

The decision of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce to suspend work on one of the largest hotel structures in the city brings close up to $75,000,000 the total of the proposed building undertakings that have been stopped by the continued wage increase demands of many classes of workers. The advisability of postponing work on the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce hotel was considered at a meeting of a special committee in charge of the undertaking. At the conclusion of the meeting, held at the Chamber, Arthur S. Somers, President of the Chamber, and Benjamin H. Nanm, Chairman of the committee, issued the following statement:

"The committee appointed to consider the erection of a hotel in Brooklyn along the lines suggested in various discussions in the Chamber of Commerce has concluded that now is not the time to begin construction of the kind of a hotel we had in mind. Our aim was to plan a 1,000 room hotel to cost approximately $5,000,000 complete. This would be a $5,000,000 proposition, but the indications are that under existing conditions a hotel cannot be built for the sum indicated. The committee has concluded, therefore, to defer taking any forward action at this time, preferring to wait until things become more settled and we can go ahead with confidence that the proper kind of a structure can be erected at a cost that would be fair and reasonable."

The principal wage conference held during the afternoon was between the Building Trades Employers' Association and the New York Executive Committee of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union. The bricklayers were closeted with the builders from until 5 o'clock. The bricklayers insisted on $12 a day and a one year agreement, but the most the employers would concede was $1.25 an hour, or $10 a day, and an agreement until Jan. 1, 1927. While the bricklayers were demanding a $12 day the Machine Stone Workers, Rubbers and Helpers were engaged with another group of the employers to whom they presented demands for increases. The Building Trades Employers' Association, in a letter addressed last night following the conference to the machine stone workers announced that it had recommended to association members the adoption of a wage policy similar to that in the case of the stone cutters. It was proposed that an 11 per cent. day increase, with a bonus of 5 per cent. the present scale be granted until Dec. 31, 1923.

Another class of building workers who went with demands for wage increases to the headquarters of the Building Trades Employers' Association were the United Stone Derrick Men and Riggers' Union. According to their business manager, Owen J. O'Brien, the derrick men, now getting $8 a day, have been offered an 11 per cent. a day increase. They rejected that proposal and asked for $8 a day.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Building projects involving more than $75,000,000, which have been fully financed and for which plans have been approved, are being held up indefinitely because of the high and constantly rising cost of labor, a building material survey made by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry disclosed today.

The deferred Chicago plans would furnish steady employment at high wages and short hours for thousands of artisans for two or more years. Contractors and owners say they will permanently abandon their plans unless they get a better deal from labor and material men.

Disavows Accusing United States of Bad Faith Toward Germany.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, May 11.—At a mass meeting held here last night to organize for German relief work, former Representative Henry Vollmer apologized for his recent speech criticising American action in dealing with European affairs and accompanied the apology with a check for $500 to be applied to the relief fund.

In his apology Mr. Vollmer declared: "I did not intend in my speech to accuse the United States of bad faith in the course of its conduct toward Germany in either the present or the preceding national Administration."

Mr. Vollmer was heeded a vote of thanks for his apology and his contribution.

WORK CALLS COUNCIL ON INDIAN PROBLEMS

Invites 100 Men and Women to Meet to Devise Best Policy.

CITIZEN INDIANS INCLUDED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Secretary Work requested today the co-operation of a large number of prominent Americans in an investigation and study of the problems of the Indians, with the purpose of improving the Government's methods in dealing with the redmen.

The invitation, sent to the foremost advocates and friends of the Indians in this country, suggests that such a non-sectarian and non-partisan body might form a valuable service to the electric the Department of the Interior and perbecome a sort of advisory council to Ines.

Secretary Work's letter reads:

"The so-called 'Indian question' has been a problem of the Government for many years. Probably no other has attracted the continued interest of as many people with different motives as this one.

"The Indians, many having suddenly acquired wealth, with their citizenship rights, allotted lands, agriculture development, schools, religions and diseases, present an appeal more acute than ever before. For many years the Government has been charged intermittently with having no policy for with exploiting the Indian, or with acquiescing in his extinction, or with permitting the dissipation of his wealth.

Seeks the Greatest Good.

"Although the Indian Bureau has recently received encouraging approval from advised sources of its altruistic attitude, the present Secretary of the Interior desires, of course, to plan the best possible policy in its relation to these people and execute it in a manner that will work the greatest good.

"A determination of the Government's commitments to the Indian must either lead to an educated, self-sustaining Indian citizenry or the ultimate dependency of a majority of them.

"No national policy for the Americans can be prescribed except by themselves, but we are responsible for the formation and administration of Indian policy. This must be modified as respects details from time to time to meet changes in conditions, and we can at least approach the problems involved with an open mind, ready to meet new situations and new duties as they arise. Much has already been accomplished, and I attach hereto a resume of departmental data to aid in deductions you may be good enough to develop.

"One hundred prominent men and women of national vision, including publicists, educators, Governors of States, churchmen and citizen Indians, are being urged to join in an appraisal of this American problem, and to this end I very much wish your opinion on this very important question.

"Because of your interest and recognized position among thoughtful people, your sympathetic co-operation in this responsibility will be very much appreciated."

OFFER PARKS FOR FLAG DAY.

Organizations Asked by Gallatin to Celebrate June 14.

"Flag Day, June 14," said Park Commissioner Francis C. Gallatin at his office in the Municipal Building yesterday, "is even more important than the Fourth of July. The latter commemorates an event that is past, but Flag Day teaches reverence for something that is living."

He called attention to the fact that Central Park, Washington Square Park, Hamilton Fish Park, Chelsea Park and Union Square Park are open for patriotic societies that wish to use them to celebrate Flag Day, saying that the Park Department will co-operate in every way possible with patriotic bodies and will even furnish bands of music without charge for these celebrations.

Benjamin Panderville Exonerated.

The indictment against Benjamin Panderville, of 889 Morgan Street, Brooklyn, who was alleged to have shot and killed eleven-year-old Teresa McCarthy on Dec. 26, last, was dismissed yesterday by County Judge Franklin, in Brooklyn. In dismissing the indictment Judge Taylor said: "The evidence disclosed by the Grand Jury minutes is wholly circumstantial and is consistent with the hypothesis of the defendant's innocence. The facts are consistent with the hypothesis that the decedent was accidently killed by a girl or boy playmate who found the defendant's revolver and supposed that it was not loaded."

Three payroll bandits held up the Ostermoor & Co. office at 118 Elizabeth Street late yesterday, lined up twenty girl employes against the wall at the point of revolvers and, after robbing the firm of $1,500, part of the payroll, and $100 in a cash box, went to within two blocks of Police Headquarters, at Grand and Centre Street, where they had parked an automobile, and drove past the building in making their escape.

The factory occupies the upper four floors of the five-story building at 118 Elizabeth Street, and runs through to 132 Bowery. The first floor is occupied by the offices of the firm. Twenty girls and five men are employed in the offices.

Joseph Rizzo, the bookkeeper, of Hollis, L. I., and Louis Grillo, cashier, of 1,405 Walton Avenue, the Bronx, went to the bank and drew $2,500 for the payroll. They turned the money over to the Treasurer, Arnold W. Becker, and Rizzo went back to his desk while Grillo and Becker made up the pay envelopes.

The order was hurriedly obeyed, the robber spurring them to greater haste until all were against the wall with their hands held high.

While this was going on a second robber walked to Rizzo's desk and, covering him with a revolver, swept clean a cash box in which were $100. The third man pulled his revolver at Becker and grabbed the pay envelopes. All three robbers then ran to the street.

Subsequently the police traced their route after the hold-up. The robbers ran through Elizabeth Street to Grand Street and then turned east to Mott Street. At the corner of Mott and Grand Streets stood a touring car, pointed west, with engine running. The spot is just two blocks from Police Headquarters, where shortly afterward the alarm of the hold-up brought detectives hurrying to take up the chase.

The robbers sprang into their automobile, drove west through Grand Street, past Police Headquarters at a pace calculated to prevent suspicion from being attracted to the car and its occupants, and disappeared into Lafayette Street.

How to serve Good Old Scotch Brew

It's the Bonnie Scots who show the way

AS you know, Champagnes, clarets, Rhine and Moselle wines are at their best at certain temperatures. When thus served the grapes from which these wines are made combine with the aroma of the alcohol and send forth those bouquets which are so thoroughly enjoyed by connoisseurs.

So it is with Good Old Scotch Brew

Scotch Brew is at its best at 50-degrees F. Cooled to this temperature, the fragrant hop and malt flavors, combined with the pure alcohol contained in Scotch Brew, bring forth those inviting aromas which remind you so much of the malt and hop beverages of bonnie Scotland.

Therefore, do not chill Old Scotch Brew, but cool it only to about 50-degrees. Do not put the bottles directly on the ice, but place them a few inches away.

Not a "Near-Beer"

Scotch Brew is not a "near-beer," not a prohibition substitute, but a real stimulating brew made from a formula famous in Scotland since 1740. It's pure, safe and within the law. Try it at any restaurant, or get it from your grocery or delicatessen. It is the most popular drink of today.

BARNES RE-ELECTED HEAD OF CHAMBER

Julius H. Barnes was re-elected President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States yesterday at a meeting of the new Board of Directors, held on the steamboat Washington Irving, while the delegates to the eleventh annual convention of the Chamber were on their way up the Hudson to visit the United States Military Academy at West Point.

John Joy Edson of Washington was re-elected Treasurer; Elliot H. Goodwin of Washington was reappointed resident Vice President, and D. A. Skinner of Washington was reappointed Secretary.

Four regional vice presidents were elected in accordance with the new plan of dividing the country into four districts with headquarters in each. They were as follows:

A. C. Bedford of New York, for the Eastern States; Thomas C. Wilson of Chicago for the North Central States; Harry A. Black of Galveston, Texas, for the Sotuhern Central States, and H. M. Robinson of Los Angeles for the Western States.

Five honorary Vice Presidents were elected. They were Charles Nagel of St. Louis, William Butterworth of Moline, Ill.; E. H. Farquahar of York, Pa.; L. S. Gillette of Minneapolis, and Willis H. Booth of New York, President of the International Chamber of Commerce and Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company.

The election of officers was the last official act of the convention, the visit to West Point having been arranged as a diversion by the New York General Reception Committee, of which Mr. Bedford was Chairman, and the Ladies' Entertainment Committee, of which Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan was Chairman. The special committee in charge of the arrangements for the trip were Brigadier General Avery D. Andrews, Brig. Gen. William H. Rose, Lieut. Col. H. F. Castle and John R. Young.

The party, which included many friends of the delegates and members of New York organizations affiliated with the Chamber, numbered about three thousand. A special program of drills and exercises was arranged by Brig. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, superintendent of the academy, under authority granted by the Secretary of War.

The exercises by the cadets included cavalry and artillery drills, exhibitions of horsemanship, calisthenic exercises and demonstrations of various methods of signaling. There was also a review of the 1,300 cadets in athletic costumes, baseball, polo, tennis, track, lacrosse, soccer and all other outdoor sports being represented in the marching column.

TO FIGHT DEPORTATION OF DEAF POLISH GIRL

Congressman Perlman Again Asks Stay for Pauline Fink, 14, Twice Held Defective.

Congressman Nathan D. Perlman announced yesterday that he proposed to fight any attempt to deport 14-year-old Pauline Fink of 101 Mangin Street, a pupil in Public School 47, who was declared mentally normal by experts at Bellevue and Post Graduate Hospitals and by a special Immigration Board sitting in Washington. At a re-examination by a board at Ellis Island on Wednesday, the girl was certified to be mentally defective for the second time. Congressman Perlman was notified of the decision of the board yesterday.

He said he had telegraphed to the Department of Labor requesting that action on the report be held up until he could personally appear before the officials in Washington next week. Meanwhile, he said he would have a further examination of the girl made by medical experts.

Pauline Fink, who is deaf, is one of a large family of Polish children who in November, 1920, arrived at Ellis Island with their mother to join the father, Joseph Fink, already in this country, Congressman Perlman said. He became interested in Pauline's case and obtained permission to have the girl admitted temporarily under bond. She was admitted to Public School 47, a school for deaf mutes, and attracted much attention by her progress.

Miss Euthenia Cosgrove, one of her teachers, when it became time for the girl to go back to Ellis Island, in November, 1921, arranged to have her examined by Dr. Menas S. Gregory, head of the Bellevue psychopathic ward, and others, who decided she was normal. Later the girl was re-examined at Ellis Island and turned down, whereupon Miss Cosgrove, aided by Mr. Perlman, got Pauline examined by a board in Washington which decided in her favor, the decision being upheld by a board of review.

Subsequently an order was issued for another examination at Ellis Island last Wednesday. Mr. Perlman's suggestion that the doctors who examined the girl in Washington sit with the local board was agreed to. Instead of the three Washington doctors, however, Mr. Perlman said, only two went to Ellis Island. Commissioner Todd informed Mr. Perlman yesterday that the vote of the Ellis Island board was 2 to 2, the two Washington doctors voting in the girl's favor.

TRACES PARMELEE BULLET.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—The City Coroner, Dr. Paul, following an autopsy, forwarded today to the Judge of Instruction a finding that James Miller Parmelee, assistant manager of the cashier's department of the Guaranty Trust Company's Paris branch, who was shot dead in the street here Tuesday, was killed by a bullet accidentally discharged from the revolver of Policeman Destouches, who fell in the sidewalk while attempting to arrest an escaped convict.

Dr. Paul found that the bullet, which was from a light pistol, such as Destouches carried, entered the body of Mr. Parmelee at an upward slant.

The Magistrate is withholding an official finding until he receives the opinion of M. Flobert, French firearms expert. The riflings of every make of revolver in France is slightly different, and Flobert's findings may settle the issue beyond doubt.

Famous Movie Dog is Dead.

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—The death at Prince Ski, famous motion picture dog, became known today. The snow white Russian wolfhound was owned by W. S. Hartline of Culver City and was valued at $5,000. His salary was $50 a day and his specialty was strolling through gardens with richly gowned women.

Right now millions of moth eggs are hatching into hungry moth worms. Every egg can develop into a moth worm. And just one worm can destroy the winter clothes, furs and woolens you are packing away now.

A moth egg is too small to be seen. And they are always laid in hidden places. Your clothes may seem free from moths, but you can't tell how many eggs are hidden in them and moth balls (or other repellents) can't prevent the eggs from hatching.

Your sure and easy way is to spray thoroughly with Enoz. Enoz kills moths instantly. It also kills moth worms. And it destroys moth eggs before they hatch into hungry moth worms. Enoz is a fine spray which penetrates deep into garments and destroys every vestige of moth life.

It is the original, guaranteed moth killer. Has been used for 25 years in millions of homes. Its success has caused it to be crudely imitated. Be sure you get ENOZ.

Caruso's Method of Voice Production
(D. APPLETON & CO., PUBS.)
By P. MARIO MARAFIOTI, M. D.
The Only Book on Voice Ever Endorsed by ENRICO CARUSO

Caruso Predicted This Book Would Make a Sensation. It Has!

Dr. Marafioti's work is perhaps the most important contribution to the subject of singing published in recent years. It would hardly be too much to say that it is the most important of all time . . . If students would read it, they would not so easily be deceived and have their voices ruined by unfit teachers—of whom there are hundreds in New York alone.—New York Review.

This book does not merely aim at a radical reform at voice education. It flings defiance in the face of the entire vocal teaching fraternity the world over.—Musical America.

A book which is at once of practical and theoretical importance, one which sweeps away a vast amount of superstition in a realm where both superstition and charlatanry have flourished exceedingly—the while there has been a growing dearth of good singers.—Chicago Evening Post.

Caruso himself states in a letter, a facsimile of which is reproduced opposite the title page of this book, that he agrees with the opinions of the author herein set forth. That is the best recommendation any book on singing could have.—Musical Courier.

Henry T. Finck, of The New York Evening Post, in criticising a new tenor of the Metropolitan Opera House, wrote: "Like most of his confreres, he sings too much from his throat. If he is wise he will spend all his spare time studying Dr. Mario Marafioti's EPOCH-MAKING book on Caruso's Method of Voice Production, wherein is set forth the secret of that tenor's supremacy."

Tydol Economy Gasoline is clean gasoline—and gasoline must be clean or it will misbehave in your motor. Each batch of Tydol, as it is refined, undergoes chemical and physical analyses. Many technical tests are made but none is more important than the "clean" test.

Nothing but clean Tydol leaves the Bayonne refinery. Nothing but clean Tydol is delivered to the black and orange pumps.

That's why clean Tydol insures a clean feed line, a clean carburetor, a clean needle valve. A clean needle valve insures a proper proportion of gasoline and air—the lean economical 15 to 1 mixture. And that means full mileage and full power from every drop of Tydol.

QUOTES HINDENBURG AS PREDICTING WAR

U. S. Army Captain Here on the George Washington Relates Talk With Ex-Marshal.

SEES US FIGHTING JAPAN

Former German Commander Said to Have Credited Americans With Large Share of Victory.

Captain Bernard McMahon of Indianapolis, who returned yesterday on the liner George Washington from the zone of the Army of Occupation at Coblenz, said that Field Marshal von Hindenburg, former head of the German Army, had told several American officers that war in the future could not be avoided, and believed that this country would be engaged in a conflict with Japan within the next few years.

Von Hindenburg was said to have credited America with a large share in the victory of the Allies over the Central Powers. The Americans were capable and fearless, he told the officers, and when peace came returned to their occupations like gentlemen.

Von Hindenburg had expressed his contempt for the French, and had added that airplanes would be one of the chief factors in the next war. The infantry would always be the backbone of the land forces, the German Marshal said.

Captain McMahon was accompanied by his wife and their daughter. They will spend a month in Baltimore while the Captain is on leave and will then go to Pittsburgh, where he is assigned to duty in the Third Army Corps Area. Captain McMahon was one of a party of officers and men of the American Army of Occupation in Germany who returned on the ship. He was in charge of the enlisted men. Among the other officers were Lieut. Col. H. H. Sheen, Lieut. Col. E. A. Stuges, Captain George F. Spann, Captain T. J. McGrath and Captain Frank W. Brown.

Johannes Weyer, a German sailor who was a stowaway on the George Washington, created excitement on Pier 4, Hoboken, where the boat tied up, when he escaped from the ship's brig and attempted to go ashore. Three days after the steamer had left Bremen Weyer was discovered in a bidding and put to work. When the ship neared New York he was locked up.

He had squeezed himself through a porthole high up on the ship's side at the pier yesterday, climbed down the ship's side like a "human fly" until he could reach a rope leading to the pier, and was coming down the rope when people on the pier saw him. Reaching the dock, Weyer raced toward the entrance, dodging among the passengers standing about their baggage. He had almost reached River Street when he was overtaken. He fought hard against capture, but finally was overpowered and taken back onto the ship, where he was again locked up in more secure quarters.

MAY FLOWER SHOW OPENS IN THE BRONX

MANY PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Calceolaria, Carnations, Calas, Orchids and Dahlias Among the Intending Exhibits.

The Horticultural Society of New York opened its May Flower Show in the basement of the Museum Building of the New York Botanical Garden yesterday. It will continue through today and tomorrow from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M., including Sunday, and is free.

One of the beautiful exhibits is a vase of tea rose stalks of Antirrhinum, an unnamed seedling of a wonderful golden yellow with touches of red, which took the first prize for Clarence Mackay of Roslyn, L. I. There were three other vases of the same flower, good to look at though not equaling the first. One of pink took second prize for Mrs. Robert Mallory and third prize, for red, went to G. F. Baker of Tuxedo.

Two groups of Calceolaria, one of the small flowering and the other of the large flowering, took first prizes respectively, for Mrs. P. A. Constable of Mamaroneck and Mrs. E. G. Work of Oyster Bay. There were 12 plants in each group, each plant a mass of wonderful blossoms. Mrs. Constable's exhibit showed chiefly yellow blossoms, so beautiful that nothing could seem to equal it until the flowers of Mrs. Work's exhibit were seen. These were in a greater number of colors, rich reds, deep terra cottas, pinks and some yellows.

A background for the show was formed by an exhibit of flowering trees and shrubs, including dogwood, azaleas, wistaria, lilacs, the barberry and the plum in blossom; the double red almond, the red Japanese quince, members of the huckleberry family with tiny blossom of white and of pink, and many others. There were also ferns and palms.

John Lewis Childs of Flower Field took a first prize for yellow callas with spotted green leaves. George F. Baker took one for orchids, beautiful specimens of the Cattleya. Leon & Hurrell of Summit, N. J., had twenty-four vases of orchids in variety. These included little black orchids, little white orchids and orchids growing in clusters or in single blossoms. They also took a first prize.

An unusual exhibit at this time was a vase of great pink dahlias which took a special prize for Mrs. Robert T. Swan of Glen Cove. The Botanical Garden had an interesting showing of deep yellow or orange lilies, and not in the show, but interesting, was the Medenilla magnifica of the Philippines, a tropical plant with big, drooping pink blossoms.

Tulips, hyacinths and narcissus were features of the main room exhibit. The only vegetables shown were yellow and red tomatoes, the Sunrise orange and Westchester variety, for which a special prize was given to Mrs. L. U. Skidmore of Great Neck. In the hall at the foot of the stairs leading to the exhibit were roses, sweetpeas and a beautiful vase of Lupinus Clarkes, and in the adjoining gallery exhibits of herbaceous plants covering respectively 80 and 25 square feet and containing violets, yellow Alyssium, lillies of the valley, columbine, dicentra and many others.

The Board of Directors of the Horticultural Society will meet at the Museum at 2:15 today; the annual meeting will be held at 3:30, and a lecture on "Rocks" will be delivered by Dr. W. A. Murrill at 4 P. M. in the Lecture Room.

Better Shoes Selling Well.

Although reports from the shoe trade indicate that the cheaper lines of this merchandise for men are not moving any too freely for Fall delivery, makers of the better grades of this footwear report good, though somewhat spotty, business. Nearly all the advance business that comes in is accompanied by calls for merchandise for immediate use. Advance buying throughout the country is fairly well balanced, and some Cuban business is also reported. One of the features is the freedom with which prominent local buyers are said to be operating despite the reported holding-off tactics of buyers of other lines of merchandise here. So good has local advance business been with one of leading manufacturing concerns that the rest of it is expected to fill on the books in the course of the next ten days. As for the things that are selling for Fall, about the only feature just now is the activity of the lighter shade of tan shoes.

Is Showing Novel Earrings.

Among the newest things in unusual jewelry that is now being offered here are earrings that make use of the same kind of colored glass from India that is seen in the popular colored bangled bracelets. Each earring embodies three strands of the glass, about 1¼ inches long, which are set in 14-karat gold mountings and are finished off at the bottom with lovers' knots of gold of similar fineness in either the natural or antique finish. To the bottom of each bow is attached a tiny gold ball of the same finish. The glass in the earrings, which wholesale at $10 a pair, comes in many shades, of which the most popular are green, amethyst, red and yellow.

On Mr. Paull's Appointment.

The National Dry Goods Association, promptly upon receipt of the request of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, has agreed to release Irving S. Paull, whose appointment to head the new Domestic Commerce Division of the Department of Commerce, has just been announced. In a statement issued yesterday Law Thayer, Managing Director of the Association, said: "A request from Secretary Hoover is not likely to be denied by business men or their organizations. The directors and members of this association are much interested in the plan to establish the Division of Commerce, and it is our belief that he is eminently fitted to undertake its direction. We are, therefore, glad to release him so that he may take up his new duties immediately after May 15, although we had intended to send him to a number of cities on the Pacific Coast and other parts of the West."

More Fullness at the Hips.

One of the things that it frequently falls to in letters received from retailers, according to a resident buyer here, is the suggestion that dresses as well as skirts should be made somewhat fuller around the hips. It is pointed out that if this were done it would enable one to buy a size smaller that the retailer has in fitting quite a few customers. One of the reasons this greater fullness is necessary is declared to result from the fact that many women have been going without corsets, which has had the tendency of enlarging the hips. Furthermore, the present athletic activities have had the effect of requiring a greater degree of freedom of movement, for which provision should be made.

Still Pay Hard Coal Premiums.

In the face of declining prices in the rest of the coal market, Seward's Journal will say today, the independent anthracite operators are obtaining higher premiums on their domestic tonnage than at any time late in the Winter. Quotations on this coal have advanced fully 50 cents a ton in the last two weeks and if the comparison is carried back to April 1 the increase amounts to $1. This situation is accounted for by the greater number of retailers who are now looking to the independents for a part of their requirements. The comment heard in bituminous circles can hardly be taken to indicate that the tide has turned, nor do the production figures show any particular change in the rate of mining operations.

Gray Goods Prices Weaker.

Gray goods prices in this market eased off again yesterday in sympathy with the further drop in cotton. In the print cloths near-by deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s were sold as low as 9¾ cents. For May-June shipments of 38-inch 68-72s buyers paid 11¼ cents, and it was said that they could have gone much further ahead at that figure had they desired to. The tendency on the part of buyers, however, appears to be to limit their purchases to goods wanted for delivery this side of July. In the sheetings some prompt delivery business was done in 40-inch 2-yard goods at 8¼ cents by second hands, while first hands asking from 8¾ to 8¾ cents for the same construction. Asking prices for sheetings were based on the following: 8 cents for 36-inch 8.50s, 10½ cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yards, and 18¼ cents for 40-inch 2.85s.

Fall Silk Lines Opened.

Velvets, lustrous silks, moires and brocades are featured in the Fall lines of imported and domestic silks opened yesterday by the Haas Brothers Fabrics Corporation. The demand for the velvets, which include chiffon, crest pile and Salome grades and printed varieties, has been such as to make production already sold up. Printed effects run all through the line, the expectation being that in the higher class fabrics this trend will continue strongly. In the more staple dress silks, kitten's ear crepe, moleskin crepe, moleskin superior and a high lustre weave called gypsolante are featured. Prominence is also given the silks known as kitten's ear brocade crepe, in geometrical and jacquard stripe effects, and jacquard manchu in new designs. For combination effects and high-grade fur linings paulette faille jacquard in two-tone effects is stressed. A series of semi-lustrous weaves, including kitten's ear faille, crepes, Renee, Isolde, Siam and Karma, occupy a prominent portion of the lines, as well as new designs in that known as jacquard cubist. For evening wear there is a large showing of metal brocades, both plain and printed and in gold and silver.

Burlap Shipments Decline.

A marked drop in shipments of burlaps from Calcutta to North American ports during April, compared with the March total, was reported by cables received in this market yesterday. Last month's total was only 68,000,000 yards, of which 11,000,000 went to the Pacific Coast, against 114,000,000 in March. This brought the grand total for the first four months of this year to 327,000,000 yards, against receipts of 336,000,000 yards in the same period last year. It is expected here that the small these shipments will help to strengthen the local market, which has been inactive and weak for some time. Calcutta is firmer according to yesterday's cables, an advance of 3 to 5 pence per 100 yards there on Thursday after-noon being supplemented by a rise of 2 to 3 pence yesterday.

Reviving Interest in Vellings.

Efforts continue to be made by wholesalers here to revive interest in vellings. This has been a long time in coming but, it is pointed out, there is a definite basis on which to hope that the vogue is on the increase and should gain more headway for the Fall. Much of the optimism concerns itself with the new nine-inch nose veiling which Paris is declared to have sponsored, and which wholesalers here are now featuring. This is described as a novelty of a very original type and is looked upon to reawaken the consumer demand. At present it is being made in the new shades to match the colored shoes in red, blue and green, besides the staple black, gray, navy and light brown. It is sold by the yard, and will retail at about 50 cents.

DRY GOODS ROAD SALES SAG

CHICAGO, Ill., May 11.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was greater than that of the corresponding period of a year ago, although road sales for the week were slightly less than a week ago and were not as great as during the same period of 1922.

"There were not as many customers in the market as compared with last year for the same week.

"The continuance of unseasonable weather has somewhat retarded retail distribution, but the booking of orders for Fall delivery continues in excellent volume.

"Collections were about equal to the corresponding period of a year ago."

LONDON WOOL SALE CLOSES

Prices Above Last Auction's, but Below the Best.

LONDON, May 11.—At the wool auctions which came to a conclusion today, 14,500 bales were offered. The tone was quieter and prices generally were 5 per cent. under the best of the series.

Compared with the close of the previous sales, fine and medium merinos were 10 per cent. higher and a few inferiors were up 15 per cent. Crossbreds, fine and medium, were 5 to 10 pcs. cent. dearer; coarser grades moved up 7½ to 10 per cent. and Capes advanced 7½ to 15 per cent., while Puntas and Falklands were 10 to 15 per cent. higher.

During the recent series the home trade bought 90,000 bales; the Continent 51,000 and America 7,000. The number of bales held over for the next auction was 17,000.

To Show Three-Piece Suit.

While the general trend is said to be toward the two-piece suit for Fall, it is understood that some of the manufacturers of higher grade garments will again feature the three-piece one. An executive of one of these houses said yesterday that he would give this style a prominent place in his showings for the coming season and that he thought it would go well. He said the reports in the market that the three-piece suit had not been well received during the Spring related to the lower-priced garments, and that the sales of them in the better lines was quite satisfactory. The pile fabrics will be utilized, and the discriminating woman, he asserted, will be well satisfied with the combination.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

More Than Three Declines to Each Rise in Wholesale List.

So marked was the downward trend of commodities prices this week that Dun's list of minimum wholesale quotations shows more than three declines for every advance. The actual division of the 63 changes indicated shows 48 declines and 15 increases. Last week, in 83 changes, there were 55 declines, while of the 100 changes shown for the corresponding week a year ago 76 were upward. Save in the foodstuffs, advances in the current list were almost entirely lacking.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Nearly half of this week's advances were confined to the foodstuffs, but even at that there was some excess of declines in them. In the local market for provisions, Spring patent and Winter soft straight flours were lower. Middle Western lard was cheaper here, and bacon also was lower. Hams did not change. At Chicago the only advance was shown in live beef, with mess pork unchanged. Live hogs, live sheep and short ribs all declined.

Changes in the dairy list were few in number this week and limited in size. The best listed grades of butter moved up three-quarters and half a cent a pound respectively, while nearby fancy eggs dropped two cents a dozen. Fresh-gathered "firsts" fell off a cent a dozen. The declines in the eggs put them slightly below the corresponding levels of a year ago, but butter and cheese continue higher than they were at that time.

The listed fresh and dried fruits were bare of changes either way, and the only revision of importance indicated in the vegetables was a drop of 25 cents a barrel in potatoes. Teas continued their unbroken steadiness, but both No. 1 Rio and No. 4 Santos coffees were higher. The spices were bare of changes, but both fine granulated and the raw cane sugar were higher.

Most of the revisions in the grains were downward this week, advances in wheat and hay contrasting with declines in corn, oats, rye, malting barley and straw. Leather continued to show no change, and in the listed hides the only changes were declines in Colorados and No. 1 extremes. Tallow also was weaker.

Of the fourteen changes in the combined list of drugs, chemicals, drug sundries and oils, ten were downward. About the only feature was the large proportion of the declines seen in the oils. The naval stores showed reduced prices for resin and turpentine, while English vermillion paint also was lower.

For the second time in the last few weeks all of the changes in the metals list were declines. No. 28 black sheets were lower at Pittsburgh, and both furnace and foundry coke dropped also. Other declines were seen in copper, spelter, lead and tin.

S. S. & C. book stock, straw boards and wood pulp supplied the week's declines in the paper list, with advances lacking. Both the best Brazilian and Eastern crude rubbers fell off in price, and the basic grade of Japanese raw silk dropped 15 cents a pound.

The week in the cotton goods end of the textile trades was marked by a further recession of prices through print cloths in unfinished print cloths and sheetings. Neither silks nor woolens showed anything of particular importance, and the only thing worthy of mention in connection with burlaps, which dropped still further, was the fact that prices here and at Calcutta are now closer together than has been the case for a long time.

BUSINESS RECORDS

BRADSTREET'S reports 242 failures for the week in the United States, as compared with 277 for the previous week and 274, 211, 218 for the corresponding weeks in 1922 to 1919. The New England States had 38; Middle, 78; Western, 80; Northwestern, 40; Southern, 14; Far Western, 32. Canada had 35, the same number as the preceding week. In the United States, about 72.5 per cent. of the concerns failing had $5,000 capital or less and 21 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The course of yesterday's stock market indicated that the recovery from Monday's overdone decline in prices had largely spent itself. There were some further isolated advances on the Stock Exchange, but the general trend of prices was distinctly downward, losses of 1 to 3 points in the more speculative industrial shares being rather numerous. As has happened on many previous occasions, the railway shares had no part in the general movement; for the most part they held firm.

This action of the stock market again seemed to have no other cause than the visible decrease in business activity and the tendency to reaction in prices of commodities. The cotton market was again a somewhat striking illustration of these tendencies. Yesterday's price for spot delivery declined about one-third of a cent to 35.30 cents a pound, which is the lowest price since Dec. 12 and which represents a shrinkage of 6 cents, or more than 10 per cent., from the year's high figure of March.

The downward turn in that market began at almost exactly the moment when all other markets were feeling their first misgiving over their previous inflation. In cotton, however, there was something more. Up to the change in the market during March, the idea had gained wide vogue that spinners' peremptory demand for American cotton would actually exceed the existing supply. But such things do not happen. Either demand relaxes suddenly, or else it is discovered that an abnormally high price brings into the market holdings whose existence had not been expected. The present case is not that of 1920, when only the trade's infatuation made possible the ignoring of a huge surplus carried over from the preceding crop. There will be no surplus of such dimensions in 1923, but it is safe to predict that the spinning trade's absolute needs will be provided for.

Most of the foreign exchanges were strong yesterday, sterling regaining at one time nearly 1¾ cents. The German mark, however, declined again; reaching at 24⅝ ten-thousandths of a cent a price touched only four times heretofore, and not far from the minimum of 20 reached in January. If, as was lately supposed, the Reichsbank has been trying to "stabilize" the mark around 35, it has apparently lost control again. These markets did not seem to move in response to anything in the news. The report on England's foreign trade in April was interesting, however; the month's £11,120,000 "import excess" compared with £10,888,636 in April, 1914, before the war. The French Bank reported 61,521,000 francs increase in the paper currency for the week, but further repayment of 200,000,000 francs by the Treasury to the Bank foreshadows reduction in the currency next week.

In the weekly mercantile trade reviews abundant confirmation will be found of the general slowing-down of trade activity. In some industries, it is reported that "additional orders are of comparatively small volume"; in most of them, "increased ability to make early deliveries and the practical disappearance of premium prices" are noted. Supplies of goods are increasing "with maintenance of heavy production and slackening of demand." There are "isolated instances," noteworthy only because long unfamiliar, of "requests for the withholding of shipments" and, in the textile trade, "even of the cancellation of contracts."

It is easy to exaggerate these symptomatic signs of the times. One must always remember the kind of impetuous activity, a few weeks ago, with which the comparison is made. But the picture as presented conforms entirely with the recent action of the markets and shows, what the more careful observers had foreseen, that the rapid pace of industrial production in the earlier months of the year was largely anticipative: in other words, that production in many industries has caught up with immediately visible consumption. That the markets should have halted under such circumstances, instead of going ahead in haphazard "discounting" of later conditions which cannot yet be positively foreseen, is in line with the prudent spirit which evidently prevails. If fresh expansion of legitimate requirements comes in sight later in the year, the markets will be none the worse for this judicious pause.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, MAY 11, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money ruled again without variation at 4½ per cent., market was quiet, with small turnover reported. Time money market remained stagnant at prevailing quotations, borrowers having little present need for accommodation to come in, while lenders' offerings were down to nominal amount. There were no changes in the discounts applying to commercial paper of eligible acceptances.

MORRISES QUIT BANKING.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Stock interests of Edward and Nelson Morris in seven outlying banks are being liquidated to permit the retired packers to step out of the banking business as well. The interests are being liquidated by M. A. Traylor, President of the First Trust & Savings Bank; Eugene M. Stevens, Vice President of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank and Robert C. Schaffner of A. G. Becker & Co.

Following the procedure, all of the banks not now members of the Chicago Clearing House Association will apply for membership. An audit of the banks shows them to be in excellent shape. They are: The Mid City Trust & Savings Bank, Stock Yards Savings Bank, Peoples' Stock Yards State Bank, West Side Trust & Savings Bank, Liberty Trust & Savings Bank, Garfield Park State Savings Bank; and the Fidelity Trust & Savings Bank. The first two are now members of the Clearing House Association.

NEW TOBACCO STOCK PLAN.

Porto Rican-American Co. Seeks to Meet Holders' Objections.

New recapitalization plans of the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company, drawn up in deference to the stockholders who opposed the former plans, will be submitted to the stockholders at a meeting in Jersey City on May 21. The stockholders had insisted on the right to take common stock of no par value in proportion to their holdings of the present stock.

The new plans call for the conversion of the present 100,000 shares of capital stock of $100 par value into 100,000 shares of Class A, with dividends cumulative at the rate of 7 per cent. and the creation of an issue of 100,000 B shares of no par value. After payment of $7 on the A shares and of any accumulations that may have accrued thereon, the B shares will be entitled to $7 a share. The A and the B stock will then share equally in any further dividends. Directors will ask for authority to issue the B shares as a stock dividend, offer them to Class A holders at $25 a share for each share of the present stock held, or dispose of them at their discretion.

Decline in Stocks Resumed.

The stock market during the early trading yesterday was irregular, but in the afternoon extreme weakness again developed in the steel group, which brought about heavy selling in other stocks. During the forenoon there were alternate declines and rallies, giving the market an erratic appearance. Some stocks moved forward under pool leadership, but these advances were offset by losses in other sections. After midday the trend was distinctly downward, with Steel common the target for what appeared to be another concerted attack upon the part of the professional operators who attempted to bring about another reaction. The movement of prices indicates that these operations were successful; many stocks dropped to new low prices for the year, including Steel common, which on heavy offerings broke to 88⅝, the lowest at which the stock has sold since last July, when 98⅛ was touched. At its closing of 89 yesterday, Steel had lost 2 points for the day. The easy manner in which Steel sold off caused similar losses in the independent stocks and other issues. The equipment shares were heavy, as were the sugar, motor and oil groups. Even those stocks which displayed strength on the recovery, such as California Petroleum, American Can and Pittsburgh & West Virginia, sold off yesterday.

Final-Hour Selling.

It is becoming a matter of considerable comment in the financial district that most of the damage which has been done to recent markets has been accomplished by sharp attacks on stocks in the last hour. If apparently has been discovered by the professionals that the present market is more vulnerable at that hour of the day than at any other time, and, as a fact, the heaviest selling occurred in the last fifteen or twenty minutes yesterday. It was evident that the attack was centred on a few stocks, chiefly the steels and the fertilizers, but it did not take long for the movement to spread to practically all issues. The final ten minutes of trading was at a fast and furious pace. As a speculative manoeuvre, this program is not new; it was constantly practiced in 1920 and 1921, and is apparently based on the theory that sales at that eleventh hour render it difficult to bring organized support to the market.

At the close of yesterday's market the somewhat unusual picture was presented by the "averages" of a net decline in the industrials and a net gain in the railroad stocks. As against the average loss of 1.04 points in the industrials, the railway averaged a gain of about ½ point. Looking down the list of net changes, it was shown that while a big majority of the industrial stocks registered losses, there was pretty uniform advance in the railroad list, gains in practically every case having been restricted to around ½ point. Wall Street was disposed to ascribe this to the fact that practically all news bearing directly upon the rails has lately been of a cheerful nature, as against the uncertain character of recent industrial advices. But the railway shares also have the present advantage of the absence of an accumulated speculative following.

Victory Note Conversion.

Bankers who have been predicting a very large exchange of Victory 4¾ per cent. notes for the new Treasury 4¼ per cent. notes of 1927, see in the continued sale of the Victory notes above par a confirmation of their prediction. Before the Government announced the new financing with the provision for the exchange of Victory notes, these notes were selling at par. Since then, they have advanced first one-thirty-second and yesterday two-thirty-seconds above par. The only reason, it is believed, that more than par would be paid for notes, that mature in less than ten days, is to get the privilege of exchanging them. Investors who are eager to get their funds in the new Government offering are presumably paying the small added premium to make certain of getting their full subscription to the new Treasury notes.

Austrian Bonds.

In the past few days the interest of banking circles concerning the proposed Austrian bonds has increased considerably, in the first place because some bankers believe the issue will be announced within a few weeks, and in the second because the loan is just a little different than anything attempted in the New York market recently. Some bankers predict that the Austrian issue will carry 8 per cent. interest and will be sold at a small discount. As they are guaranteed by other countries in Europe, the security is considered at least fair, but even with this and the rate of interest, it is pointed out that the loan will be floated largely as a "sentimental" operation and that it is likely that most of the large houses in the banking district may be invited to join in the offering.

Railway Earnings Highest Since 1916.

The atmosphere of pessimism which has prevailed in regard to railroad conditions ever since their return to private owners has served to obscure their present improvement in point of earnings, according to the view expressed yesterday by a railroad statistician, who produced figures compiled by the Bureau of Railway Economics, which showed conclusively that the Class 1 roads are earning more money today than they have since 1916. In many quarters the idea has prevailed that the roads are not even within striking distance of pre-war earnings, but their performance in the first quarter of 1923 tends to belie this impression. In the quarter just ended the railroads earned a net operating income of $183,124,800, as against $160,666,500 in the same period of 1922, $27,171,630 in 1921, $37,560,809 in 1920, and, going back to the last year of their operation under private control, $178,430,470 in the same quarter of 1917. In 1917 the figure for the full year was $974,778,937. If the same proportion of gain registered in the first quarter of this year is maintained, the roads should earn the $1,000,000,000 set as their goal, in which case the return on tentative valuation would be for the first time since the Transportation act equal to the 5½ per cent. allowed as a reasonable return by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Reading Bonds Again Advance.

The 4 per cent. bonds of the Reading Company again attracted attention yesterday by reason of another rise to the high point of the season, quotations being as high as 88. For several months the price of this security had hovered around 84; at the start of the week it became quite active, moving up to 85, and in Thursday's trading made a sharper advance to 86½, the high price of the year, which was bettered in yesterday's performance. The closing price was 87½, up 1 full point net. Trading was in heavy volume and was occasioned, according to Wall Street reasoning, by the favorable reception accorded the new modified plan for the segregation of the Reading properties, which contains features of particular value to bondholders.

$31,128,000 BONDS OFFERED THIS WEEK

$9,268,000 IN MUNICIPALS

Public Utilities Aggregate $9,000,000—Farm Loans $6,000,000—No New Industrials.

While the Government offering of 4¾ per cent. Treasury notes was holding the centre of attention in the bond market this week the offerings of new issues declined. The total for the week was $31,128,000. Buying of old securities continued heavy during the week, explained by the fact that many traders were disposing of their bonds to cover stock transactions. At the same time the prices attracted buyers of first-class securities looking for good yields. A comparison of the new offerings this week with those of last in groups follows:

Group.	This week.	Last week.
Municipal	$9,268,000	$7,641,000
Public utility	9,000,000	20,900,000
Railroads	7,860,000	33,457,000
Farm loan	6,000,000	4,000,000
Industrials	None	16,500,000
Total	$31,128,000	$82,478,000

Much of the decrease in the total this week was attributed to the knowledge that the Government would be in the market with a large issue. The largest single issue of the week was that of the Erie Railroad Company, $7,860,000 6 per cent. bonds, offered by Drexel & Co. Next in order of size were the offerings of $5,000,000 Kansas City Joint Land Bank 5 per cent. farm loan bonds made by a syndicate headed by Blair & Co., and $4,000,000 Washington Gas and Electric Company mortgage bonds, offered by Harris, Forbes & Co. and the National City Company.

Liberty bonds were depressed the first part of this week by the announcement of the Government financing at the rate of 4¾ per cent., considerable above the average yield on Liberties at the current market prices. The dealing in these bonds was heavy, averaging more than $7,000,000 a day for the first four days of the week in the New York Stock Exchange alone. The dealings over the counter were said to be very large. The steady demand for the bonds even after the Government announcement, together with the decline sterling suffered, led to the belief that the English Government was in the market gathering bonds to be used on the June 1 interest payment of approximately $50,000,000 to the United States Government.

The large number of equipment trust certificate offerings of the last few weeks has glutted the market with these securities, but the brokers believe that they will move quickly as the rates are favorable.

Following the Erie Railroad Company offering this week, it is announced that the New York Central lines will be in the market within the next few months for approximately $17,000,000 for new equipment.

Wabash Wants to Buy Section of "Katy."

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The Wabash Railroad asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to take over a sixty-nine-mile section of the line of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, running from Moberly to Hannibal, Missouri, under a ninety-nine-year lease with an option to purchase. The Wabash proposes to pay $120,000 year rental and the two railroads have agreed to a cash valuation of $2,400,000 in case of purchase. The Wabash will be able, by the acquisition, to route traffic around St. Louis and avoid congestion. It has previously operated over the road under a trackage right agreement.

Great Northern Increases Wages.

The Great Northern Railway Company yesterday announced that it had granted a wage increase ranging from $5.84 to $10 a month to 10,000 maintenance of way men, effective May 15. The total increase will add $750,000 to the Great Northern's annual payroll. Under the schedule of increases, common labor will receive 2 to 3 cents an hour more; and carpenters, foremen and more skilled employes will receive 4 to 5 cents an hour more. The Great Northern, according to a dispatch from St. Paul, is the first of the roads to make an adjustment with its maintenance of way men since the case was ordered reopened last Jan. 15.

STANDARD OIL OF N. Y. TO INCREASE STOCK

Change From $225,000,000 to $300,000,000 Is Approved by Board of Directors.

IN MAGNOLIA "PETE" DEAL

Outstanding Minority Holdings Soon to Be Taken Over—$103,909,469 Surplus Reported.

The outstanding minority stock holdings of the Magnolia Petroleum Company are expected to be taken over by the Standard Oil Company of New York in the near future, according to reports in supposedly well-informed quarters yesterday. The exchange, it is understood, will be on the basis of four shares of Standard of New York stock for each share of Magnolia Petroleum of $100 par value outstanding.

Directors have approved an increase in the stock of the New York company from $225,000,000 to $300,000,000, and, while it was said that approximately $10,000,000 of the $75,000,000 increase will be used for the sale of stock to employes, the company's announcement said that the remaining stock will be held in the treasury for corporate purposes to meet such needs of the company as may arise. Directors also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share on the 9,000,000 shares of capital stock of $25 par value outstanding, payable June 15, to stock of record May 21, and issued the annual report for 1922, which showed $2.16 a share earned on the capital stock.

The Standard Oil Company of New York now owns 68 per cent. of the $150,000,000 capital stock of the Magnolia Petroleum Company. This stock had always been carried at cost in the company's balance sheet, but on Dec. 31 1922, it was marked up to par, so that it is now carried in the statement at a value of $123,882,700. This is equal to 1,238,827 shares of the 1,800,000 shares of Magnolia stock now outstanding.

To take this stock over on the basis of four shares of New York Standard for one share of Magnolia, the New York company will have to issue an additional 2,244,692 shares having a par value of $56,117,300 which, with the $10,000,000 to be used for the sale of stock to employes, will account for the greater part of the $75,000,000 capital increase approved by the Directors. The increase in capital is subject to the approval of stockholders and a special meeting has been called for May 31 to vote on this matter.

The plan under which employes will be permitted to subscribe for stock is: for each dollar subscribed by the employe the company will add 50 cents, and stock will be sold up to the extent of 20 per cent. of the annual salaries. The price of the stock will be fixed periodically by the Directors, and the plan will be in force five years from July 1, 1923. Approval of this plan also is subject to action by the stockholders.

The detailed income account for 1922 and 1921 as compiled from the profit and loss account follows:

Profit and loss surplus	$103,909,469	$167,295,390

*Deficit. †Debit adjustment.

The account of appreciation of capital given as $79,179,845 is due mainly to the writing up of the stock of the Magnolia Company, which in previous years had been carried at cost.

The general balance sheet shows total assets of $418,746,809, a new high record in the history of the company, and compares with $335,242,314 at the close of 1921. Net current assets were given as $161,757,650, against net current liabilities of $27,567,454.

Huntington, President, made public here today. This is an increase of $4,000,000 over 1921. PROGRESS REPORTED ON AUSTRIAN LOAN

Whole World Will Be Asked to Contribute—Guarantees by Many Nations.

It is believed by some international bankers that the negotiations for the participation of the United States in the Austrian loan are nearing completion, and that a large number of banks will be invited to join a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co.

Announcement was made several weeks ago that American bankers had been interested in the proposal of the League of Nations' Financial Committee to float a loan for approximately $130,000,000 throughout the world.

Since then the negotiations have been continued, and while it has been stated that no other information will be made public until some definite amount has been agreed upon, it is understood that considerable progress has been made.

According to reports in financial circles, Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who is in Europe on a combined pleasure and business trip, conferred with European bankers and Government officials on Thursday in Paris on the subject of the Austrian loan.

It is believed that the new offering will probably be made at 6 per cent. and will sell at a small discount. The security will include guarantees of Great Britain, France, Italy and Czechoslovakia to the amount of about 34 per cent. of the loan. The balance will be made up of the following guarantees: Spanish Government, 4 per cent.; Swiss, 3 per cent.; Belgian, 2 per cent.; Swedish, 3 per cent.; Dutch and Norwegian, each 1 per cent., leaving 3 per cent. still unaccounted for.

How much of the total loan of $130,000,000 will be offered in this country is a question at which bankers hesitate even to guess. One international banker estimated that with proper support it would be an easy matter to float $15,000,000 here, but that the United States would be called on to float as much as possible, so there was no telling just what amount would be offered until the men in charge had investigated conditions.

Declares 2% Extra Dividend.

The American Power and Light Company has declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent. payable in common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly cash dividend of 2½ per cent., according to an announcement made yesterday. Both dividends are payable June 1 to stockholders of record May 19. The American Power and Light Company was organized by the Electric Bond and Share Company, and is the second of the group to pay stock dividends, the American Gas and Electric Company having been the first. The American Power and Light Company was organized in 1909. The financial and operating policies of this company are identical with those of the American Gas and Electric Company.

General Motors Dividend June 12.

The quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share declared by Directors of the General Motors Corporation on the common stock on Thursday is payable June 12 to stockholders of record May 21. The dividends on the debenture and preferred stocks are payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 9.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power Company reports for the same comparative period net earnings of $1,461,331, against $1,295,830.

PIGGLY WIGGLY GETS BID FROM ATLANTA

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 11 (Associated Press.)—Piggly Wiggly, hunting a home, today found Atlanta's latchstring out, while Clarence Saunders, head of the corporation, cast about with his associates and Memphis financial interests for common ground on which an understanding might be reached to "save Piggly Wiggly for Memphis."

Tonight the matter still was "open" with "invitations" in abeyance "awaiting developments," it was announced.

Mr. Saunders and representatives of pool interests he headed in Piggly Wiggly stock exchange battles conferred twice today, while Financial interests considered how to close the breach brought about by a filure of a three-day drive to place 50,000 shares of stock.

Atlanta, through its Chamber of Commerce, notified Mr. Saunders that the Georgia city would welcome Piggly Wiggly if a move from Memphis was "actually contemplated."

"I am ready to talke business," Mr. Saunders replied.

"I Feelers" also were reported to have been received from Nashville, Buffalo, Chicago and New Orleans.

TO SUBPOENA CORRIGAN.

Fallon Wants to Question Him at McAllister Hearing.

Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan will be subpoenaed as a witness at the hearing of the perjury charges against Detective Robert McAllister growing out of a liquor raid at the home of Charles F. Zittel, according to William J. Fallon, the detective's counsel, who made the announcement yesterday before Judge Crain in General Sessions. Mr. Fallon said that he wished to question Magistrate Corrigan about the testimony before him of James Harris, superintendent of the apartment house in which Zittel lived.

Mr. Fallon offered in evidence a portion of Harris's testimony before Magistrate Corrigan. In reply to a question as to how he could see Zittel's storeroom from his office Harris, according to the record, said: "There was a little hole there I could see through." In the present proceedings Harris said he did not recall making such a reply.

Mr. Fallon said that he wished to call Magistrate Corrigan to testify as to his recollection about that particular point.

Patrolman Frank J. Marrino was called as a witness at yesterday's hearing. He was one of the detectives who accompanied McAllister to Zittel's house. He said that when he entered the place he went in a direction opposite to that taken by McAllister and heard the opening of several storerooms in an effort to find the liquor. He said that he heard no sound which would indicate that McAllister or any one had broken in a door, although he was within twenty-five feet when he heard McAllister call to the door was open.

Mr. Fallon asked Judge Crain if he would visit the scene of the raid, but the Judge said that he did not think he should. The hearing was adjourned to Monday afternoon.

Simmons Bed Sales Gain.

Net sales in 1923 almost doubled those in 1922 and were $11,995,449 for the four months just ended, compared with $6,376,940 in the same period last year.

Philipsborn Sales Increase.

Philipsborn, Inc., of Chicago, for the first two weeks of May reports gross sales of approximately $1,400,000, a substantial increase, over last year, according to a statement issued by the company yesterday. Sales during April were affected somewhat by the cool weather, but figures for the first quarter of the year also were well ahead of the 1922 record for the same period.

BUSINESS SLACKENS, AGENCIES REPORT

RETAIL TRADE FALLS OFF

Wholesale Trade Quieting and Collections Have Ebbed Slightly, Bradstreet's Asserts.

General business is moving at a slower pace than in the earlier part of the year, according to reports received by Dun's Review. "Further evidence of abatement of demand has appeared in some of the principal industries, as in iron and steel and in textiles," says the Review, "and price declines have predominated. Depression in certain markets has been mainly due to speculative commitments, but this element does not account for the continued excess of recessions in wholesale commodity quotations.

"A change from feverish activity in buying to a condition where additional orders are of comparatively small volume has come in some quarters, and various prices have stopped rising. Some other phases, such as the increased ability of manufacturers to make early deliveries and the practical disappearance of premium prices, also reflect a lessening of the tension that developed during earlier months this year.

"With the maintenance of heavy production and a slackening of demand, available supplies of goods are being augmented, and isolated instances are noted of requests for the withholding of shipments and even of the cancellation of contracts. The suspension of some contemplated construction work, moreover, marks another turn in the situation, the high costs of both labor and materials having a restrictive effect on building operations in different sections.

"In the retail field, also, restraint on activity has been witnessed, a recurrence of cold weather this week checking distribution of seasonable merchandise. Yet the country's business, if plainly undergoing a slowing down process, remains of very large volume in the aggregate, with some of the best previous records still being surpassed."

"Practically country-wide cold weather, with snows or freezing temperatures in many northern areas, has retarded retail buying and crop germination. In country districts the preoccupation of the farmer in seeding to make up for earlier lost time tends to restrict personal buying and also marketing of left-over crops, but mail-order trade is still active. Wholesale trade shows a further quieting and collections have also ebbed slightly.

"In industry, while the pace is still fast, there are evidences in the reports of postponement of new work announced as well as in the decline of building expenditures in April from the peak totals of March, that costs of labor or material have been pushed too high.

"In the textile trades, the earlier quieting in buying of print cloths and gray goods brought about by the decline in value of raw cotton did not result in the announcements of curtailment of production by some eastern mills.

"Iron and steel buying has further eased off, oil country supplies being notably in lessened call, and pig iron is quieter than for a long time past, with no reductions yet announced, although the ease in the scrap market is more marked."

M-K-T R. R. Syndicate Ends Work.

Speyer & Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co., Hallgarten & Co. and the Equitable Trust Company of New York, as managers, have closed the reorganization syndicate, which was formed for underwriting the assessment on the stock of the old Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railway Company and distributed the profit. It is understood that the holders of less than 4% per cent. of the stock of that company failed to exercise the right of subscription for new securities under the reorganization plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—At today's meeting of the Cabinet President Harding urged the heads of the Government departments to make every effort to hold down expenditures for the balance of the fiscal year which will end on June 30. His appeal was due to a tendency of some subordinate officers of the Government to endeavor to spend all the money appropriated for their offices without regard to whether or not its expenditure is necessary or judicious.

Today's discussion of the subject was the outcome of a practice instituted by President Harding two years ago to take account of Government expenditures and balances of appropriations at the beginning of May with a view to ascertaining what the approximate condition of the Treasury would be at the end of the fiscal year. In the course of the exchange of views and information today an interesting case was brought to light. This involved the chief of one of the Government bureaus who had shown a disposition to find means of expending all the money appropriated for the use of his bureau.

Toward the end of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, this official had a balance of $40,000 remaining to the credit of his bureau which, if not expended, would be turned back into the Treasury on that date. There was evidence that he was anxious to have no part of the appropriation remaining when the new fiscal year began and it was apparent, from what was said at the White House today, that he was seeking extraordinary means of spending his balance.

When this state of affairs was reported to President Harding at the time he wrote an informal letter to the official, suggesting that it was the duty of a Government officer to save instead of spend money, and requesting that he follow that course. The President's letter was written in kindly vein, it was said, and the official apparently took it in good part. At any rate, he began a systematic effort to economize, and it was with satisfaction that the President heard at today's Cabinet meeting that he had succeeded in saving about $240,000 from the appropriation for his bureau for the current fiscal year.

A rather glowing report of the condition of the Government finances was made at today's Cabinet meeting. Revenues were increasing, it was explained, and expenditures were being curtailed, so that there was a prospect of an excess of receipts over expenditures. If this happy condition continued, a White House spokesman said, consideration would be given to a reduction of taxation. How to reduce taxes is a problem which the President and his advisers have not been able to determine, on account of many diverse views, but it was declared that if there were no slump from the present tendency to collect more revenues than the Government needed to meet its current and other obligations, the question of a reduction in taxation would be taken up by the President with a view to having Congress translate tax cuts into legislation.

GIMBELS INCREASE STOCK.

Shareholders Approve Plan to Take Over Saks & Co. Property.

Stockholders of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., at a special meeting held yesterday approved an increase in the capital stock of the organization which will make possible the taking over of the assets and property of Saks & Co. under the terms announced a short time ago. At the same time Horace A. Saks, W. A. Saks and Philip A. Conne were elected to the Board of Directors.

The stockholders approved the proposal of the Board of Directors to increase the authorized capital stock from 850,000 shares, consisting of 150,000 shares of preferred stock of $100 a share par value and 500,000 shares of common stock of no par value, to 730,000 shares, consisting of 180,000 shares of preferred and 600,000 shares of common with the same par value.

At the same time the stockholders approved the acquisition of all of the 42,000 shares of common stock of Saks & Co., which is owned by the Saks family, by exchange of 100,000 shares of common stock of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., and 30,000 shares of $100 par value preferred stock, and also to obtain the 3,000 shares of $100 par value of preferred stock of Saks & Co. in exchange for a promissory note of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., for $300,000, and due in 1927.

COTTON LIQUIDATION BREAKS OUT AGAIN

As has been so frequently the case in recent weeks, a decline in prices brought forced selling of cotton and carried quotations into new low territory. July contracts broke through 23¾ cents, a loss of 7 cents inside of two months. This developed several cross currents, producing one of the most feverish and erratic conditions prevalent in some time. Certain prominent operators covered contracts sold at higher levels and started a recovery of over half a cent. But the dominant note was still one of extreme nervousness, owing to the violence of the decline, lack of stability and absence of adequate explanations for the general demoralization. Prices lost 25 to 35 points.

After the collapse in American markets on Thursday, action of Liverpool in losing a cent a pound in both futures and spots was not surprising. An accumulation of overnight selling orders had to be executed on the opening so that all the July wanted at 24 cents was supplied on the call. For a few moments prices ranged between 24 cents and 24.20, when a rush of foreign and local selling again caught stop-loss orders and July broke through even figures to 23.70 with hardly a halt. Though scale buying made its appearance in late months, absence of support in July permitted a running break of nearly half a cent before the market turned. With July below 23¾ cents, this brought December under 22 cents. Several 2,000 and 5,000 bale orders in both October and December absorbed cotton during the morning decline, but without sufficient buying power to prevent lower quotations. A drive by various operators in both New York and New Orleans dislodged a great deal of cotton, some held by trade and spot house interests and some for commission house account. As the level represented a loss of 2 cents from opening figures of the previous day, an active covering movement occurred toward midday. One prominent trader in New Orleans was credited with the purchase of over 25,000 bales, which exerted a direct influence on the local market.

Weekly figures showing a visible supply of only 1,722,000 bales started a quite general covering movement. Prices at times rose sharply until July sold up 70 points from low figures of the morning. Even new crop months recovered nearly half a cent and for three hours the market churned around violently. Whenever a rush of buying occurred it became difficult to obtain contracts. Others once filled, prices fell away quickly without meeting support. Trading conditions reflected an unusual degree of nervousness owing to the erratic nature of fluctuations. When the stock market weakened the last hour prices gave way here and in New Orleans, July running off 60 points. October broke from 22¾ cents bac k to low figures of the session, with heavy trading in all positions. Closing prices seemed to be equally divided to an extent that prevented any final rally.

With the amount in eight this week, 81,000 bales against 157,000 last year, the month-end total for the season is 12,484,000, against 9,572,000 last year. This is considerably more than the entire crop produced in 1922, showing that some cotton carried over from previous crops has been marketed. Spinners took 174,000, against 227,000 a year ago, making 4,000,000 for the season, against 10,422,000 last year. This brought a reduction in [illegible] supply of 92,000 bales, compared with a loss of 70,000 last year, and leaves the supply of American cotton 1,322,000 against 3,250,000 a year ago.

A repetition of the pressure against the contract options in cotton was again evident in the lower price for spot cotton in yesterday's cash dealings, middling uplands dropping 35 points, to 25.30 cents, a new low for the year, and at this level approximately $40 a bale lower than the year's high point touched on March 17. BIG SALES OF WHEAT DOWN PRICES AGAIN

Reports of a 5,000,000-Bushel Liquidation the Day's Feature in Grain Markets.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Liquidation of a line of long wheat, estimated at 5,000,000 bushels, presumably held for Eastern account and which is said to have been bought at lower prices than those now prevailing, having been taken on when the crop scare started, was largely responsible for a sharp break in prices today, with all deliveries at a new low on the present down-turn.

Numerous stop-loss orders were caught at $1.16 and under for July, but there was free buying on scale orders by commission houses, which checked the decline, and at the last net losses were 1¾@2¼ cents, July leading. May closed 1¾ cents over July, against ¾ cent over the previous day.

There was little in the news that attracted much attention, although the forecast was for rather heavy rains and a breaking of the drought in the Central West.

Part of the support in July came from spreaders who were selling in Winnipeg and buying here. Judging from the amount of exchanging of futures under way, the export sales for the day exceeded the 330,000 bushels reported at the seaboard. At the inside figure today July was off 16¾ cents from the recent high.

Cash houses were good buyers of May corn at ½ cent under July early, and, while that delivery weakened at one time in sympathy with wheat, it advanced sharply toward the last on commission and cash house buying and closed ¾ cent over the July, compared with 3¼ cents under recently and closing unchanged for the day. While the deferred deliveries were 1¼@1¾ cents lower, the continued light receipts are having some effect on the May but have little bearing on the more distant futures.

It is understood that there is considerable corn held here for the account of cotton traders who have not commenced to liquidate.

It is expected that local stocks will show a reduction of between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 bushels for the week, making nearly 5,500,000 bushels in two weeks.

No. 2 yellow on spot sold at 4 to 5 cents over May, a new high for the season, as compared with futures.

Liquidation was on in rye with losses of 1¾ to 1¾ cents and May rye 3 cents under July, the widest discount of the season, at the last.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 503,000 bushels; week ago, 635,000; last year 1,248,000. Shipments were 511,000 bushels; week ago 568,000; last year 1,-075,000.

Corn receipts were 318,000 bushels; week ago, 487,000; last year, 957,000. and shipments, 647,000 bushels; week ago, 848,000; last year, 1,250,000.

DR. GRANT'S CHURCH SELLS NEAR-BY LOTS

Disposes of All Realty Except That Occupied by Edifice and Parish House.

The filing of the signed consent of Bishop Manning in the Supreme Court yesterday was necessary to enable the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant's Church of the Ascension to obtain an order from Justice Lehman permitting the sale of the only two parcels of real estate not embraced in the church property to pay for what the trustees call "extraordinary" repairs to the church to save the walls.

The court permits the sale of the property at 8 to 10 Horatio Street to the Chapel of the Holy Comforter for $37,500, but the property is mortgaged for $13,000, and the sale of 10 West Eleventh Street to former District Attorney Edward Swann for $40,000. This property is also mortgaged, and the net proceeds will be only $20,000, making the sum to be realised for the church only $30,000. The West Eleventh Street property adjoins the Ascension parish house on the east.

The petition of the trustees states that the sale is necessary to pay for the repairs to the church, concerning which the petition says:

"For some time past it has been noticed that the exterior walls of the church have been deteriorating because the building material was of soft stone. Particles of the walls dropped on the ground and on the steps of the main entrance of the church. In 1922 the church contracted to repair and treat the walls. The process was to chip away the affected parts and on the surface of the unimpaired stone pour molten wax under a strong draft, filling the pores. Failure to do so would have necessitated tearing down the church in a few years."

The petition of the Ascension trustees states that the cost of the work was $30,000, in which was included the rebuilding of the church tower and repairing stained glass windows because two sections of the ceiling fell while the walls were being repaired. The church borrowed $30,000 from the Guaranty Trust Company on a note to have the work done last year, and the proceeds of the sale of the realty are to be used to finish payments for the work and to pay off the note.

The trustees state that the market value of the church and grounds is $425,500, and the total mortgages are $95,000. The only personal asset of the church is an endowment fund of $230,000, the trustees say.

Fieldston

Property of the Delafield Estate at RIVERDALE

NEW YORK CITY

Fieldston is beyond question the most beautiful residential park in all of New York City.

It is the most highly developed property, both as to scenic beauty and artistic homes within a hundred miles of Times Square; yet, it is within walking distance of Van Cortlandt Park Subway Station.

The views over the Hudson River and Palisades and over Van Cortlandt Park are superb. The way in which clever architects have utilized the rocky eminences and the grand old trees make Fieldston a study for Schools of Architecture and architectural magazine articles.

There are still plots available and in justice to the very high class of present residents, I want to find enough people who appreciate such surroundings to take up these plots during this present drive, which must terminate with this month.

Shapes the Styles in Mens Hats

Which is Your Type?

Since the establishment of the LONG principle of making Hat Fashion Fit the Man, many thousands of men have been individually suited in LONG Hats, not only in head measurements, but in head requirements

ARE you stout, medium or slim? Dark or fair? Tall, short or average? Is your head large and round, or small and square, or long and thin?

These are a few of the broad types. If not to one of these, in some way you must belong to some type.

Yet you have your own individuality, irrespective of membership in any broad classification. No one looks just like you. No one has your personality.

The LONG staff has been trained to fit men with the right hats. For you, there is your personal LONG Hat, exactly suited to your individuality.

The master thought behind this fact of Custom Hatting is in keeping with all the principles of the LONG policy.

The foundations of the LONG policy are Quality, Value and Service. LONG Hats are not built to a price. They are made to quality standards first, then priced so low as to give extraordinary Value.

Quality is divided into three parts. These are Materials, Workmanship and Style. It is because his hats excel in each that LONG leads as a men's hatter.

Service, in the LONG conception, consists of serving you well at the time you buy—Custom Hatting you with the hat for you—and in serving you equally well by selling you hats that wear.

LONG is the world's largest retailer of fine hats because of Quality, Value and Service. On the other hand, LONG Quality, Value and Service can only be given because LONG is the world's largest retailer of fine hats. It is easy to see, however, that you benefit by all these conditions.

When getting your new straw, start with a hat best suited to Mr. You and your appearance. If it hasn't been made yet, LONG will make it for you.
